Military Council Takes Control

Tense Situation Created by Threat of Chang Tso-Lin to Attack Capital

Manchurian War Lord Said to be Moving Toward City With 30,000 Troops

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, Sept. 10.—The Peking Cabinet has been taken over by a military council, says a dispatch from Peking to the Daily Mail.

The dispatch adds that great activity prevails in the government departments and that the Finance Minister is trying to raise funds for military purposes. Shanghai merchants have telegraphed the Peking bankers not to advance any money to the government, saying this would only lengthen the war.

TROOPS MOBILIZED FOR CAPITAL'S DEFENSE

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PEKING, Sept. 10.—Reinforcements from the Chihli troops that will defend Peking against any attack by Gen. Chang Tso Lin, war lord of Manchuria, are being mobilized at Shanhaikwan and Haifengkou. It is estimated that the reinforcements exceed 50,000 men.

The northward movements of troops from the vicinity of Peking continues, evidently for the purpose of establishing battle lines a considerable distance from the capital against the threatened southward march of Chang's Manchurian forces.

The situation here is growing more tense hourly, despite the Peking government's apparent calm.

SIX ARMIES TO MAKE DRIVE ON PEKING

BY JOHN POWELD

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 10.—The outstanding events today in China's civil war were news received here that Chan Tso Lin, the Manchurian war lord, was dispatching six armies of 30,000 troops each for a drive against Peking, with an attack on Shanhaikwan definitely ordered for tomorrow, and the capture of Anting, on the Shanhai-Nanking railway, by the Chekiang troops of Gen. Lu Yung Hsiang.

Leaflets were scattered among the Chekiang troops today, carrying the signature of the Mukden war lord, urging them to hold on, as Gen. Chang Tso Lin was launching his drive on Peking immediately.

In spite of a heavy rain of nearly six inches, which turned the rice paddies of the lower Yangtse

COMMISSION ON WAY FOR MEXICO TRIP

El Paso Member to Meet Industrial Body at Dallas Previous to Tour

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

EL PASO, Sept. 10.—Harris Walthall, El Paso member of the American Industrial Commission to Mexico, left here Tuesday for Dallas, where he will meet other members of the commission coming from New York. After the meeting in Dallas, the members will tour Mexico, entering at Nuevo Laredo.

Among those whom Mr. Walthall will meet are Samuel M. Vauclain, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works; J. A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation; S. S. Gawthrop, vice-president of the American Car and Foundry Company; E. M. Herr, president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, and W. W. Nichols, president of the Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Company.

The Americans will visit President Obregon and make a survey of conditions in the southern republic, it is understood.

First Cold Wave of Year Sweeps East of Rockies

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—The first cold wave of the season which has been sweeping east from the Rockies with devastating effects in most farming sections of the North Central States, is on its way east.

Reports today say cold weather is spreading over the entire eastern half of the country with the lowest temperatures on record for so early in the season. New York State, Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia are feeling its effects.

Frost was general last night in the Mississippi Valley, northern and central Indiana and parts of Wisconsin, according to bulletins.

SYNTHETIC SUGAR IS NEW FEAT OF SCIENCE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ITHACA (N. Y.) Sept. 10.—For the first time in history man has succeeded in making sugar similar to that which the green leaves of plants have been yielding for countless ages, a meeting of the division of sugar chemistry of the American Chemical Society at Cornell University was told today.

This result, called by chemists one of the great triumphs of modern times, was achieved by Dr. E. C. C. Baly, senior professor of chemistry in the University of Liverpool, England. He told the society he had made formaldehyde from carbon dioxide and water with the aid of ultra violet light and sugar developed from the formaldehyde.

Principal J. C. Irvin of the Ancient Scottish University of St. Andrew's, it was anounced by independent investigation, had proved that the product evolved by Prof. Baly was glucose sugar.

CREWS WAGE DESPERATE BATTLE WITH FLAMES

County Forces Rushed to Stem New Attack of Fire in Fish Canyon; Foothills Are Threatened

In a desperate effort to save Fish Canyon from the ravages of the fire demon that has been laying waste thousands of acres of the San Gabriel watershed, County Forester Flintham and his men entered the fight against the fire yesterday.

Flintham and his men will handle the Fish Canyon side of the fire independently of the government men under District Forest Supervisor Charlton, who are fighting the big blaze from Monrovia Canyon, Berry Flats and far up on the West Fork of the San Gabriel River.

Within two hours of the time that Flintham made his decision to re-enter the fight after withdrawing a week ago, truckloads of men and supplies were rumbling into Fish Canyon. A field telephone line was laid right up to the fire lines so that the main office in Los Angeles can know just what progress is being made on the fire. The county men will make a hand-to-hand fight with the blaze without resorting to backfiring and hope to pinch the fire off from coming down into the canyon and low into the foothills. A force of 200 men is fighting the fire in Fish Canyon.

RUSH FIREBREAK

The fight to save the canyon has resolved itself into a desperate race between the onrushing flames and the men working night and day to construct the firebreak, which is hoped will save the canyon. At midnight last night work on the firebreak at the mouth of the canyon was begun by a fresh crew of men.

The Angeles Forest Protective Association last night sent 100 additional fire-fighters from Sierra Madre to work on the firebreak. This firebreak will be joined with the one at Deer Park. Flintham's men have cut many trails to the re zone and are cutting still more.

The fire last night was burning on a fifteen-mile front. Like an army drawn up in battle formation for the attack the fire-fighters are assembling for the combat to save Fish Canyon. Belief was expressed that the firebreak will be completed by noon today.

FIRE ON NEW TACK

Whipping in behind the new firebreak that was constructed last week, the fire took a new tack yesterday and was reported as roaring up the West Fork of the San Gabriel River.

The firebreak around which the fire swung early yesterday morning is the one that stopped the fire a week ago as it was traveling up the fork of the river. It was run from the West Fork at a point near Bear Canyon, southward up the mountain. When the fire broke loose again last Sunday at

HAWAII STRIKE ZONE QUIET

Death Toll of Battle Nineteen; More Than 100 Filipinos Jailed; Troops Mobilized

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

HONOLULU, Sept. 10.—The "Garden Isle" of Kauai was quieter today after a fight yesterday between police and Filipino strikers resulting in nineteen deaths and injuries to many other strikers.

Mobilization in part of the Hawaii National Guard under orders today of Gov. Wallace R. Farrington and private advices from Kauai that conditions were quiet with planters reporting a good labor turnout, were the principal developments in the situation today. Reports from Kauai stated that no recurrence of Tuesday's violence was expected.

The fight between the police and a band of strikers armed with stones, clubs, knives and some guns, followed an attempt by the police to rescue two Filipino workers who were kidnaped Monday by the strikers. Acting Adjt.-Gen. E. M. Bolton hurried to the scene of the trouble by air, reporting back to the Governor today.

"The Kauai affair is a sad but unfortunate natural result of the vicious campaign which has been carried on among the strikers to prevent men from working even when they greatly desired to do so," the Governor declared in a formal statement.

"At the request of Sheriff Rice (of the county of Kauai) and on the basis of Adjt.-Gen. Bolton's report I have ordered the commander of the guard to send to Kauai such officers, men and equipment as he deemed necessary to deal

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Results in Republican primaries yesterday furnished more testimony of the hold President Coolidge has on the people.

Speaker Gillett, the President's choice for Republican candidate for United States Senator, was overwhelmingly nominated in Massachusetts.

Senator Cousens won the Republican nomination to succeed himself in Michigan by a comparatively narrow margin. Mr. Cousens led the attack on Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in the last session of Congress and probably was not the President's favorite in the primary fight, but the significant fact is that the Senator despite his insurgency felt it necessary to announce during his canvass that he would support Coolidge and Dawes.

Thanking God for Coolidge would seem to be in order on the part of the G.O.P. A few months ago it seemed as if the party could not hope to win the election this year. Now, you need not go beyond the admissions of both the Democratic and third-party leaders to realize that the Republicans have the inside track at this writing.

The only visible explanation of the phenomenon is Coolidge. He has won the confidence of the people. The oil scandal has not injured the Republican party appreciably if one may accept the evidence of the Maine election. The Democrats were confident that the oil scandal would cost the Republicans the Senatorship and one or more Congress seats. On the contrary, Senator Fernald, Republican, was re-elected by an unusually large plurality and the Republicans won all four house seats, including one which frequently goes to the Democrats.

Senator La Follette was formally notified today that he is to receive the German vote of the country solidly. A committee of the Stuben Society, headed by William Meuser, communicated to the Senator the organization's indorsement of his candidacy at its convention in Detroit last week.

GILLETT IS WINNER BY LARGE PLURALITY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—Speaker Frederick H. Gillett of the national House of Representatives, whose candidacy for the Republican nomination for United States Senator was supported by chairman William M. Butler of the Republican National Committee, and by Gov. Cox, had a plurality of 51,898 over his nearest opponent, Louis A. Coolidge, treasurer of the United Shoe Machinery Company, when tabulation of the vote cast in yesterday's primaries in Massachusetts was virtually completed late today.

With only the little town of Monroe, Franklin county, missing, the candidates for the Republican nomination for Senator stood as follows:

Coolidge, 93,859; Congressman Frederick W. Dallinger, 82,630; Gillett, 145,357.

Mr. Gillett will be opposed in the November election by United States Senator David I. Walsh, who was unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

The returns brought the majority of Lieut.-Gov. Alvan T. Fuller, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor against State Treasurer James Jackson, to 45,804. The vote was: Fuller, 190,404; Jackson, 144,600. Mayor James M. Curley of Boston was unopposed for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

SENATOR COUZENS GAINS IN MICHIGAN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DETROIT (Mich) Sept. 10.—Senator James Couzens, nominated in Tuesday's primary election as the Republican candidate for United States Senator, had increased to 53,651 his lead over his closest rival, Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle, when tabulation was halted tonight. With only 235 of the State's 2765 precincts missing, the vote stood:

Couzens, 333,367; Tuttle, 279,716.

MEANS HOLDS LEAD IN COLORADO SENATE RACE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DENVER, Sept. 10.—Rice W. Means of Denver, supported by the Ku Klux Klan, appeared tonight to have been nominated in Tuesday's primary as the Republican candidate for United States Senator to succeed the late Samuel D. Nicholson. With 1228 precincts out of the State's 1492 reported, Means had 43,112 votes to 34,436 for Charles W. Waterman of Denver, and 22,213 for Charles J. Moynihan of Montrose.

Judge Clarence J. Morley of the Denver District Court, also supported by the Klan, was leading Robert F. Rockwell of Paonia, for the Republican nomination for Governor. For Governor 1200 precincts had reported. These gave Morley 50,719, Rockwell 45,486, and Earl Cooley, the anti-Klan candidate, 6116.

Morrison Shaffroth of Denver will be the Democratic candidate for the short term United States Senatorship. He was leading Benjamin C. Hilliard by more than 14,000 votes tonight.

WORLD FLYERS WILL COME DIRECT TO CLOVER FIELD

Airmen to Arrive Here Next Week by Southern Route; Are Held in Capital for Defense Day

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The American 'round-the-world flyers, Lieuts. Smith, Nelson and Wade, will arrive at Clover Field, Santa Monica, about the middle of next week en route to Seattle, Wash., which city has been designated as the terminus of their historic world-engirdling flight.

This became known tonight when the Army Air Service announced that the aviators would fly to their destination over the southern instead of the western route, as originally planned.

The flyers will not start their journey west until Saturday, according to an announcement by Secretary of War Weeks, who said the aviators will remain in the capital to participate in Defense Day exercises on Friday.

HOP TO DAYTON

Saturday they will take off for Dayton, O., where their airplanes will be subjected to a severe test by the engineering headquarters at McCook field. This work will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible and may be completed in one day, thereby permitting the flyers to hop off from Dayton on Monday for Chicago.

From Chicago they will proceed to St. Joseph, Mo., Muskogee, Okla., Dallas, Tex., El Paso, Tex., Tucson, Ariz., San Diego, Cal., Santa Monica, Cal., thence north to San Francisco, Eugene, Or., and then to Seattle, Wash.

Today the flyers departed for Bolling Field at an early hour to overhaul their motors and Lieut. Eric Nelson, pilot of the New Orleans, went to Halethorp, Md., where he was forced to land yesterday after stripping all his gears, and brought that plane to Bolling Field today after the repairs had been completed.

HARD WORKERS

Throughout the entire world flight the pilots and their mechanicians have attended to their own overhauling after each flight often working fourteen hours a day while the populace stood around waiting for a chance to tell them what heroes they were.

Heroics in the air and hard work on the ground have been the daily routine of this modest group of airmen for nearly six months and there is no indication that they are ready to change their habits upon their arrival home.

The announcement of the revised itinerary said:

"Before the flight had reached the United States plans to have it take the most direct route to Seattle, Wash., its terminus, were drawn up and approved. This contemplated the crossing of the Rocky and Cascade Mountains over the air mail route, which is now being flown by the airplanes of the Postoffice Department.

"The condition of the airplanes of the around-the-world flight could not be foreseen at that time, but upon its arrival in Boston and at the urgent request of the flight commander, the route must now be changed. The airplanes have been subjected to over 300 hours of the most strenuous flying to which any aircraft were ever exposed, the strains of which have considerably reduced their efficiency, and it will be impossible for them to reach an altitude of over 6500 feet without danger.

ALTITUDE LOWER

"Having in mind only the successful completion of this great undertaking, it has been found necessary to change the original plan and route the planes over the southern portion of the United States, where they will cross the Rockies at their lowest altitude and be in a position to take advantage of excellent existing airdromes, passing up the Coast to

THREE POSE AS OFFICERS, LOOT HOME

Three badge bandits posing as prohibition enforcement officers last night raided the home of Mrs. Milton J. Johner, 208 North Beachwood Drive, and, while one of them held Mrs. Johner in the front of the house, looted it of diamonds, cash and valuables to the total amount of $7788, she reported to the Wilshire police last night.

Mrs. Johner, who is separated from her husband pending the outcome of divorce proceedings, reported that the three men knocked at her door last night and demanded entrance to search for liquor. One of them displayed a deputy sheriff's badge, she said. Two ransacked the house while the third detained her in the front room, she reported.

When the raiders departed, she stated, she found the following missing: One diamond ring valued at $5000; one diamond ring valued at $2000; one diamond pin valued at $400; a gold watch valued at $200; cash, $15.50, and numerous other articles of lesser value.

GLACIER ON MT. SHASTA ON RAMPAGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

YREKA, Sept. 10.—The Mount Shasta Glacier, dislodged by the continued drought and warm weather, has slipped from its ancient resting place on the north side of the mountain and is moving down the slope at a rate of five miles an hour, snapping off big trees in its path and thrusting immense boulders before it.

The movement began a short time after dawn and at noon the huge mass of ice was well within the timber line. Huge clouds of vapor are rising as the moraines of the glacier are being broken up by its movement and these clouds are forming one big cloud over the head of the moving mass.

The journey of the glacier can be seen from a distance of twenty miles. It is accompanied by a distinct roar which also can be heard over a long distance.

The glacier movement is apparently not related to the phenomenon of heavy mud flow on the opposite side of the mountain recently. This flow is believed to have start from other ice deposits melting under many days of hot sunshine.

PRINCE'S PARTY IS ROBBED

Thieves Get $250,000 in Jewels in Cosden Home; Including Famous Gems of Lady Mountbatten

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Jewels valued at $250,000 among which were many famous gems, were stolen early yesterday from Lady Mountbatten and Mrs. Richard Norton, both members of the party of the Prince of Wales, and from their hostess, Mrs. J. S. Cosden, at the latter's estate at Sands Point, it was learned today.

Reports to insurance companies which had underwritten the gems and to police headquarters, tore aside the veil of secrecy which had been drawn over the robbery. Details are being kept secret, but enough has been learned to establish the fact that it almost certainly was not the work of ordinary house-breakers, and that the servants also are probably guiltless.

The police of Port Washington, under Chief Frederick Snow, are looking for the thieves among the numerous hangers-on of the Prince's party, several of whom have proved at previous parties that it is possible for presentable wearers of evening clothes to "crash the gate" at exclusive functions.

NO ORDINARY CROOKS

Capt. Snow was confident today that no ordinary cracksmen could have eluded the vigilance of his force, which is peculiarly on the alert at all times because of rum runners, and which has increased its vigilance with the arrival of members of the Prince's party. Ordinary cracksmen loitering in the neighborhood would have been at once picked up and questioned, he pointed out.

Both Lord and Lady Mountbatten and Mrs. Norton have their own servants, who are beyond suspicion. The staff of the Cosden house has been augmented with the increased demands of the presence of the Prince's party, and it is admitted that one or more of them may have been the thieves.

According to F. J. Farley, superintendent of the Luisi investigation Company, the robbery was a "sneak thief" job. He said that the thieves contented themselves with picking up jewels that had been worn the night before and left without looking on dressing tables, although there were others which might have been found with a little search.

The jewels were in the rooms occupied by Lady Mountbatten, Mrs. Norton and their hostess, Farley said. Gerard Luisi, head of

BOYS WILL BE MADE TO WORK

Warden Says Leopold and Loeb to Get No Favors

Will Begin Expiation Soon as Door Clangs on Them

To be Assigned to Manual Labor in Beginning

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

JOLIET (Ill.) Sept. 10.—Nathan F. Leopold and Richard Loeb will receive exactly the same treatment accorded any other prisoners in the State prison here, Warden John L. Whitman said tonight after plans for receiving the youths were completed.

"There will be no side door or back-way entrance for Loeb and Leopold," the warden said. "They will enter the front door the same as any other prisoner, passing through the corridor and then into the guard hall. Here they will find they are under prison discipline."

They will begin to expiate their crime in a few moments after they pass into the grim gray stone structure, which houses more than 3000 prisoners. Inside the entrance is an iron door. When this clangs behind them they will be ruled henceforth by prison regulations.

TO GET MANUAL LABOR

The boys will be assigned to manual labor of some kind, the warden said. The prison conducts shoe shops, furniture shops, rattan shops, a stone quarry, a machine shop and smaller shops. In one of these the boys will be put to work.

"They will have no office work at the start," Warden Whitman said. "New prisoners are often spoiled by being given office positions. They do not learn to adapt themselves to prison life. That is the real essential and that is why Loeb and Leopold will be put at some kind of manual labor when we find to what they are best adapted."

The last number issued today was 9304 and if Loeb and Leopold arrive here before any other prisoners their numbers will be 9305 and 9306.

After being photographed, they will be given a bath and then will be led to the prison barber for a shave and haircut.

TO RETAIN SHEIK CUTS

The boys will not lose their sheik haircuts, Warden Whitman said, but added they will have to be satisfied with a modified form of hirsute adornment.

From the barber they will go to another room, where they will face the identification expert to have measurements and finger prints taken, and then they will be given their first suit of prison clothes. These will not be new suits, Warden Whitman explained, but are uniforms reserved for new prisoners.

The regular prison garb, awarded later, consists of underwear, shirt, trousers, shoes and stockings. Once a month other outer garb is issued.

Their first night in prison will be in "solitary," and it is in "court solitary" that they will first be separated, possibly never to meet or to speak to one another again for years, although under the roof of the same institution.

SEPARATE ROOMS

"Court solitary" is a remnant of an old statute providing that each prisoner must spend his first day and one day in each year spent in prison in solitary confinement. The youths will be placed in separate rooms for their first night in prison.

Next morning they will face the prison physician and psychiatrist for examination, and will be assigned regular prison garb. After again being photographed, they will be assigned to cells and to work. At this time they will also be cautioned that absolute silence must be maintained in dining-room, chapel, in the baths and while marching. They may talk to fellow-prisoners while working and may talk to their cellmates.

Warden Whitman made it plain they will not be confined in the same cell. One will be on one side of the prison building, the other on the opposite side. They may possibly see one another in marching or in the dining halls, but will have no opportunity to converse. For a time at least they will not have cellmates, but will be kept alone, the warden indicated.

the firm, has gone to the Cosden estate and will receive a list of the stolen gems there.

COMBINATION JOB

Private detectives representing Lloyds, Ltd., of London, said after investigation at Sands Point that they believed the robbery a combination inside and outside job. The State police and the police of Nassau county have not received reports of the robbery, they said today.

At the Cosden home it was said that Mr. Cosden had gone to New York. At Mr. Cosden's office here it was said that he was not in—which in this case apparently meant that he did not care to discuss the affair.

Mr. Farley said that the jewels lost by Mrs. Cosden were valued at about $80,000. He did not know how the balance of the estimated loss was divided between Lady Mountbatten and Mrs. Norton.

Representatives of the Federal Insurance Company and the National Surety Company, together with the Lloyds' detectives are investigating the robbery, according to Farley. The Federal and National companies are understood to have insured the Cosden jewelry.

Mrs. Cosden is the wife of a wealthy oil man, who is also the owner of one of the largest racing stables in the United States. Her collection of gems is noted for its beauty and value, as is that of Lady Mountbatten.

STEAL AUTO TIRES

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Sept. 10.—Fourteen large automobile tires valued at $1000 comprised the loot of a burglar who robbed the Frank B. Cole service garage on East Colorado street last night. The tires were carried away in a truck, detectives believe. Entrance was gained by smashing the glass in the front door. Detective Lieutenants Decker and McNulty are working on the case.

GIBBET CHEATED IN FRANKS CASE

Even as Judge Caverly declined to break precedent by sentencing the boys to hang, so he declined to make precedent by ruling definitely on the big legal technicality of this case, whether a degree of mental sickness, short of legal insanity might be linked with moral turpitude as a mitigating circumstance. All through the six weeks of the actual hearing this question was the technical background with the State's attorney trying to switch the proceedings into an insanity hearing and the defense insisting that the question of insanity was barred by terms of the pleas of guilty.

The court said the analysis of the boys' lives and present mental, emotional and ethical condition was a "valuable contribution to criminology," but he declared that application of such material to crime was a subject for legislative, rather than judicial determination.

Ten short minutes served for enactment of the final court scene in the unparalleled criminal drama, but it was ten minutes crowded with suspense. The old room held all the familiar figures, save Jacob Franks, father of the victim, when court convened promptly at 9:30 a.m. While only attorneys, members of the interested families, court attaches, guards and newspaper workers were admitted, there was so many of the two latter classes that the circle before the bench was jammed and nearly half the public space was occupied.

No time was lost in preliminaries.

"Have the two defendants anything to say in either case?" asked the judge.

"No, Your Honor," responded Benjamin Bachrach for the defense.

Then the judge began to read. He had finished about four sentences when the clicking of newspaper cameras disturbed him.

"I'll wait for you fellows," he said, turning to the photographers who were massed on his right, where their instruments would cover the judge, attorneys and defendants. A rapid fire of shutter clicks followed, interrupted by the jurist's sharp:

"That's all."

JUDGE SHOWS STRAIN

The latter was high pitched and the delivery jerky, in contrast with the low, even tones in which he had conducted the proceedings throughout the six weeks of the hearing previously to August 29.

He read with great rapidity, too, and rushed to his conclusion without ordering the defendants to stand to receive their sentences.

When the formal language of the sentence brought him to the point where he read directly to "you, Nathan Leopold, Jr.," and again to "you, Richard Loeb," there was only the briefest possible glance by the judge in the direction of the youths.

The boys listened intently. Leopold's "poker face" lacked its customary high coloring, but his facial muscles were under perfect control. Loeb's lower jaw hung a bit loosely as he sat with parted lips, drinking in every word of the court's findings.

Judge Caverly's first definite conclusion was that the pleas of guilty did not make a special case in favor of the defendants. The smiles which the State's Attorney and his assistants wore into court, did not abate a jot at this. Nor did it operate to relieve the gravity with which Mr. Darrow and his associate defense counsel, Walter and Benjamin Bachrach, listened to the judge.

WORRIES DEFENSE

A few moments later there was further pronouncement depressing for the defense when the court adjudged that "neither in the act itself, nor in its motive or lack of motive, nor in the antecedents of the offenders was there to be found any mitigating circumstance."

It sounded like a death sentence, and the impression was heightened as the judge followed this summary with quotations from the statutes defining the crimes of murder and kidnaping for ransom and fixing the penalties therefore.

Then he suggested that in cases of such great responsibility some States had wisely provided that three judges should determine the penalties.

There was a note of weariness in his voice as he read:

"The court would have welcomed the counsel and support of others."

"Nevertheless, the court is willing to meet his responsibilities," he added firmly. Still the shadow of the gallows hung in the tense room, but the next sentence dispelled it.

"It would have been the path of least resistance to impose the extreme penalty of the law. In choosing imprisonment instead of death the court is moved chiefly by the consideration of the age of the defendants, boys of 18 and 19 years."

Youth was in the ascendant now and the defense attorneys' faces showed an everlightening burden, while the prosecutors in turn became grave as the import of the words struck home.

BOYS REMAIN RIGID

The boys themselves remained at rigid attention. Loeb blinked and gulped, but not a perceptible muscle moved in Leopold. The latter's aged father raised streaming eyes to the bench, and his older son, Foreman Leopold, who has supported the stricken father by word and presence throughout the ordeal, squared his athletic shoulders in relief.

Allen Loeb, brother of "Dickie" and their uncle, Jacob Loeb, former president of the Chicago Board of Education, shifted to more upright positions.

There followed words of counsel to the public, the court asking that the people generally consider that the "prolonged suffering of years of confinement" would be "the severer form of expiation" to youths "of the type they are" reared in homes of luxury, successful in school and unquestioned in their goings and comings by indulgent parents.

Again the court digressed as in a few sentences he advised future officials of the State department of public welfare not to parole the offenders.

"To such a policy the court urges them strictly to adhere," he said. There remained only the formal words of the actual sentencing, delivered without break in the rapid fire of words from the bench.

No pause intervened, either, as the judge directed his clerk to distribute copies of the findings and ordered deputy sheriffs to retire with the prisoners.

Judge Caverly was on his feet as this order was completed, and headed for his chambers even as the final gavel fell on the court proceedings in the famous case.

Jailers fairly hustled Leopold and Loeb away. Nathan had no chance to pause before his counsel, but a jam in the aisle permitted Loeb to fondle Clarence Darrow's arm momentarily.

"Everybody out!" called a bailiff, but his admonition was not needed. Attorneys broke through cordons of newspaper interviewers. Allen Loeb hurried to a telephone to send the news to Charlevoix, Mich., where Richard's father and mother are ill, and other members of the family passed rapidly into the corridors, entered waiting elevators and hurried to their automobiles.

Judge Caverly chatted with a few friends in his chambers, but refused to receive interviewers.

After about three-quarters of an hour, he slipped away through the jury room and left the building so quickly that his going was not noticed by people on the street.

LAST DAY IN JAIL

Leopold and Loeb, their future plotted in drab cells at the Illinois State penitentiary, passed what probably marked their last day in Cook County Jail today in a mood akin to jovial.

Awaiting final preparations of papers which would formally establish them as "lifers"—and under a decision hoping against pardon or parole—the two youths were able to joke and laugh over the prospects of their new predicament.

"I don't see how we can serve ninety-nine years and life at the same time," Leopold remarked to his guard.

"We are in from now on, so it doesn't make any difference when you take us down," Loeb told an attache of the Sheriff's office who visited his cell to confirm details of personal history for commitment papers.

JUDGE RECEIVES PAPERS

Judge Caverly, freed from the burden which has been his since July 21, sat pensively over the papers carried to his hotel suite tonight for signature. There remained then only the preparation of the formal history of the case by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe before the automobile journey to Joliet, some forty miles south, began.

Nathan Leopold, senior, aged and grieved parent, will have his namesake and heir serve out his time.

"Surely, surely," he replied in broken voice when asked if he would be satisfied to have his son remain in the penitentiary for life.

"There is but little to say," said Jacob Loeb, uncle of Richard. "We have been spared the extreme penalty, but what have these two families to look forward to?"

REMOVAL UNDECIDED

State's Attorney Crowe indicated that all arrangements to move the boys to Joliet tonight had been completed but asserted that the transfer was within the jurisdiction of Sheriff Peter Hoffman, who had not decided early tonight upon final details for the removal.

The boys, meanwhile at the jail in which they passed 113 days, resumed the humdrum routine of the trial days—except in the matter of diet, in which they appeared on a final lark against an uncharted future. Chocolate eclairs, three-inch steaks, numerous side dishes and plentous helpings of choice deserts were waiting the youths when they returned to the cell. They tackled them with gusto, chatting lightheartedly.

with the situation promptly and effectively."

The Filipino plantation workers have been on strike several months, following a dispute with the employers over wages and the length of the working day.

Nineteen bodies, of which four were those of Hawaiian special officers, are lying in improvised morgues at Lihue; another Filipino is believed to be fatally wounded; eleven others, seriously injured, are in hospitals, while innumerable others are suffering from minor injuries. There are 168 Filipinos in jail at Lihue and sixteen at Waimea.

The stage for the fighting was set on Monday when Marcello Alepio and another Filipino, returning from work, were kidnaped, bound and beaten by strikers. Deputy Sheriff Crowell visited the strikers camp and attempted to obtain the release of the two men.

The strikers defied him so he returned to Lihue and obtained a court order which he served on Tuesday, obtaining the release of the men, despite the threats of the strikers who followed him to the place where he had left a force of forty special officers. The officers retreated to a rocky hill, the Filipinos following and surrounding them.

A Filipino, armed with two revolvers, shot at, but missed Crowell. Thereupon a special officer shot and killed the Filipino.

Another Filipino who lunged at Crowell with a cane knife, was shot dead by the deputy sheriff, while a third and fourth Filipino, who also attacked him, were killed by special officers.

The police stationed on the hilltop picked off the Filipinos with carbines, whereupon the strikers fled, some of them jumping into the Hanapepe River. The firing lasted about five minutes. Police reinforcements rounded up all the Filipinos in the vicinity.

The entire region is closely guarded, officers fearing that the funeral of the Filipinos death this afternoon might be followed by further trouble.

William Ezerby, vice-president and assistant manager of the American Factors, Limited, who has returned from Kauai, said the Filipino strikers at Hanapepe camp were drilling in military formation on Monday night after Crowell's first visit, apparently rehearsing in the expectation of violence.

EDITORS SCORE BOY PENALTIES

Hold Decision Will Shake Faith in Courts

Some Say Terror Banished for Rich Murderers

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—That the decision of Judge Caverly in the Franks murder case is a miscarriage of justice is the general tone of editorial comment on the verdict. As a general thing, the newspapers believe the decision shakes the faith of the people in the courts and indicates what the power of money can do. Some newspapers predict that in the future the courts can hold no terror for rich murderers, who, with the aid of cunning lawyers, can avoid the penalty for their crimes.

New York Evening Sun: The failure of the law to impose upon Leopold and Loeb the fullest penalty that could be exacted for their crime is deeply to be regretted. When these wretches escape capital punishment, what is the sense of capital punishment at all? No murder more revolting than theirs, no murder done more coldly, cruelly and deliberately was ever committed.

The sentence shakes the faith of the people in the blind equality of justice. They will not believe that any poor man who committed the crime to which Loeb and Leopold pleaded guilty—or any crime approaching its diabolic brutality—would have escaped death in any State where capital punishment exists.

Brooklyn Eagle: He (Judge Caverly) makes the latter choice on one ground alone, which is the youth of the criminals. In the State of Illinois, the judge points out, no minor has ever been sentenced to death on a plea of guilty.

There will, of course, be much criticism of Judge Caverly's decision. It will be noted that other minors have been hanged in the State of Illinois and elsewhere and that these boys were of more than average intelligence and entirely conscious of the criminal quality of their act.

Whether Judge Caverly has made a mistake or not will remain a matter of opinion.

Kansas City Journal-Post: Judge Caverly has enacted the role of the "friendly" judge of whom one of the defendants was declared to have boasted and the theory that there is one set of laws for the rich and another for the friendless poor has resulted substantial support, as civil propaganda, gnawing at the very vitals of national confidence and pride.

In the face of Judge Caverly's decision, the death penalty never again should be inflicted in Illinois, where these two wanton and merciless murderers, perpetrators of a crime too morbid to be given in detail to the public, escape the fate so justly deserved and pass from the jurisdiction of a "friendly" judge and take up the vigil of waiting the advent of a "friendly" parole or pardoning power to send for them an incident doubtless somewhat costly and annoying.

Kansas City Star: In dealing with crime the protection of society is the first consideration. The Chicago judge has sent two wrecked murderers to prison from which they expect a pardon in a few years. In doing this he has failed to protect society.

The Chicago Tribune: If the punishment given the murderers meets the approval of the people of the State their approval indicates that the retention of capital punishment by death in any case in this State is wrong. We do not see how the conscience of the State would permit any person to be sentenced to the gallows hereafter, if the public approves the punishment in this case. It seems to us that the next person about whose neck an Illinois sheriff knots a rope has a case against the people of Illinois, which eternal justice would uphold. A life sentence is not a final decision of justice. We hope in this case the life sentences mean imprisonment for life. But no one knows.

Detroit Free Press—The general public will consider it a serious failure of justice, and the more it thinks the matter over the more dissatisfied and critical it is likely to become. If the offense does not merit the extreme penalty it is possible to inflict, then no offense does.

Philadelphia Evening Ledger—Judge Caverly sought to apply sane principles of restraint to his seasoned technique.

The Philadelphia Inquirer—An amazing verdict.

The Philadelphia Record—Wealth, and the assistance it buys, however, made of their effort to evade the gallows a sort of test between the power of money and the power of the law. The outcome will unfortunately be accepted by many as a triumph for money.

New York Times—Judge Caverly's decision sentencing Leopold and Loeb to life imprisonment instead of inflicting upon them extreme penalty of the law for a most atrocious murder comes as a great surprise, not because of its substance, but because of the reasons given for it. It was the youth of the murderers that influenced the judge. But this had not been prominently urged in the appeals to him to show mercy. Counsel for the criminals had introduced a vast array of testimony and hypothesis going to show that they were mentally diseased. But all this is swept aside by the court.

Let it be said at once that such a decision for such a reason will break the charge that Leopold and Loeb escaped death solely because their families were rich enough to pay large fees to lawyers. What the lawyers did or said for the defense went for nothing. Judge Caverly simply ignored it. Had the youthful murderers been poor and friendless they would have escaped capital punishment precisely as Leopold and Loeb have escaped it. The judge has effectually stopped the mouths of those who might have been inclined to complain that in Illinois there is one law for the poor and another for the rich.

Milwaukee Journal—The sentence of Loeb and Leopold strikes another blow at the courts. No crime could be committed that calls for capital punishment if this does not. The general public is going to ask: "What's the use?"

Montreal Star—The ghastly misgiving with which many hearts will sink today will be whether Judge Caverly in sparing these lads in their late teens from the executioner, has not sentenced many another Bobby Franks to death.

Mexico City, Sept. 10.—Judge Caverly's decision in sentencing Loeb and Leopold to life imprisonment is widely condemned here. Mexicans and members of the foreign colony here took much interest in the case and during the trial many followed the proceedings in the papers. It was not expected here that the boys could get other than the extreme penalty.

New York Herald-Tribune.—The sentences imposed upon Leopold and Loeb seem inadequate justice, and we believe most people will share our feeling. To most of those who followed the testimony in Chicago these youths were not youths in the ordinary sense, but graduates and pastmasters in the ferocities and impulses of criminality. If ever two murderers deserved death these two did on the record established. That they escaped the death penalty must weaken fear of the law in all others with murder in their hearts.

New York World.—Judge Caverly chose life imprisonment rather than the death penalty, not because Loeb and Leopold are mentally diseased, but because he does not believe in capital punishment for persons under 21 years of age. It was on that basis that Judge Caverly wisely made his decision.

Baltimore Sun.—It is a regrettable fact that by many people the sentence will be looked upon as proof that great wealth can find a way to evade the proper penalty for crime, while the more skeptical will declare that there is no assurance at all that within reasonable time it will not also find a way to release from confinement and turn loose upon society criminals who deserve no mercy.

Boston Herald—We cannot but feel this is an unfortunate conclusion to one of the most hideous crimes committed in America.

Indianapolis Star—The people of the United States are not concerned with what happens to those two young men, except so far as their punishment involves respect for law and the agencies of justice. What we need in this country is certainty that punishment will be swift and adequate. Britain has fewer crimes and life is more secure over there because no influence or maudlin sentiment is permitted to interfere with the ends of justice.

Hartford Courant—The fact is that if those boys had been poor, without money to hire alienists and lawyers, a jury would have strung them up and the world would have been thankful that they had quit it. Such creatures do not deserve to live. The penalty of life imprisonment is to cease to be such. It is always possible, with money and influence and often by appeal to sentiment, to get paroles or pardons.

Washington Post—The best feature of the decision is that it has been finally rendered, thus helping to take this infamous case from the field of public discussion. Judge Caverly contributed too much to the notoriety and sensationalism that marred the administration of justice in this case. The long-drawn-out hearing was unwarranted. No valuable facts were developed, as the judge himself admits. He could have passed upon the questions of youthfulness and abnormality in a single day without any testimony whatever.

MOTHER OF FRANKS BOY IS SATISFIED

Tells How Murdered Son Had Opposed Hanging in Article He Wrote

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—The sentence of life and ninety-nine years is just what she expected and just what she wanted, Mrs. Jacob Franks told friends tonight.

"They did such earnest work," she told them, "and all did their duty, but Bobby didn't believe in capital punishment. He wrote about it, and read his article in school, and he told me it was wrong, and somehow, after that—how could I ask it? I didn't want to do or say anything to interfere with the prosecution, of course, but I didn't want them to hang. I have felt for the last three weeks that they wouldn't hang."

Mr. Franks, who had been called away from his hotel apartment by the sickness of a friend, did not see Mrs. Franks until this evening. He had not attempted to communicate with her, he said, because they both felt that the sentence would be "life."

"I am glad it is over because this means the end," he declared tonight.

"There can be no hearing in regard to their sanity, there can be no appeal, there can be no more torture by seeing this thing spread over the front pages of the newspapers. It will be easier for Mrs. Franks and for me to be relieved of the terrible strain of all this publicity. It has kept the picture before us constantly."

Marines Ready in Honduras as Neutral Guard

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10. — A landing force of 100 sailors from the light cruiser Rochester was put ashore today at Ceiba, Honduras, and the ship is proceeding to Tela to act as a guard for the American Consulate there.

A dispatch announcing the landing was sent by Capt. Hayes Ellis, commander the Rochester, explaining that American and foreign lives had been threatened.

ROBBERY SUSPECT TAKEN

An old crime was attributed yesterday to Ed H. Stevens by Detective Lieutenants Hamilton and Mayer, following his arrest in Long Beach. On May 24, last, they said, he held up J. Samuels in his room at 153 North Bixel street and robbed him of $16.

CREWS BATTLE TO STEM FIRES

With the fire breaking in faster than expected behind the old firebreak, doubt was expressed that the new firebreak could be put in from the West Fork in time to head the fire off in its march up the river toward the Monrovia watershed and Mt. Wilson. The race is on with Rangers Schrader, Buxton and Mueller pushing a big crew of men to the utmost in the construction of the firebreak.

The supreme effort to stop the fire will be made along this firebreak, which will join one being built from the neighborhood of Deer Park, east of Monrovia Canyon. When the firebreak is completed it will make a clean line from the West Fork, south along Monrovia Peak past Deer Park and southeast to tie into the head of Fish Canyon, if the fire can be held at that point.

From the Monrovia Canyon end of the firebreak, 350 men under District Ranger Anderson of Pasadena; Ranger Vetter of Monrovia and C. G. Dunwoody, president of the Angeles Forest Protective Association are doing the work. It is expected that if the wind is favorable the fire can be brought to a halt along the firebreak by touching off a backfire at the proper time. Supervisor Charlton, who is directing the fight, is optimistic of the outcome.

If the fire reaches the foothill lands at the mouth of Fish Canyon there will be but little chance to prevent blazing brands, carried on the present southwest wind, from igniting a new blaze in the mountains north of the Pomona Valley.

A hundred Pomonans were among the recruits battling last night on the far-flung line across the mouth of Fish Canyon and along the mountain crests to Pine Mountain. Thirty men were sent from Pomona yesterday, and late yesterday afternoon Deputy Fire Warden Paige received a call from George Meyer, Federal agent at Azusa, to send 100 more last night.

Meyer received word from Camp No. 2 in San Gabriel Canyon that the fire had reached about four miles above Rincon. Unless the fire fighters can check it soon, the flames will leap the West Fork of the San Gabriel and start in a new direction. There is a thick undergrowth of brush all through there.

GUNSALUS BURNED

Supervisor Charlton has established headquarters at Camp No. 1, about three miles from Azusa, near the head of the canyon. Camp No. 2 is about four miles beyond the forks, close to Rincon, but telephone connection to this camp has been cut off. Agent Meyer said yesterday that Andrew Gunsalus, who was sentenced to fight the fire because of having set the fire with a match, had come down after working eighteen hours, and is now in Los Angeles. Gunsalus, who was wearing thin silk socks when taken from his trial at Azusa to the fire camp, sustained a slight burn on one foot during his work.

Residents at Azusa are making sandwiches and assisting the fire fighters. Practically every business man in the town has given up business to render assistance to the fire fighters. The Red Cross has established a camp in Monrovia Canyon at Deer Park.

From Monrovia a fresh detail of 125 men was sent out last evening by Fire Chief Stevens to relieve the crews that have been there since Tuesday morning.

The O'Melveney mountain home with its beautiful trees and shrubbery in San Gabriel Canyon was reported to have been saved by a spectacular back fire, which was touched off at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. The work of back firing, which was in charge of Ranger Frolich, was said to have been one of the cleverest pieces of work in handling the fire. Sixty fire fighters were concentrated at the point, a firebreak was hurriedly constructed, and as the flames came down the hill, the back fire was touched off to meet them.

The sight was one of wonder, the roar of the flames as they swept up and down the hill, was such as to shake the buildings on the O'Melveney Ranch. Sparks and great burning embers flew like winged birds. The line of firefighters stationed along the firebreak stood their ground, however, and the place was saved. The Edison Company sent in their well-equipped fire truck, with men, tools and fire extinguishers.

RANGER IS TRAPPED

Forest Ranger F. L. Kirby of Arizona experienced a remarkable escape from death in Roberts Canyon Tuesday night. The ranger, driven back by the steadily advancing flames, had raced into the canyon to warn a crew of men struggling to stem the fiery tide that the flames were cutting off their retreat.

The men informed the ranger that one of the volunteers had ascended the side of the canyon a considerable distance and was striving to beat out a fire there. Kirby followed to warn the man but discovered that the latter had retreated before the flames and had made his way out of the canyon in safety.

The fire, meanwhile, had bottled up the canyon. Kirby found himself trapped, with death apparently certain. In search for some sort of shelter, the ranger found a huge boulder under which a considerable quantity of water had collected. He burrowed underneath the rock and remained there, nearly suffocating at times, while the flames roared above and past him. The ranger was painfully burned but after his miraculous escape he resumed his work.

SHOT FIRED AT DEER BY BOY KILLS FATHER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 10.—Russell Wilson, 18 years of age, son of Ed Wilson of Elk Grove, Sacramento county, shot and killed his father today while the two, members of a hunting party, were hunting deer near Manton, Tehama county, according to advices received here. The hunting party, it was stated, sighted a deer and surrounded it. Russell Wilson fired at the animal and the bullet struck his father.

delta into miniature lakes, and made Shanghai a Venice, the fighting continued in the mud today in the town of Liuho. This little town, near the mouth of the Yangtse, normally having a population of 8000 or 10,000, has been the scene of perhaps the hardest fighting ever seen in China. It is now practically a wreck from shell and machine gun fire.

Yesterday morning the Kiangsu forces of Gen. Chi Shieh Tuangot gained a foothold in a corner of the town, but the Chekiang troops drove them out, and today they hold the entire place. The Chekiang headquarters states that the Kiangsu army has been driven back several miles.

It developed today that Kiangsu is transporting its troops down the river on two Austrian Lloyd ships seized here during the World War. They are being brought from Nanking and being landed near Liuho. Gen. Chi now has a fleet of eight gunboats and cruisers anchored in the Yangtse off Liuho as a cover for the troop transports. The Chekiang navy is anchored off the Woosung forts, six miles below, but there has been no naval engagement yet.

In the fighting in the Huangtu sector, despite the delay caused by the mud, Anting was captured and the railway there repaired. The scene has now been set for a drive on Kunshan, the Kiangsu outpost for Soochow. The Chekiang forces also claim to have made their way to the town of Ihing, on the west shore of Lake Taihu, and to be ready for an attack there tomorrow.

The whole Chewiang general staff, consisting of Gen. Lu Tung Hsiao, Su Fong Lin and Chwang Tsi-Ping, visited the front lines today, both at Anting and Liuho. They bucked up the courage of their troops with a personal account of the Mukden war lord's decision to come into the fray.

PEKING ANXIETY SHOWN

Peking's anxiety over the situation is shown today in reports from Nanking that Gen. Wu Pei Fu is now rushing reinforcements to Nanking from along the Tientsin Pukow railway and down the river from Hankow. Two regiments of Honan Rupeh troops landed at Nanking yesterday and were sent to the Kiangsu front last night and today.

The threatened advance of Sun Yat Sen northward from Canton apparently has been delayed, according to reports reached from the southern city tonight, because of a lack of money. The Chinese merchants at Canton refuse to put up funds to support the army and they have completely tied up the southern metropolis with a general strike. As a result Sun Yat Sen is now recruiting a Red army of coolie laborers and threatens to Bolshevize the whole place.

Sun Yat Sen has ordered all the school teachers in the city to join the Kuo Min Tang—Red—party, and as a result parents have withdrawn their children from the schools. Sun Yat Sen is also to furnish all recruits to his Red army with a uniform, a bayonet, a rifle, 35 cents a day for food and one hour daily of military training.

Wife of Screen Actor Is Injured in Auto Accident

Mrs. Dick Sutherland, wife of the motion-picture actor, was injured yesterday afternoon in an automobile accident at Vermont and Barrane avenues, suffering badly lacerated wounds and injury to her back, according to a report by police officers who investigated. Mrs. Sutherland was taken to the hospital of Drs. Hall & Cass on Hollywood Boulevard for treatment.

Roberta Bernasconi, 1010 Bailey Drive, who was driving the second machine involved in the accident, was also slightly hurt. Sutherland was later reunited with his wife at the hospital.

SENATOR HARRIS WINS RENOMINATION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ATLANTA (Ga.) Sept. 10.—United States Senator William J. Harris was apparently renominated today by an overwhelming majority by the Democratic voters of Georgia over Thomas W. Hardwick, former Governor and Governor. On the basis of official returns from all precincts in the State at 9 o'clock tonight Senator Harris had secured 97,000 votes to 70,000 for Hardwick. Only unit votes from eighteen counties, giving him a majority of the total unit vote of 61. The same hour the figures placed the counties with twenty unit votes for former Senator Hardwick.

ARIZONA RACE WON BY HEARD

Phoenix Man Nominated to Oppose Gov. Hunt

Executive Carries State by Margin of 4000

Surprises Supporters With Extent of Victory

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Sept. 10. — Today finds State returns still far from complete, but with nothing on hand to change the fact that Gov. George W. P. Hunt has been renominated as Governor by about 4000 majority over both his Democratic opponents and that Dwight B. Head of Phoenix has been successful over Thomas Maddock for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, leading by about 1200.

The Hunt victory, while expected, is a far greater one than had been dreamed by his supporters. He was almost alone on the stump, his campaign managed by his private secretary, H. S. McCluskey, and without headquarters, save the executive office. In the outside towns he was represented mainly by officeholders and union-labor leaders, many of the latter also favoring La Follette. He made little reply to bitter charges hurled against him by the other candidates and many other hostile speakers, and stuck mainly to his fight against the Colorado River compact as his great issue.

Hunt's confidence was shown by his departure from Globe on election day for the wilds of the White Mountains. He still has not been heard from, though believed to be in Gallup, N. M., where he is to meet the Governor of New Mexico and attend an Indian Fiesta. For him Mr. McCluskey today issued a statement that "we harbor no ill feeling or grudges against anyone for criticisms indulged in during the primary campaign." Referring to the overwhelming Democratic registration, he prophesied State and county victories in November. Osborn and a number of his leading supporters already have made declaration of support for Hunt. Samuell had not been heard from this evening.

Hunt has carried every county in the State. Yuma, where he was fought for his compact ideas, has gone to him by a small majority over Osborn, despite the efforts of President Mulford Winsor of the State Senate. Osborn is a bad second in the State race, fully 7000 behind, while Samuell thus far is credited with less than 5000 votes.

TUCSON FOR MADDOCK

Possibly indicative of sectional rivalry is the remarkable fact that the vote in Tucson and Pima county gives the county to Thomas Maddock, Republican candidate for Governor, by almost as great a majority as the far larger county of Maricopa gives Heard over Maddock, in each case approximating 800. Maddock is expected to carry Gila and Santa Cruz counties by small majorities and to be even in several of the smaller counties. But his home county of Coconino and the large counties of Yavapai, Cochise, Yuma and Graham are piling up a larger majority for his opponent.

In the contested offices on the Democratic side, Judge Albert C. Lockwood of Tombstone has been nominated for Justice of the Supreme Court and Scott White appears to have been nominated as Corporation Commissioner. A. H. McClure of Yuma is believed nominated as Republican candidate for Secretary of State. Judge Albert M. Sames of Douglas was written in as the Republican candidate for Congress.

Representative in Congress, Carl Hayden, incumbent, Democrat; Secretary of State, James H. Kerby, incumbent Democrat; Auditor, Wayne Hubbs, Democrat, unopposed on either ticket; Treasurer, F. E. Smith, Republican, Vernon S. Wright, Democrat; Attorney-General, C. R. Holton, Republican; J. W. Murphy, incumbent, Democrat; Superintendent of Public Instruction, D. L. Newkirk, Republican; C. O. Case, incumbent, Democrat; Mine Inspector, John F. White, Republican; Tom C. Foster, incumbent, Democrat.

WIFE MARS HER FATAL BEAUTY

Disfigures Pretty Face to Cure Jealousy of Husband

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

GENEVA, Sept. 10.—Because her beauty attracted too much attention, resulting in her wealthy husband becoming jealous, Mrs. Possi, a young bride, deliberately disfigured herself with a powerful acid.

This was revealed in court where Mrs. Possi's mother accused her son-in-law of cruelty. But the young bride declared that she herself had marked her face as proof of her love for her husband.

"I was unable to prevent men admiring my beauty and flattering me with their attentions," she told the judge, "but in the future they will shun me and I will be, oh, so happy."

MODEL CITY TO BE DESTROYED

Stunt to be Feature by Planes at Air Races

Protective Purpose Behind Aerial Demonstrations

Wright Field to See Daring Program Next Month

DAYTON (O.) Sept. 10.—Destruction of a model city, patterned after New York, with buildings representing structures on Lower Manhattan, rising 100 feet in the air and covering an area of several thousands feet on the field, the target for aerial bombs, will be one of the spectacular and thrilling features on the program for the international air races at at Wright Field October 2, 3 and 4.

How a squadron of enemy airplanes would proceed in conducting such aerial attack and in destroying a city from the air, will be graphically demonstrated, with the use of this model city and the participation of army bombers, piloted by skilled flyers of the Air Service.

TO DESTROY BALLOONS

"Enemy" planes first will swoop down on an observation balloon placed to guard against such attacks, and will destroy it by plane fire, the observers leaping to safety with the aid of parachutes as the huge bag drops to earth in flames. Antiaircraft guns will then be silenced, following which the destruction of the city will proceed.

While this feature will be realistically staged and has been arranged primarily for the entertainment of the spectators, a deep purpose is behind the demonstration, this being the education of the public toward preparedness in the air, that such attacks by enemy aircraft during a period of war may be averted, and that peace by air preparedness may be assured.

CULMINATING FEATURE

The bombardment and destruction of the model city will be the culminating feature on the air carnival program, which is scheduled as a most thrilling, inspiring, and educational event, in connection with the race program.

The various maneuvers and formations indulged in by army flyers in conflict, will be demonstrated by skilled army flyers and will include, pursuit and battle formations, bombing, balloon-sniping contests, refueling a plane in air, laying of a smoke screen with the aid of planes and radio control of planes in formation, all maneuvers being directed by radio communication between the formation leader and other planes.

FREAK FLYING

Parachute jumping demonstrations, which will conclude with a triple parachute leap, three flyers leaping from planes simultaneously and racing to the ground, sky writing and various freak and fancy flying are also scheduled.

Daily flights by the Barling bomber, largest and most powerful of all airplanes, one by the Shenandoah, the Navy's dirigible, and another by a reconditioned early type Wright plane, the latter to be piloted by Lieut. John A. Macready, veteran McCook Field flyer, are on the carnival program.

Will Your Landlord Give You a Home?

JUST suppose your landlord offered to lease you a brand new, five room house with a garage. At a rent of $52.75 a month. With hardwood floors, tile bath and other first class features. And then agreed to give you the house, rent free forever, after ten years.

Would you take it? Would you be willing to put up a $1,500 lot as security for such a lease? You certainly would!

You can do it. Best of all you will be the landlord and the house will be designed and finished to suit you.

The Security Plan of Home financing offers you the money and service that makes such an attractive idea possible. A Security Service loan enables a lot owner to build his own home, live in it, and clear it in ten years by monthly payments which approximate ordinary rents.

Technical advice on specifications and contracts, plus supervision of work in progress guard against worry or loss during construction.

Anyone who pays rent and has a good lot—or who is able to buy a lot—should investigate the Security Plan. Find out the "how and why" of it. Send the coupon for a free booklet giving all details.

WOMAN HELD AS COUNTERFEITER

Suspect to Face Charge of Passing Bad Coin

Attempts Self-Slaying at Time of Arrest

Father and Son Confess to Hatching Plot

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

AUBURN (Neb.) Sept. 10.—Rather than to face a court trial on the charge of assisting in the passing of counterfeit silver dollars, Mrs. Hasel Robertson attempted to kill herself with a revolver. She is still in a hospital awaiting the slow process of recovery. Her condition is serious, but the physicians say she will get well. She will then be taken to Lincoln, where the plot was hatched and the dollars made.

William N. Parker, charged with counterfeiting, and Mrs. Nellie Calvert, accused of concealing knowledge of the manufacture of the spurious coins are under arrest in Lincoln. Parker has made a complete disclosure of the plot, and his testimony has been corroborated by Elden Outz, a stepson.

Parker says that he and his son had been vainly trying to make a living peddling novelties, and decided to turn to making counterfeit coin. They had been around the fair circuit a bit, and made up their minds that it would be easy to pass bad money in the rush of business attendant upon such exhibitions. They collected the materials from various stores, and then tried to pass the counterfeits at some concessions attached to a circus. They were detected and put under arrest.

Mrs. Robertson is a sewing-machine demonstrator, and her arrest followed the statements of the men that she was concerned in the plot. She excused herself a moment, and retiring to another room tried to kill herself with a gun. Jack Hurley, another member of the gang, escaped arrest. Mrs. Parker said that he and one of the women had planned to elope, the woman abandoning her husband here. Young Outz and Mrs. Parker says that Mrs. Calvert watched the making of the coins and declared she wouldn't be afraid to try to spend them. She denies the charge, but was held for trial.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

JEFFERSON CITY (Mo.) Sept. 10.—As a result of the general movement from country to town there are 28,500 farmhouses unoccupied in Missouri, according to a survey of the situation just completed by Jewell Mayes and E. A. Logan of the Federal State Crop Reporting Bureau here.

In the last year, the report shows, 55,000 men left Missouri farms, while only 32,000 moved to the country. Of those going from the farms, 32,000, or 58 per cent, were married, while 23,000 were single.

The net loss of hired farm workers was 2000. The exodus from the rural sections continues.

DENVER, Sept. 10.—Colorado's greatest sugar-beet crop, worth $30,000,000 this year, is ready for harvest. GULF STREAM IS HELD AS GROWING COOLER

SCIENTIST THINKS UNUSUAL WEATHER DUE TO LOSS IN TEMPERATURE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHRISTIANIA (Norway) Sept. 10.—Herr Hoel, Arctic scientist, who led an expedition to Spitzenbergen, has just returned here and announces that he has made the interesting discovery that the temperature of the Gulf Stream is decreasing. The scientist is of the opinion that his discovery is the solution of the unseasonable weather prevailing throughout those sections of the globe affected by the Japanese current. It was impossible, however, he said, to decide whether the process of cooling was limited to last summer or is likely to be permanent.

While mapping Spitzenbergen, Hoel found also that the glaciers had retreated from the coast toward the interior. One glacier in Vankeylan Bay had retreated about two miles since 1898, and the King's Glacier three miles and one-half since 1907. The glaciers north of Icefjord had retreated from one to two miles each since 1909, and some of the minor glaciers had totally disappeared in twelve years.

This diminuation of the glaciers is attributed by Hoel to the recent mild summers in the Arctic regions and to scanty rain.

HEADWAY REPORTED IN SAN ANTONIO CLEAN-UP

STATE RANGER COMPANY SUCCEEDING IN FACE OF LOCAL OPPOSITION

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

AUSTIN (Tex.) Sept. 10.—In the face of opposition of the local authorities of San Antonio, the company of State Rangers, commanded by Capt. B. C. Baldwin, made great headway in "cleaning up" that city during the twelve months ending August 31, according to the report made by Capt. Baldwin to Adjt.-Gen. Thomas D. Barton.

"During our operations here we have been exceedingly fortunate in avoiding serious trouble, having but one killing," Capt. Baldwin reported. "Forty gambling dens and thirty pool halls have been closed; 203 stills were captured and 37,730 gallons of whisky mash and about 41,000 gallons of beer and beer mash, together with about 3190 gallons of corn whisky seized.

"Arrests for violation of the liquor laws number 442, most of the cases being filed in the Federal Court. Misdemeanor cases number 543, and thirty arrests were made in felony cases. And, we regret to report that these cases were made without the assistance of those local officials whose duty it is to enforce the laws."

Destruction of thousands of dollars worth of equipment used in the manufacture of liquor was reported.

ARIZONA FIRE HAZARD MAY PROHIBIT HUNTING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Sept. 10.—The Forest Service reports 532 fires in Arizona forests this season, about half of them in the Coconino Forest, where hazard conditions are reported "high," with the near-by Tusayan Forest conditions considered "dangerous." It is possible that deer hunting in the forests will be prohibited at the beginning of the season, October 1, unless rains materialize. At Jerome the water supply is so slack that service is shut off between 9 p.m. and 8 a.m. Here all garden irrigation is prohibited. Several creek freshets are reported in Mohave county, following local rains, but without addition to the Colorado River's flow.

RAIN CUTS EARNINGS OF OPEN-AIR THEATER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 10.—Despite a season of unfavorable weather, the open-air theater in Forest Park of Municipal Theater Association made a profit of $1241.33 this summer, according to a statement made public. The weather is said to have been the worst experienced in the six years of the association's existence.

Of the seventy contemplated performances, four were abandoned completely because of rain, and sixteen were interfered with by showers. There was perfect weather for only about ten performances. The receipts, however, were only $6127 less than last year, when the weather was ideal.

ESPEE PAID BY YUMA FOR BUILDING LEVEE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

YUMA (Ariz.) Sept. 10.—The city of Yuma has paid the Southern Pacific Company $53,000 for construction of the Gila-street levee, a structure which will bear the new mainline railroad tracks and which will lift the fear of future flood from the Gila or from the backwater of the Colorado River. Several times the business section has been swept by Gila floods that broke through inadequate levees behind the city. With the passing of danger by the Colorado's summer rise, work has not been pushed on the railroad's diversion tracks over the new bridge, but construction is to be resumed in November and the new route is expected to be in use soon thereafter.

CAPE CODDERS DIG OWN FUEL

Peat Bed on Beach May Yield 50,000 Tons

Discovery Gives Laugh to Approach of Winter

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—Coal prices and wintery blasts are of little or no concern to Capt Cod folks.

"Peat" is their answer to coal dealers' warning to "do your coal shopping early and avoid the rush and high prices," since Capt. Abbott Walker of Coast Guard Station No. 39, has discovered a peat bed estimated to yield 50,000 tons of fuel.

The peat bed is located on Nauset Beach in Eastham, within 300 feet of the ocean, separated at low tide by the white sandy beach and it frequently is lashed by the breakers. The deposit has been covered by more than thirty feet of white beach sand for 350 years or more.

Gunsold, who visited these shores long before the landing of the Pilgrims, left a map of Cape Cod which shows that at Eastham and also at Chatham, long points of land containing hundreds of acres extended far out into the Atlantic. The Eastham point was known as Point Car and the other Point Gilbert. Both disappeared below the surface of the ocean many years ago, though frequently fishermen foul their anchors and lines on roots of trees, pieces of which have been brought to the surface, proving that these submerged peninsulas were wooded and that they once extended from Chatham to George's Banks, seventy miles from Chatham Light.

SEEN TEN YEARS AGO

Capt. Walker says he first observed evidence of peat near Eastham ten years ago and that since then the sea has advanced inland several yards. The outcropping peat along the beach forms a vivid contrast against the white sand of the banks and beach, the peat being a dark brown. The bluffs overlooking the sea are 50 to 150 feet high and are covered with beach grass.

The peat deposit at the foot of the bluff extends as much as fifty feet in depth and probably runs under the Coast Guard Station 500 feet. Inland beyond the station, is a large swamp, which is about on a level with the peat bed and may form a part of it. The natural fuel crumbles easily, burns freely when dry, but holds fire well and gives off a great heat. The smoke has the odor of burning cedar.

READY FOR USE

Many years ago Capt Cod folks spent much of the summer laying in their winter supply of peat, but the fuel then used was of an inferior quality to that of the recently discovered deposit, requiring considerable preparation before usable. The peat from the bed discovered by Capt. Walker requires only drying before it is ready for use.

Gov. Channing Cox of Massachusetts has given his approval of the Capt Cod folks "thoroughly enjoying the full benefit of this great natural wonder of Capt Cod."

Stumps and roots of great cedar trees, estimated to be 25,000 years old have been revealed in the uncovering of this peat deposit. Some of the stumps are eighteen inches in diameter and the trees are said to have been at least 150 feet high. The stumps indicate the trees were broken rather than cut down, and thus far nothing of the trunks have been uncovered.

Australia Again Makes Bid for Davis Trophy

Tilden Wood, Patterson Are Aussie Challengers

Johnston and Richards Form Yank Singles Team

BY WILLIAM T. TILDEN II
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—The United States meets Australia in defense of the Davis Cup and trophy tomorrow under unusual conditions unprecedented in the war. For the first time since the United States re-entered the contest, little Bill Johnston and I play in the singles matches. The team named consists of Richards and myself as players and Johnston and I in the doubles.

While I deeply regret the decision that takes Johnston out of the singles, although Richards deserves the honor on the records of play, there has never been a team whose Davis Cup record equaled Johnston's. His play is brilliant and sportsmanship are unquestioned. He is always at his best when the strain is greatest and has proved himself foremost of internationalists. He will have continued his career successfully with equal success if unexpected and unfortunate circumstances had not intervened.

BIG CHANCE

Richards's big chance. He has come to the front by magnificent play in the national singles and has proved very dangerous over Johnston in the matches out West.

Personally I take little stock in the Australian match because it will be a walkaway and was not played seriously. However, Richards's victory at the Olympics and his fine work with his play at home this season, fully justifies the Davis Cup selection. It is a most important match in which they will be entered and they made the best logical choice on the form they will show the power and consistency of Johnston, but in this match we have a new factor

MERCURY PROGRAM IS DANDY

Instructor Blake to Give Fine Card of Boxing Bouts on September 18

A total of eight of the fastest bouts ever lined up on a local program is promised by George Blake, boxing instructor of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, on the night of Thursday, September 18, who has just completed lining up the entire card.

The main event, of course, will be between Joe Salas, national amateur champion in the 126-pound division, and Jackie Fields, the Olympic champion. The semi-wind-up will be between Fidel La Barba, the classiest 115-pounder that ever drew on a glove, and Mike Watter. La Barba is the national and Olympic champion in his division and extremely popular with the fans because of his coolness in the ring and a tendency to keep after his man from the sound of the gong. There is always plenty of action when Fidel gets into the ring.

The remainder of the card follows: Joe Brennan vs. Chet Gleason at 110 pounds; Clark Williams vs. Charley Eder at 135 pounds; Carl Paparone vs. Joe St. George at 135 pounds; Eddie Gleason vs. Al Leonard at 135 pounds; Joe Wood vs. Johnny Barry at 175 pounds; Nat Golden vs. August Gotto at 118 pounds.

George Blake declares that this card promises to be the prize card of the year in local boxing circles, as in almost ever case there is little to choose between opponents and there should be fast action in every bout.

A large number of reservations already have been made both at the Vernon box office and at the Athletic Club, according to Charley Keppen of the club, who says he expects to see the entire house sold out several days in advance of the program.

LOCAL GOLFERS DEFEATED

BY CHARLES WEST
"Times" Staff Correspondent

DEL MONTE, Sept. 10.—Southern California lost an even half of her representatives in the championship flight of the State golf tournament today, when opening rounds were played at Pebble Beach. Harlow Hurley and Jack Tarrant being among eight from south of the Tehachapi who were eliminated. Hurley bowed before the splendid golf of Earl Neitzel of Hollywood in one of the startling upsets of the day, 3 and 2, while Tarrant was nosed out on the home green by C. H. Palmer, Jr., 1 up, in the most spectacular match of the first round.

Tarrant, considered a strong contender for Johnny McHugh's State championship crown, was playing beautiful golf, but Palmer simply birdied him to death. Although Tarrant played the difficult first nine in 37 strokes, he was three down at the turn, Palmer having scored five birdies out of the first six holes. Palmer finished in 74, with Tarrant scoring an approximate 75. The other match brought out excellent golf, Neitzel being a trifle steadier than his veteran opponent from Annandale, and after gaining an advantage held tightly to it.

In women's competition Miss Kathleen Wright of the Pasadena Golf Club; Mrs. Harry Grossman of Hillcrest, and Mrs. Frank Sheedy, San Francisco champion, tied for low gross honors with an 89 each in the Del Monte cup tournament. Miss Helen Foster was one stroke behind the leaders, while Mrs. F. S. Hardin and Mrs. Joe Mayo were tied with 91 each. Match play opens tomorrow morning. Max Behr emerged triumphant over the veterans of twenty State championships, Dr. C. H. Walters, former holder of the title, 4 and 3, and faces Frank Godchaux tomorrow. Godchaux brought the highest price in the Calcutta pool last night and fulfilling the hopes of his backers by playing nice golf in defeating George Barmore, 5 and 4.

Johnny McHugh started well in his effort to retain his title by eliminating Lou Hamilton, 5 and 4, and meets Dr. Paul Hunter tomorrow in what will undoubtedly be one of the feature matches of the tournament. Hunter, who defeated Fitzgerald Marx, 7 and 5, is considered an even bet against McHugh, and as much depends on the match practically the entire golfing colony is expecting to gallery the two famous players. Another interesting match will be between Nor-

HEAVYWEIGHTS FIGHT TONIGHT

Brown Panther, Wild Bull Ready for Gong

Ruggedness and Punch Make Luis a Favorite

Boyle's Thirty Acres Scene of Great Battle

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The Wild Bull, primed for his mighty charge, and the Brown Panther, crouched for his spring, are ready for the call that will send them into action tomorrow night.

These giant fistic rivals and leading aspirants for title honors—Luis Angel Firpo, pride of the Argentine, and Harry Wills, greatest of present-day negro heavyweights—will match their stamina and punching powers in the outstanding ring battle of the year.

They are matched for twelve rounds in Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City, where Firpo halted last year the comeback of Jess Willard and where many a spectacular ring drama has been enacted since the wooden saucer first was the scene of the historic Dempsey-Carpentier fray three years ago.

INTEREST GREAT

The eve of the fight, which has attracted scarcely less interest than a title battle, found Firpo a slight favorite among expert observers and in betting circles. The Argentinian's greater ruggedness and hitting, a majority of critics believed, would carry him to triumph over the superior defensive skill and greater experience of Wills. Based on these views many large wagers were reported, with the South American slightly the favorite, yet the giant negro was not lacking in financial support and even money may prevail by the time the gladiators climb into the ring tomorrow night.

The night program, which includes five other bouts, is scheduled to start at 8:15 p.m., eastern daylight time. The main event is slated for 10 p.m., but Promoter Tex Rickard announced tonight that if rain threatens during the program he will put it on immediately and without regard for the rest of the card, so as to avoid possible interference. In the event rain blocks the entire show it will be staged Friday night.

SEAT SALE BOOMS

The advance seat sale, which boomed today in spite of the eleventh-hour efforts of those who have been seeking the deportation of Firpo, passed the $400,000 mark, according to Rickard. The promoter admitted that legal entanglements tossed in the way of the bout with the past few weeks had exerted adverse financial effect, but predicted that between 60,000 and 70,000 would pay close to $800,000 to see the bout. This figure would establish a new record "gate" for a nonchampionship match.

Wills rounded out his two months of preparation with a brisk walk and then motored with his wife and retinue to his Harlem home.

Tomorrow morning both will go to Jersey City to weigh in before the New Jersey boxing commission. Wills is expected to tip the scales around 220 pounds. Firpo weighed 213 after his final session.

Legal efforts to prevent the bout apparently failed with the refusal of President Coolidge and Gov. Silzer of New Jersey to interfere with the machinery of the Department of Labor and the New Jersey boxing commission.

Firpo is favored if the fight is short and Wills is given an edge if it goes the full twelve rounds—a result which few critics expect. Firpo's impetuous attack with his right hand is expected to force the issue and Wills is said to be reserving his plan of battle to meet the Argentinian's whim.

Against Dempsey the Wild Bull rushed insistently with perfect willingness to give and take until he was finally beaten after an exhibition of punching and gameness, which, if repeated against the negro, will insure an early and sensational climax.

Followers of Firpo insist that he is dangerous when enraged. They admit that Wills may drop his opponent but claim that Firpo will come back more furiously than ever and that Wills's "brittle hands" will not serve their master in the final issue of brute strength.

The condition of Wills's hands is generally regarded as the pivotal point of the fight. Firpo's followers rest their case upon the negro's failure to knock Bartley Madden off his feet in fifteen rounds while Firpo dropped Dempsey three times in one round.

Cartoonist Feg Murray has been looking over the two heavyweights in their training and herewith presents his impressions of the big fight which is scheduled to take place in Jersey City tonight.

Jordan Boxes Joe Schlocker to Good Draw

Joe Schlocker, the whirlwind Los Angeles lightweight, boxed Johnny Jordan of Oakland to a draw in the main event at the new Wilmington Club's arena last night before a capacity house. The set-to was one of the best ever seen around the harbor and had the fans standing on their chairs at times. In the semi-wind-up, Billy Young of Vancouver won over "Wildcat" Willie O'Brien of Hollywood in four rounds. Young carried too many guns for Willie. It was a cracking good slugging match.

In the special Georgie Etsell, all-Navy bantam champion, got a draw with Georgie Oaks of Redondo. This was a cracking good scrap. Oaks knocked Etsell down in the first round, but the Sailor took no count. Harry Lee of Huntington Beach drew with Kid Williams of Mexicali. Williams floored Lee in the first round. Billy Afoe of San Pedro won over Leo Morrison of Long Beach all the way in a real slugging match. Caveman Carlson of Hollywood lost to Eddie Brown of Long Beach in the second round of a technical knockout. Brown broke Carlson's jaw in the second round and the Caveman had to quit. Georgie Lopez of Compton won all the way from Young Bellamy of San Pedro. Lopez's left jab played havoc with Bellamy all through the scrap. Don McDonald refereed.

NEGRO'S BEST OPPORTUNITY

BY JACK KEARNS
(Manager, Jack Dempsey, World's Heavyweight Champion)
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Harry Wills, sometimes regarded as the logical opponent for the champion, Jack Dempsey, faces his one, big chance tonight. I think he realizes it, and has trained accordingly. Certainly no fighter has ever put any more faithful licks in at his training camp than this fellow. Expert after expert, from trained boxing writers to physical culture exponents have looked Wills over. Their opinions have been the same, invariably. Wills is in the finest possible condition, no doubt better fitted, physically for a fight than he has ever seen before.

When I say that Wills faces his one big chance, I mean just that. Whether because of himself, or because of the too-zealous shouting of his friends, Wills has come to be regarded by some as a sort of martyr, one who is being denied a crack at the championship, though he, above all others, is entitled to it.

SLOPPY SHOWING

I do not think it necessary for me to say again that this is untrue that Wills can have his fight with Dempsey any time a responsible promoter wishes to make a suitable offer for it. Wills followers lose sight of one or two facts in their clamor. They forget that Wills properly ballyhooed, was matched in the Garden a year or two ago with another negro, Clem Johnson. That match was to be the one in which Wills was to demonstrate his fitness for an immediate contest with Dempsey. Those who saw the sloppy way in which Wills went about that match left the building wondering if Wills was the mankiller they had heard so much about. That was one chance Harry had, and blew it.

Just recently Wills met Bartley Madden, a tough Irishman, but never regarded as a championship candidate. In that fight Harry was worse than he was against Johnson, on the other "test" contest. After it was over it was explained that Wills had to save his hands. After the Johnson bout it was said that he had hurt his hands, always the hands.

FORGET HANDS

Tonight, I am given to understand, Wills will forget about his precious hands, and strive his utmost to knock out the man from the Argentine. He has his chance. I wonder if he will try to beat Dempsey's time in flattening Firpo? That's part of his big chance. Wills has never made any great sums of money in the ring. Tonight he will receive his greatest purse. He knows that if he wins decisively, there will be another one, and a greater one in view.

Financially, it's his big chance. I have seen Wills in many fights, and in various parts of the country. Harry, in recent years, had not been a knockerout, in the sense Dempsey is. A bing bang and-it's-over kind. He wears his man down. Lately he has been given to too much tugging and hauling, holding and wrestling his men around. He has been permitted to get away with it, and has become

GRIFFIN STOPS RISING ANGELS

Young Seal Hurler Too Good for Seraph Crew

Visitors Pile Up an Early Lead Off Myers

Great Fielding Figures in San Francisco Win

BY ROBERT E. RAY

Marty Griffin, the young right-hander picked up by the Seals from the sand lots, polished off the Angels with the ecist of an efficiency expert, turning in a 6-to-1 victory for San Francisco in the third game of the series yesterday. Marty allowed the Angels but six hits and was always in command as his mates gave him perfect support.

Chief Myers attempted to make it three straight for the locals, but was jarred loose from his aspirations by several bunched blows from the Seal bats. The Chief lasted until the fifth, during which time the Seals chalked up five runs, when Fred Gunther singled for him. Buck Ramsey hurled the last four frames and was touched for the remaining marker in the ninth.

ERRORLESS BALL

Both sides played errorless ball, which is something unusual in the Coast League of late. Bert Ellison, the Seals' perfect pilot, had an extremely busy day around first base, taking care of nineteen chances without a whimper. Hal Rhyne and Petey Kilduff, the guardians of the keystone sack for the visitors, also played great ball, the former handling nine chances, some of them very difficult, while Kilduff managed to throw out eight men.

As the Seattle Indians were losing to Portland while the Seals were defeating the Angels, Bert Ellison's crew increased its lead to four and a half games over Red Killefer's prides.

San Francisco drove over enough runs in the first inning to sew up the contest, nicking Myers for a brace of counters. After Gene Valla had been retired, Hal Rhyne punched a single to left. Mulligan filed to Twombly, but Ellison decided to keep the rally going and lined a hit to center. Walsh walked, filling the bases. Paul Waner squirted a single to right center and Rhyne and Ellison pattered over the rubber. Kilduff hit a long fly to Twombly for the third out.

GET ANOTHER

The Seals rapped Myers for another run in the third. Rhyne again led off with a hit and Mulligan sacrificed Hal to second. While Myers was busily engaged in walking Ellison, Rhyne stole third. Walsh grounded to Whaley and Rhyne scored on the out.

The fifth was productive of two more San Francisco runs, three hits and a stolen base doing the producing. Valla opened the inning by singling to center. After Rhyne had fouled to Grimes Valla stole second. Mulligan's single to right scored Valla and Eddy went to third on Twombly's throw to the plate. Ellison's infield out and Walsh's bingle ever second brought Mulligan home.

The Angels managed to chase over a run in the seventh when Krug doubled to left and romped in on McAuley's single to center. It was McAuley's second hit of the tilt.

Los Angeles had chances to score off Griffin in the fifth and eighth, but Griffin's steadiness robbed them of one, while a fast double-killing snuffed out the other chance. In the fifth McAuley singled to right after one was out, and Gunther, batting for Myers, followed with another hit. However, Whaley and Twombly were easy outs, so that ended that. Griffin grew wild in the eighth, walking Twombly and hitting Durst with one out, but Grimes hit a fast one to Rhyne and that worthy turned it into a fast double-play.

The Seals got their final run in the ninth on Griffin's hit, a walk to Valla, Rhyne's sacrifice, Mulligan's infield hit which filled the sacks, and Ellison's Selder's choice.

There will be another today, with George Payne and Oliver Twist Mitchell as the opposing slabmen. Oliver Twist led the league in pitching earlier in the season, but "them days is gone forever," and the Angels ought to win. Score:

OAKLAND, Sept. 10.—Vernon defeated Oakland here today, 4 to 3, in an extra-inning contest, which was marked by brilliant fielding throughout. D. Murphy's double to left, followed by Deal's bunt, which Krause threw over Guisto's head, scored the winning run. The score:

ADAMS AND PHIL MAY GO AGAIN AT VERNON

Wad Wadhams, matchmaker at Doyle's boxing emporium, is making an effort to rematch Johnny Adams and Phil Salvadore for the main event at Vernon next week. His efforts are the response to the request of many fans for another peek at Adams.

The Pacific Coast champ made a hit with the cash fares at Vernon, and he promises to be a strong drawing card at the Doyle arena.

Casa Del Mar Takes Entries for Big Swim

Club Casa Del Mar has entered the ranks of the A.A.U. and just secured membership in the Southern Pacific branch of the national body. It announces its first contest as a rough-water swim for Saturday, the 27th inst., to consist of an 800-yard event for men, 400-yard event for women, and 400-yard swim for boys of 15 and under. The event will be staged from off the club site at the foot of Pico Boulevard, Santa Monica.

With Fred A. Cady, L.A.A.C.; Frank Holborrow, Holborrow Swimming Club, and Frank Alexander of Weaver-Mason Company, and representing Club Casa Del Mar, in charge of the event, a big entry list of the Southland's best swimmers is assured, as a generous number of valuable prizes will be awarded. Entries for the big swim close on Monday, the 22nd inst., and blanks may be secured from any member of the committee.

The referee, judges and timers will be selected from among the club's membership. Several entertainment features will be included in the afternoon's program. The meeting is for members and invited guests, who will be cared for inside the club's private grounds.

FOOTBALL OFFICIALS WILL MEET TONIGHT

The preseason kick-off of the pigskin season takes place tonight at Spalding's, when the football officials get together to discuss plans for the season. The meeting is called by Motts Blair of Manual Arts, president of the Southern California Football Officials' Association, and everybody who knows how to toot a whistle is invited, including local and visiting coaches and anybody else interested. A large gathering is anticipated, as numerous new officials have put in their bid for jobs this fall.

An effort is to be made to bring the Army-Navy annual football contest to Ohio Stadium in Columbus, November, 1925. It is estimated that 90,000 persons would witness the contest.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The New York Giants gained a half-game on Brooklyn here today by defeating Boston, 23 to 1 and 8 to 0, while Brooklyn was winning one from Philadelphia.

In the first game New York gave Boston the worst defeat of the National League season. The Giants cracked out twenty-seven hits for forty-five bases. Frisch hit six hits in succession, including a home run, but missed tying Wilbert Robinson's record of 1924 by being thrown out on a bunt in his last time up.

New York scored freely in the second game and knocked Genewich out in the fifth. Manager Bancroft of Boston returned to his line-up, the first time he has played since an operation for appendicitis forced his retirement in the early summer. Scores:

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—The best Washington could do in the double bill with Philadelphia today was to split it even by taking the second game 6 to 5 after dropping the first 2 to 1. The Senators found Gray a puzzle in the opening contest, and the Texan bested Zachary in a close and interesting pitching duel. All the Senators' runs except one in the second game were made off Heinrich, and behind Meeker's masterful relief hurling the Athletics whittled down the visitors' lead until Mogridge was relieved in the ninth with the winning runs on bases. Marberry retired the locals before they could send the tying run over. The scores:

Explorer and Aviator Will Head Expedition

Six-Passenger Metal Plane to Penetrate Jungle

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—For any otherwise qualified youngish or oldish men with a taste for roughing it and a hankering for adventure, opportunity seems to have opened its door wide. James T. Rogers, explorer and diamond prospector from British Guiana, and Alan L. Clark, M.D., an aviator of Toronto, are in town looking for suitable companions on a diamond-hunting expedition, using airplanes and radio, in the South American wilderness.

Rogers has opened an office in Hanover Square, with Dr. Clark as his associate, to organize a party of ten, including one additional aviator, one radio operator and two commercial geologists and engineers, all of whom they expect to select from Americans who would combine adventure with business.

Rogers, born thirty-six years ago in Georgetown, has for seventeen years been prospecting for gold, minerals and timber in the tropical jungles, and was one of the pioneers in the new Kuropong diamond field on the upper waters of the Masaruni River.

Dr. Clark was trained for the Royal Air Force in Canada, got his wings in 1917 and was shot down by German fire on the western front, becoming a prisoner of war.

Rogers said arrangements are being made with manufacturers of a type of all-metal airplane to supply the expedition with ships of six-passenger amphibian model, capable of landing and starting either from land or water. They are made of duraluminum, capable of withstanding tropical heat and wet. By this means the party, with Georgetown as a base, can hop over the jungles and rivers, reaching the interior in two hours instead of two weeks.

PROFESSED SUICIDE ATTEMPT ENCOUNTERS PROFESSIONAL CYNICISM

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10. — Peggy Gallagher, 22 years of age, of Atlantic City, is recovering from what she says was an attempt to commit suicide.

She was found by police of the Nineteenth-and-Oxford-street station on the sidewalk. She moaned that she had taken poison to end her life after an unsuccessful search for work here, during which she lost her pocketbook and all her money.

The police rushed her to St. Joseph's Hospital, where physicians, after a thorough examination, announced they could find no trace of poison in her system. She will have a hearing on the charge of breach of the peace for lying down in the street.

MRS. EVANS DEATH QUIZ CONTINUES

Private Inquiries Said to Have Uncovered Startling Facts in Mexico Case

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 10.—Private inquiries into the assassination of Mrs. Rosalie Evans continue at Puebla. It has been disclosed that two days prior to her murder she cabled the Foreign Office in London requesting that steps be taken to prevent the seizure of water from her irrigation system during the dry season of the year. Other startling disclosures are reported, but unconfirmed. The Mexican press states an investigation is being made by the British secret service.

Mrs. W. J. Pettus of San Francisco, sister of Mrs. Evans, remains in possession of the hacienda, while qualifying as administrator of the estate. She will inherit the property, but it is doubtful if any restitution of the parts of the property expropriated by the agrarians will be made.

In view of the fact that the men accused of the crime have not yet been tried, no claims have been presented to the government, and it is believed that none will be made until the British Foreign Office ascertains the full facts of the case. As soon as Mrs. Pettus qualifies as administrator, she, with her husband, expects to return to San Francisco for some time.

George Camp, American World War veteran, who helped Mrs. Evans defend the hacienda when fired on by agrarians, is assisting Mrs. Pettus in arranging the affairs.

DUCHESS IS LAWFULLY LOCKED OUT

British Court Refuses Plea of Westminster's Wife for Right to Go Home

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, Sept. 10. — The Duchess of Westminster's application to restrain her husband from ejecting her from her residence was refused today. At the same time it came out that the Duchess has filed a petition for a dissolution of her marriage, which was served on the Duke on August 18, last.

The counsel for the Duchess told how the Duke's conduct with other women at Cannes was such that she insisted he alter it. The Duke replied, according to the counsel, that he would not. The attorney stated that there was a subsequent agreement to live apart and that she was to be left in possession of Bourndon house, from which she now says she has been evicted. Both the Duke and Duchess have been once divorced.

The Duchess, who is in America, is expected back next week. The Duke's counsel claimed that the wife had been given an allowance of £5000 (roughly, $26,000,) a year.

Oil Rate Cases Will be Heard by Commission

The State Railroad Commission will begin hearings today into the complaint of six oil refining companies against the Santa Fe Railroad for reparation of alleged excessive rates on crude and fuel oil shipments from Santa Fe Springs to Los Angeles. Examiner Geary of the commission will be in charge of the hearings.

According to the complainants, the East-West Refining Company, Hercules Gasoline Company, Harbor Refining Company, J. W. Jameson Corporation, Sierra Refining Company and the Wilshire Oil Company, excessive and discriminatory charges have been levied on oil shipments by the railroad from Santa Fe Springs to Los Angeles, while rates on oil shipments from all other Southern California producing points have been fixed by the Santa Fe and other railways at a lower figure.

Complaints charging the Santa Fe with similar discrimination in rates on oil shipments from Santa Fe Springs to Los Angeles were filed yesterday with the commission by the Angeles Snowcrest Refining Company, Associated Oil Company, Vernon Oil Company and the General Petroleum Corporation.

Examiner Geary will also hear today the complaint of the Richfield Oil Company against the Sunset Railway for reparation of rates on crude oil shipments from the company's producing points at Shale, Fellows and Pentland to Bakersfield.

TURKS MOBILIZE ON RUSSIAN FRONTIER

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TEHERAN, Sept. 10. — Large Turkish troop movements are going on at Erzerum and on the Russian frontier, according to information from the Persian-Turkish frontier. The Turks seem to place no faith in the Russian friendship and the Russian denial of intention regarding Constantinople and the Red troop movements in the Caucasus. The Russians say the last is a precaution against Menshevic and other uprisings. The Russians do not deny the existence of some accounts with Turkey awaiting settlement.

The Wrath to Come

By E. Phillips Oppenheim

Synopsis: Grant Slattery, wealthy American, meets his former fiancee Gertrude in Monte Carlo as Princess Von Diss. The International Conference is holding session in Nice. Yeovil, British Premier, desires the congress to invite the United States into the pact. Germany and Japan consider to defeat his purpose. They temporarily adjourning the session to gain time in their plot to control the vote. Susan, Yeovil's daughter, becomes a close companion of Grant. Chia, a dancer, discarded by Hash, Japanese legation member, discloses to Grant in a jealous mood a part of Japan's machinations; Hash later recovers her confidence and she refuses to disclose further information. Gertrude introduces Grant to Blunn, ostensible German industrialist, but in reality arch plotter against the United States. Gertrude, renewing her love for Grant, begs him to take her away with him, disclosing to him her part in the plot against his country. Grant refuses. A yacht party is given by Grant the day before the resumption of meetings at Nice; Blunn, Von Diss and the Scandinavian, Finnish premier, are guests. While at sea Grant pleads mechanical trouble—Blunn, scenting a plot to prevent the Scandinavian member from making his "magical" vote—imprisons Grant and endeavors to force the ship's crew to start the engines. They imprison the captain and chief engineer, but all the rest in charge, and start back to Monte Carlo. Grant escapes his captor, Von Diss, but is knocked out by Blunn. Susan, pretending to nurse Grant, receives her instructions and forces the disloyal crew to alter their course away from Monte Carlo. Blunn, foiled in his plot, accepts it genially. They arrive in port too late for the conference, thus insuring Yeovil's success. Blunn invites them to a dinner party.

There was a little sprinkling of journalists upon the quay, who had come down on the report that an accident had happened to the Grey Lady. They attached themselves especially to Baron Funderstrom, who had, however, one reply to them all.

"It was unfortunate that I could not attend the meeting of the conference," he said, "owing to the slight accident to the engines which happened when we were some distance out at sea. As a matter of fact, however, I know quite well what the agenda consisted of and there was nothing in which my views did not coincide with the majority."

"You know," one of the journalists asked him, "that the conference has decided to invite America to join the pact?"

"I imagined that would take place," he admitted, without change of countenance. "The decision to forward the invitation was, I presume, unanimous?"

"The discussion took place in private session," the journalist pointed out. "But one understands that there was no opposition."

Grant glanced at his watch.

"I wonder if your father is back from Nice?" he said to Susan.

She shook her head.

"He doesn't usually arrive at the Villa until 6 o'clock. Now that the regular sessions have commenced, it may be even later."

"I will come up with you, if I may," he suggested. "I want to see him as soon as possible after he returns. Besides, I want to escape from these people."

"Come along," Susan agreed. "We had better take a carriage. They may send the car down when they see the yacht coming in, but as Peters will be over with dad at Nice I should think it's doubtful."

They drove off and the remainder of the little company melted away from the pier, all apparently in the highest of spirits.

"I must say one thing about Blunn," Grant declared, as they looked backward for a moment from the top of the hill. "He's an unprincipled scoundrel, of course, but he's a sportsman."

"He's much better than that Prince von Diss or that terrible Scandinavian," Susan assented.

"I suppose you realise," he went on, "that you were the pluckiest person on board."

"Nonsense!" she answered, coloring with pleasure. "It was really a tremendous rag."

"I'm not quite sure what that misguided young officer of mine thought about it when he found himself held up by a girl," Grant observed dryly. "They'd have brought it off but for you."

"I'm very glad," she murmured. "Next time you give a party like that I hope I'm there."

He looked at her for a moment a little wistfully. Youth had certainly befriended her. Gertrude had risen that morning with dark lines under her eyes and her manner on the deck had been almost spiritless. There was nothing in Susan's happy face and smiling expression to indicate a night of anxiety.

"I wish you weren't such a kid," he said suddenly.

"What on earth do you mean?" she retorted. "I'm nearly 20. Surely that is old enough for—for anything. Are you trying to insinuate that I am unintelligent or uninformed or something?"

"You are very sweet as you are, Susan," he assured her. "It was a foolish wish. I wouldn't have you a day older. And here comes your father. They must have been back from Nice early."

Susan scarcely showed her usual joy at welcoming her parent. They all arrived at the Villa together and Lord Yeovil at once drew Grant into his little sanctum.

"I am inclined to think that you must have found a mare's nest, young fellow," he announced. "You can guess my views?"

"You have received the consent of the pact to forward the invitation to America," Grant replied.

"Not only that, but my motion was supported by Prince Lutrecht."

"Were there no votes against it, then?" Grant asked incredulously.

"There were three black balls," Lord Yeovil admitted. "That was somewhat of a surprise to us, I must say, but, as you know, three was not sufficient to affect the result."

"Well," Grant told him, "I should like you to realize this. It is entirely due to Lady Susan that you had your own way in this matter. You have won the first step toward breaking up what I am convinced now to be a very malevolent conspiracy, and it was your daughter who made it possible."

"My daughter! Susan!" Lord Yeovil exclaimed. "What do you mean, Grant?"

"I mean that I was right—just as right as I knew I was, all the time. Lutrecht voted against it, as he had always meant to, whatever he may have said at the meeting. So did Katina. That's why he was rushed down from Berlin and why poor old Naga had to go. So did Gorts, the Russian. And, if I hadn't abducted Funderstrom and kept him away until too late to go to the meeting, his would have been the fourth vote."

"Abducted Funderstrom!" Lord Yeovil repeated wonderingly.

"That's just what we did, sir," Grant assented. "I kept him on the yacht until it was too late for him to go to Nice. There was a tremendous row," he went on, "practically a free fight, and, at one time, Blunn and Prince von Diss were having things their own way, and they very nearly got Funderstrom back. If it hadn't been for Susan, who took command when I was hors de combat and, with an automatic in her hand, frightened one of my navigating officers to death, they would have done."

"You'd better not tell me anything more, Grant," Lord Yeovil decided, a little gravely, though there was a twinkle of delight in his eyes. "This sort of thing is outside the sphere of practical politics. All I can say is that, whatever you did, I personally am convinced that you did it for the best—and I thank you."

"That I did," Grant said earnestly, "I did incidentally for the sake of the world's peace, but chiefly for the sake of my own country. We're only halfway through the trouble yet, though. The invitation may be sent. As yet it isn't accepted."

"I hope to God it will be!" was the fervent response. "If it isn't, I tell you, Grant, no man, even though he had the tongue of a god and all the angels, will be able to induce any future meeting of the pact to send another invitation."

"I realise that absolutely," Grant acquiesced. "I can assure you of one thing. All that stands for the best in my country will be in favor of accepting, but there is a great deal there that stands for the worst. There will be plots, and bribery and intrigue, any quantity of it. And yet we are going to win. The invitation shall be accepted."

A servant brought in cocktails and Grant was easily persuaded to stay and dine.

"I shan't change," his prospective host told him. "You can send for your things, if you like, or change afterward if you are going on anywhere. What I want you to do is to sit down in that easy chair, and tell me—unofficially, mind—the whole story of your adventures on the yacht."

Grant lit a cigarette and accepted the invitation.

"When we all wished one another good-by this morning," he said, "I had to pinch myself metaphorically to realize that I wasn't dreaming. The whole thing seemed too improbable and fantastic. However, here's the story."

CHAPTER XIX

The dinner given by Cornelius Blunn was the most talked-of function of a very brilliant Rivera season. The writing-room on the left of the lounge at the Hotel de Paris had been transformed into a private banqueting apartment, at one end of which a small stage had been erected for artists who came from Nice and even Cannes to entertain the guests, and whose fees were a record in munificence. Despite the slight formality of the opening stages of the gathering, owing to the presence of the Scandinavian monarch, the keynote to the whole party seemed to be set and adequately maintained by Blunn himself—reckless, brilliant light-heartedness. Gertrude sat on his right, jealously watched from across the table by her husband. Grant, with curious disregard for precedence, was seated at her other side. On Blunn's left was a lady of royal birth, whose exploits had been the talk of Europe—a woman still beautiful and witty, who was supposed to be devoting the remainder of her years and a portion of her colossal fortune to the entertainment of the monarch who sat on her left. Lord Yeovil, persuaded to be present with great difficulty, at the last moment, was in the vicinity, with the Princess Lutrecht for a neighbor. Several of the Monte Carlo notables in addition to the originally invited guests were present. There was no one there who did not acknowledge the genius of Blunn as a host.

THE NEW HATS
STETSON HATS
Styled for Young Men

THERE'S a new tilt and a new curl to the brim of these hats—a different dent in the crown—the new pearl shade with black band—quite a style change. They're mighty good looking. You'll find we are STETSON HEADQUARTERS.

Since the days of "the covered wagon" the name STETSON has meant but one thing—the finest hat of its time. The style of the Stetson has changed with the demands of what is almost a new civilization, but the supremely fine quality has never varied.

To the plainsman of 1865 his head-gear was not merely a hat; it was "my Stetson." So today you are likely to hear a well-dressed man refer to his hat in the same half affectionate terms. It is still—and perhaps more than ever—a matter of pride to wear what is universally conceded to be the world's finest hat.

Another thing which would probably delight the plainsman of 1865 if he were here today—he would discover that Los Angeles, through the "movies," sets the men's hat styles the world over, and Stetson comes to Hollywood to create the season's new ideas.

See the most extraordinary hat-style exhibit ever made in this country—our windows

...thereby electing Adams President.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

AJO (Ariz.) Sept. 10.—Ajo has had the worst windstorm of its history, unroofing the home of Postmaster L. L. Scott, blowing down or unroofing a dozen houses in Ajo and its suburbs, twisting a new business house at Clarkston out into the street and generally demolishing several tent colonies. The wind was after several days of excessive heat and brought a rain of nearly half an inch, one that did much damage to personal property that had been exposed in the unroofed or demolished houses. The brick chimney of the Community Church was snapped off at the roof, but no other damage was done the structure.

WILD DUCKS THRONG TEXAS PANHANDLE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

AMARILLO (Tex.) Sept. 10.—Old-timers are predicting an early and cold winter. They base their belief on the fact that wild ducks already are coming into the Panhandle and Western Texas region from their far nothern summer homes. The migration of the fowls began the latter part of August.

They have settled down upon the ponds and lakes and taken to the fields of sorghum grains in such numbers as to be a menace to farmers, it is stated. Farmers are so stirred up over the destruction which is being done their crops by the wild ducks that they threaten to take the law into their own hands and kill the birds by wholesale, despite the fact that the open season for duck shooting is some weeks off.

In some places, it is reported the ducks are feeding upon Kafir corn in the dough. They are so hungry they will not wait for it to ripen. Most of these early birds are pintails with a sprinkling of blue-wing teal, mallards and redheads.

ODD ACCIDENT FATAL

MILES CITY (Mont.) Sept. 10. Robert Lancaster, 14 years of age, had set a rifle on the roof of a barn near Broadus, while he repaired a shingle. The rifle started to slide off and the boy leaned over to see where it struck. It fell butt down and the gun was discharged, shooting him through the head. He lived long enough to tell of the accident.

FATHER'S FEAR IMMURED GIRLS

Daughters Believed Heirs to Mother's Malady

Friends Say Elopement Due to Secluded Life

Lenox Millionaire Unlikely to Accept Husbands

BY IMOGENE STANLEY
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LENOX (Mass.) Sept. 10.—A haunting fear that his two daughters were bequeathed a dread inheritance by their mother, who died shortly after the birth of the second daughter, is said to have been responsible for their seclusion in which they were kept by their father, Grenville Lindall Winthrop.

Winthrop, it is now believed, did not want his daughters to marry because he feared they might experience the same unhappy fate as his long-dead wife. That is why the blow of their double elopement with the family chauffeur and a village electricity, once a poultryman on the magnificent Winthrop estate here, so completely prostrated the aged millionaire, friends suggest.

It has long been common knowledge in Lenox that Mrs. Winthrop, enormously wealthy in her own rights, became an invalid after the birth of her first daughter, Emily, who is now 31 years of age, and the bride of Corey Lucian Miles, her father's former chauffeur. When Kate, the second daughter, was born, the mother waged a desperate mental and physical battle. She did not recover her mental equilibrium before death claimed her, it is said.

Winthrop, now 65, feared marriage for his daughters, and did not keep them virtual prisoners in his town house in New York and his castle-like villa here for purely selfish reasons, friends who know this story said.

The old man does not show himself in the village since his daughters fled, shutting himself up in his great stone mansion, which is the show place of Lenox, and refusing to speak to newspaper reporters. His brother, Beekman Winthrop, millionaire dry dock owner of Brooklyn, is at the stricken father's side, but no information concerning his attitude toward his daughter's double elopement is forthcoming from anybody in the Winthrop home.

NO FORGIVENESS

It is believed by those close enough to the old man to hazard a prediction that he will not accept his daughters' husbands and that the breach is one that will never be healed. But, having failed in his attempt to gard them from the hereditary menace he feared, he will not now make any attempt to hamper their newfound freedom, it is predicted. The strangely mated couples will never return to Lenox, according to friends, who hold that it would be too difficult for Miles, the chauffeur, and Darwin S. Morse, who married Kate Winthrop, to assume here their new roles of husbands of the heiresses.

The Winthrop sisters will never return to brave whispered comparisons of their social status and that of their husbands, it is predicted.

They were driven to the step they took by the dull, repressed, restricted life ordained by their father, said a woman who knew the sisters well.

"Don't be surprised at anything we do," they once said. "We're desperate. We can't stand this life much longer."

It was learned from Burlington (Vt.) dispatches today that the eloping couples have parted company temporarily to escape recognition. Each is now following a different honeymoon route through Northern New England in the twin-six roadsters in which they fled from Lenox last Saturday.

ENGLAND FIRM FOR PEACE

Spokesman for Government Declares British Will Stand by League Covenant

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

GENEVA, Sept. 10.—Great Britain stands by the League covenant which provides for military and naval assistance by all the signatories to preserve peace. That declaration was made tonight by Lord Parmoor, representing the British government, after the disarmament commission debate on arbitration, security and disarmament.

In a statement to representatives of the press of the world, Lord Parmoor affirmed that Great Britain meant what she said when, through the lips of her Prime Minister, Ramsay MacDonald, she declared her readiness to submit all disputes to arbitration. He added that the words "all disputes" included those usually characterized as questions affecting vital interests and national honor.

Lord Parmoor qualified his statement, however, by remarking that the terms "vital interests" and "national honor" were exceedingly vague, but went on to say that a way must be found to handle every possible cause of conflicts between nations.

The British statesman contended that, after all, the League covenant covered nearly everything and it was only necessary to clarify certain points and perhaps generally strengthen the covenant.

Lord Parmoor's statement caused great pleasure among the French delegates, where it created the impression, as did his remarks before the commission today, that when the time comes the British delegation will present detailed resolutions of arbitration, security and disarmament.

Chile President Leaves Country for Six Months

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

SANTIAGO (Chile) Sept. 10.—Anturo Alessandri, President of Chile, whose resignation both the Senate and the Chamber have refused to accept, leaves for Buenos Aires tonight. Both bodies of Parliament today voted to give him six months leave of absence from the country.

Senor Alessandri will go on a special train.

Ambassador Collier, whose guests the President and his family, have been for the last few days, will be one of those accompanying him to the station.

"DOUBLE-YA JAY" AND "BROTHER CHARLEY"

At 3 o'clock on a torrid night in July a smiling man with a palm-leaf fan and an alpaca coat walked into a more torrid room in a New York hotel and said to a tall man who wore a skull cap:

"It's a hot night, isn't it, Charley?"

"Yes," replied Charley, "it is."

And then, turning to another man in the room, Charley said:

This matter-of-fact conversation took place when William Jennings Bryan met his "Brother Charley" for the first time after the Democratic National Convention had nominated Charles W. Bryan for the Vice-Presidency. No undue jubilation, no congratulations, no "I wish you luck." "I knew all the time you would get it." It was nothing new for a Bryan to land a nomination, but the real reason for the apparent lack of enthusiasm is that the Bryan brothers and their cohorts form a political combination which internally at least, works without any exhibition of sentiment, without contradictions and without confusion.

The Bryan brothers are a perfect team of politicians, working without bickering or disagreements, and they declare that it has been so for the thirty years of their political association.

The first meeting of the brothers after "Brother Charley" had won a place on the Democratic ticket was no different from their first meeting after W. J. had won his place on the ticket in former years. "Brother Charley" quietly dictated a statement to waiting reporters, and paid no more attention to W. J. after the arrival of the ice water than he paid to the picture of the French boatman on the wall above the writing desk. In the adjoining room, W. J.—his brother and followers always call him "Double-ya Jay"—sat down on the bed beside a reporter and dictated another statement about "Brother Charley" in an ice-water manner as detached as if the subject of the sketch were an inarticulate being on the other side of the world.

This event, marking the emergence into national politics of the "silent" partner" of the political firm of the Bryan brothers of Nebraska, seemed like an act that had been rehearsed time and again. Their Nebraska followers handed out "literature" and answered questions with machine-like precision born of long experience in politics. The Nebraska political machine of the Bryan brothers was working at full efficiency, but to an observer it did not look like a machine; it looked more like the precise and well-timed management of the three-ring circus, with "Double-ya Jay" and "Brother Charley" performing in perfect unison, and their supporting troupe handing over the contraptions, with complete understanding of their parts in the performance.—[World's Work.

MAKING OF HURRICANE

Heat in West Indies Causes Air to Rise, Creating a Vacuum

Storm experts at the United States Weather Bureau in Washington explained that the terrific hurricane which swept the Atlantic Coast recently was of tropical origin and probably was caused by intense heat in the vicinity of the West Indies earlier in August.

Charles L. Mitchell, one of the forecasters and storm experts of the bureau, said the hurricane was the result of a typical tropical disturbance. The Weather Bureau detected it more than a week before it arrived in the United States, and warnings were sent out to all shipping telling of its movement toward the Atlantic. All the big liners had ample notice of what to expect.

The intense heat in the West Indies or in the Gulf of Mexico frequently causes the air to rise over large areas. That lessens the air pressure and tends to create a vacuum. Air from the outside rushes into the area of low pressure and small swirls of air are formed.

These swirls tend to increase the vacuum by their own movement. Finally the whirling air attains the size and velocity of a hurricane. As the air whirls the whole body of it moves sideways and frequently goes northward, as in this instance.

The rapid revolving central swirl sets the air on its sides spinning counter to it. These side disturbances frequently attain a much greater velocity than the original nucleus. The wind on these outside edges sometimes attains a velocity of 125 to 200 miles an hour.

Tropical hurricanes usually break up when they reach land, but when they sweep northward on the open Atlantic they often cover great distances before blowing themselves out.—[New York Sun.

Making every one of 2,300,000,000 exactly like every other

Two billion three hundred million drinks of Coca-Cola are sold a year through 415,000 retailers.

In the light of these facts read the following excerpt from a letter to an officer of The Coca-Cola Company:

"You'll be interested in this: A party of twelve of us were touring Kentucky on a mission for our Chamber of Commerce. We visited towns of all sizes, mostly small. We stopped at all kinds of soda fountains and refreshment stands. Again and again everybody ordered Coca-Cola. Though in unfamiliar places, we were certain of its quality."

There are good reasons for this confidence.

Under the United States Pure Food Laws only a beverage made of wholesome products can be offered you without a declaration of its ingredients. With Coca-Cola its name is its label.

Stationed at each of the 14 regional Coca-Cola manufacturing plants is a food expert who tests all ingredients and insures the uniformity, purity and wholesomeness of Coca-Cola syrup.

The Coca-Cola Company itself maintains a Service Section, composed of highly trained soda dispensers, who go behind the fountains of retail stores and teach the soda dispensers the most improved fountain methods, and, most important of all, the fact that one ounce of Coca-Cola syrup to five ounces of cold carbonated water makes a perfect Coca-Cola. Also, as an aid to standardization of the drink, the company has adopted a special six-ounce thin glass, and last year sold more than 3,400,000 of them.

The 1,250 Coca-Cola bottling plants are subject to rigid inspections by experts retained by the organization to insure standardization and purity of the bottled drink. In these plants all bottles are washed and sterilized in a 5 per cent solution of caustic soda, at temperatures of from 130° to 180° Fahrenheit. They pass from these sterilizing machines to the filling and crowning machines without the touch of human hands.

Through a manufacturing system known as "laboratory control," approximately 18,000,000,000 gallons of Coca-Cola syrup is made each year with every drop exactly like every other. And every possible precaution is taken to make every one of the 2,300,000,000 drinks sold a year exactly like every other—which means that each one is "delicious and refreshing."

Isn't it a remarkable tribute to the industry back of Coca-Cola that this result is accomplished at 5c a bottle or glass?

THE KELP INDUSTRY

Story of Experiments Made in It on the Pacific Coast

Many experiments have been made in putting the seaweed known as kelp to practical use. In the early part of the last century crude methods in Scotland yielded about 30,000 tons of potash and by-product salts annually. Open vats were used in the process. During the middle of the nineteenth century more scientific methods were employed. Closed retorts were employed and more of the by-products were realized. The industry grew to some extent in Germany but this, like the venture in Scotland, was an economic failure.

Such has been the case with the kelp industry in the United States. However, a measure of success marked the operation of a plant at San Diego, Cal., during the war. From this plant the crude dried product was shipped East to form the basis of fertilizer compounds. The weed was also used as a raw material for the production of chemical compounds by a powder company. All during the year 1917 this company handled 24,000 tons of kelp each month and supplied the English war-time demand for acetone. The Japanese produce nearly all their required potash salts from kelp and export considerable quantities of iodine.

In 1916 the United States government became interested in the possibilities of the seaweed industry. Congress appropriated $300,000 for the erection of an experimental plant at Summerland, Cal., and the weed was chopped, dried and treated for the recovery of ammonia, potash, iodine and other by-products. CHURCH AVERS POLICE AID FOE

Catholics at Des Moines Ask an Investigation

Charge That Officers Aided in Religious Strife

City Officials Threaten to Remove the Guilty

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DES MOINES (Iowa) Sept. 10. Threatening removal or suspension of a number of policemen alleged to have been connected with a reported affront to Catholics here in attendance at the National Conference of Catholic Charities, Mayor Carl Garver today began consideration of a report by Chief of Police Cavender on the latter's investigation of the manner in which two photographers last night obtained a photograph to be used, it was said, as anti-Catholic propaganda.

The Mayor held a conference with members of the Catholic Charities Executive Committee and with heads of the police department this afternoon and announced later that further inquiry would be necessary before his action could be determined.

At the conference was displayed a copy of a Ku Klux Klan paper issued today which carried a photograph similar to the one reported to have been obtained last night at the Coliseum, where the charities conference is under way. The photograph showed a Holy Name Society banner, similar to those used in a parade Sunday, flying above an American flag.

The Catholic Charities Executives Committee alleged that two men entered the coliseum last night, placed the Holy Name banner above an American flag on a flagpole and photographed it in that position and that two policemen escorted them to the hall from police headquarters on instructions from Night Captain De Vies.

Capt. De Vies has denied this statement.

Affidavits made by all officers concerned were said to disagree as to the part played in the affair by the policemen.

ANTI-KLAN BODY BORN IN COUNTY

Papers of Incorporation Filed by United Americans, Patriotic Organization

United Americans, a patriotic, nonsectarian, nonpolitical national fraternity opposed to the Ku Klux Klan and other forms of intolerance and racial discord, was formally organized here yesterday with the filing of incorporation papers in Los Angeles county.

The organizers are listed as John W. Considine, originator of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, and one of the members of the Sullivan-Considine theatrical circuit; John W. Considine, Jr., his son, general manager of the Joseph M. Schenck Productions, Inc., and Thomas J. Considine, another son. Headquarters of the organization will be at the Hotel Alexandria.

The cardinal principles of the new order will be undying loyalty to the American flag and the principles for which it stands, full-hearted support of the Constitution of the United States, greater respect for law and order and eternal hostility to every form of tyranny and despotism over the lives and affairs of mankind, according to the literature issued by the new organization.

To make America safe for Americans will be one of the slogans of the new organization, its declaration of principles states.

The attack on the Klan is made in the following paragraphs:

"The members of the United Americans sacredly and solemnly pledge themselves to withstand all forms of oppression and to hold themselves in readiness to defend at all times any brother member whose life or property may be endangered by threats from the Ku Klux Klan or similar orders.

"To use our concentrated power to free the nation of the Ku Klux Klan and utterly defeat the force of this order and all other organizations that strike at the foundations of our liberties and flout and misprize what we honor and hold dear."

The requirements for admission to the new order will be that the applicant be a citizen of the United States, of sound mind and body, between the ages of 18 and 65, a member of the Caucasian race and a believer in the existence of a Supreme Being.

A big meeting to initiate the Los Angeles Council No. 1 will be held in a few weeks, Mr. Considine said yesterday.

Don Tyler, Boy Orator, Speaks Before Masons

Virtually the entire membership of The Times Masonic Club was present at the first meeting after the summer vacation at the Alexandria last night.

After a 6 o'clock dinner a music program was furnished by Miss Perle Dresse, violinist, and Richard Bender, piano. Both artists have appeared many times over The Times radio and were greeted by the many present who are regular listeners-in. Miss Dresse is a member of the faculty of Pomona College.

Judge Ira F. Thompson, Past Master of Elysian Lodge, and Don Tyler, winner of the National Oratorical Contest, were speakers of the evening. Both addresses were of a patriotic nature, having to do with the Constitution of the United States. Don Tyler delivered his now famous winning oration, while Judge Thompson talked on "Masonry and the Constitution."

The next meeting of the club will be on October 15, next, when a dinner dance will be held for members and their invited guests in the ballroom of the Alexandria.

ALCOHOL BANNED BY MICHIGAN DOCTORS

STATE "PRESCRIPTION DRY," SAYS WOMAN WORKER FOR TEMPERANCE

GRAND RAPIDS (Mich.) Sept. 10.—"The patent-medicine field is the only place left to preach medical temperance in Michigan," said Mrs. E. L. Calkins of Ypsilanti, State president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, at the closing session here of the golden jubilee of the Kent County Union.

Prescriptions for liquor for medical purposes in this State are few, Mrs. Calkins asserted, adding that no reputable physician prescribes alcohol and the use of alcohol as medicine is not even discussed in the medical school of the University of Michigan.

"If all States in the United States had the same standard in this regard as Michigan, the National W.C.T.U. could drop the department of medical temperance," she said.

Le Arrebatan su Presa al Cadalso

Al dictarles su destino a los dos colegiales ricos, dijo que no había podido encontrar "circunstancias atenuantes" en el secuestro y asesinato de Bobby Franks, muchacho de 14 años; pero teniendo en consideración el progreso del derecho penal universal, y los dictados de un humanitarismo ilustrado, había resuelto salvarlos de la horca.

Su sentencia fue prisión perpetua por el asesinato, y noventa y nueve años por el plagio con petición de rescate.

Los abogados que no están conformes con el fallo dicen que no es fácil entender como van a compadecerse esas sentencias con la ley de libertad preparatoria de Illinois. El Fiscal Crowe manifestó que él creía que a los muchachos podría concedérseles libertad preparatoria dentro de veinte años; otros dijeron que dentro de treinta, y otros, por fin, que a los treinta y cinco o cincuenta años. Pero si se respeta la resolución del juez Caverly, Loeb y Leopold no saldrán sino muertos de entre los pardos muros de Joliet, pues el tribunal recomienda que nunca se les otorgue la libertad bajo palabra.

"Cuando se trata de crímenes tan atroces", dijo, "cae enteramente dentro de la discreción del departamento de bienestar público el no conceder a tales reos la libertad preparatoria, y a tal conducta le encarece este tribunal que se adhiera."

Había guardias al lado del juez fiste pronunció sentencia. Otros, muy numerosos custodiaban a los asesinos, vigilaban a la muchedumbre en la sala de juzgado, montaban guardia en las puertas, en los pasillos y en un cordón de hierro que rodeaba el edificio y la cárcel, por temor de que alguno de los centenares de "chiflados" que han escrito cartas amenazadoras, quisiera entregarse a la violencia.

Los dos muchachos, Leopold, aventajado estudiante de leyes de la Universidad de Chicago, y Loeb, el más joven de los pasantes que iban a graduarse en la Universidad de Michigan, cambiarán mañana sus correctas ropas universitarias por los uniformes de mezclilla azul grisáceo de los sentenciados a prisión perpetua en la penitenciaría de Joliet.

Los dos matadores de Robert Franks pasaron su última noche en la antigua celda familiar de la cárcel del condado, antes de emprender el largo y lento viaje cuyo término son los muros interiores de la prisión del Estado de Illinois.

PEQUIN, Septiembre 10. — En Shanhaikwan y Hsifengkou se están movilizando refuerzos de las tropas de Chihli, que defenderán a Pequín contra cualquier ataque por parte del general Chang Tso Lin, señor de la guerra en Manchuria. Calcúlanse los refuerzos en más de 50,000 hombres.

Continúan los movimientos de tropas hacia el norte, desde las cercanías de Pequín, evidentemente con el fin de establecer líneas de batalla a considerable distancia de la capital, contra la marcha hacia el sur con que han amenazado las fuerzas manchúes de Chang. La situación se está poniendo hora con hora más tirante, a pesar la aparente calma del gobierno de Pequín.

La Brigada Seca Entra en Combate

Una brigada de investigadores de la Fiscalía, esforzándose en contener la corriente de licor que inunda el condado, tuvo un aparatoso combate a balazos con una cuadrilla de matuteros de aguardiente, en la madrugada de ayer, en la playa adyacente a Portuguese Bend.

Los contrabandistas fueron cogidos con las manos en la masa, cargando licor de un barco gasolinero en dos pesados automóviles. Abrieron el fuego contra los investigadores tan luego como los vieron, y hubo un tiroteo en que se cambiaron docenas de balazos, antes de que los matuteros huyeran en sus coches, más rápidos que los de la policía.

La brigada iba al mando de George Contreras, jefe de la unidad "seca" del Fiscal. Este había recibido el lunes noticia de que iban a matutear un cargamento de licor por Portuguese Bend, en la propriedad de Palos Verdes.

Contreras y sus hombres se ocultaron en un peñasco que domina la playa. Esperaron en vano la mayor parte de la noche, y, finalmente, al rayar el alba, un barco gasolinero navegó hasta corta distancia de la playa. Los contrabandistas llegaron en dos pesados autos.

Contreras destacó a dos de sus hombres peña abajo en una dirección, en tanto que él y el resto de su gente partieron en otra dirección para intentar cercar a los matuteros.

El duelo a balazos comenzó justamente cuando los dos rimeros investigadores llegaron a la playa. Los contrabandistas siguieron disparando por espacio de varios minutos, y luego, advertidos de que los estaban rodeando, saltaron a sus coches y corrieron hacia Point Fermin.

Contreras y los otros investigadores habían llegado entretanto al sitio de los acontecimientos y comenzaron a perseguir a los fugitivos. Estos seguían disparando, y una de sus balas perforó un neumático de la máquina de Contreras. Otra estrelló su parabrisa, y el auto del jefe tuvo que pararse.

Dice Contreras que oyó que uno de los contrabandistas había gritado como si hubiera sido herido, y está cierto de que uno de ellos lo está.

Más tarde descubrieron los investigadores que los matuteros habían hecho uso de dos balsas para desembarcar el licor del buque, el que después se había hecho a la mar. En una de las balsas encontraron los oficiales una caja de licor, que confiscaron.

PSYCHOLOGY

is the most attractive and interesting of all Sciences. It solves all problems and reveals all mysteries of life. It removes the three great fears that haunt mankind almost from the cradle to the grave. Pseudo, or false psychology is the fad of today.

Fine schools, fine teachers are not enough, unless this science is taught THE NATION IS DOOMED. It is the science that develops the higher, intellectual or spiritual faculties not yet developed in the race. "What a piece of work is man; how infinite in faculty." If the human race is ever raised to its highest level, psychology will perform that service. PSYCHOLOGY IS AN EXACT SCIENCE. The battle of life is between Knowledge and Ignorance. It is impossible to give a clear definition of this astonishing science in a limited space. STATE ON TRAIL OF BAD BROKERS

Open Hearing on Case at San Diego

Former Los Angeles Man Being Quizzed

Better Business Bureau Aids in Prosecution

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 10.—A State-wide campaign launched by the Corporation Commissioner's office for the avowed purpose of driving crooked brokers out of business, was given a local aspect today when hearings were started to determine whether or not the brokers license of R. W. Foster, former Los Angeles operator and former head of the R. W. Foster & Co. of this city, should be revoked. The company at one time conducted a stock and bond business here.

Foster, facing a felony indictment as a result of his asserted activities here, was present at the hearing. He is being defended by J. G. Fitzpatrick, Los Angeles attorney. The hearing is being conducted by E. M. Daugherty, Corporation Commissioner, and E. F. Dishman, chief field deputy, with W. I. Praul of Los Angeles as prosecutor, assisted by Lewis J. Utt, counsel of the San Diego Better Business Bureau.

Foster ran afoul of the law several months ago, along with two associates, G. F. Childs and B. O. J. Finnigan. The latter two became fugitives from justice, but Finnigan later was apprehended and is now at liberty on bail. Childs is still at liberty.

The amount involved in the asserted shady operations of the company is between $20,000 and $30,000. A score or more of San Diegans, including several women, are said to have lost sums ranging from $500 to $5000. A number of these persons testified in today's hearing.

Further evidence will be presented tomorrow, after which the case will be taken under advisement, preliminary to the handing down of a decision. The Foster case is one of sixteen of like nature that are awaiting the attention of the Corporation Commissioner's office.

Transportation Real Problem in Redlands

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

REDLANDS, Sept. 10.—Redlands is in the throes of a transportation problem that is giving the City Trustees and a transportation committee which was named recently, many hours of worry and work. The committee, consisting of C. A. Rolfe, L. M. King, W. L. Thornquest and George Tyree, has worked out a temporary transportation system to take care of the school children until a better system can be formulated.

The Pacific Electric has declined to put on more motor busses at the present time, but has worked with the committee in arranging a schedule that would take care of the high school and junior high school children. The company has also turned over to Mr. Thomas of the Mentone-Redlands stage the run to the University of Redlands and Sylvan Park and he will take care of that traffic in the future.

Some time ago the Pacific Electric took off the one-man electric cars here and replaced them with a partial bus service which has not been satisfactory.

POMONA AND OXFORD ARE TO DEBATE

British Team Coming to Compete With Southland College Next Winter

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

Pomona College has been placed on the schedule of the debating team of Oxford University. The team, consisting of Malcolm J. MacDonald of Queen's College, son of the British Prime Minister; J. D. Woodruff of New College, and M. C. Hollis of Balliol College, will tour Canada and the United States in a series of debates during the next four months.

On January 7, 1925, the Oxford team will debate at Claremont against a Pomona team of three men yet to be selected from the senior class. In accordance with the Oxford method of debate, the decision will be left to a vote of the audience.

Disgruntled Voters Meet at San Diego

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 10.—An element in San Diego antagonistic to the administration of Gov. Richardson will place a candidate for Assembly in the field at the November election against Byron W. Walters, a young attorney, who defeated P. A. Whitacre in the recent primary.

This was decided at a meeting of a score or more of disgruntled voters last night. Admission to the meeting was by card only, in order to insure harmony by excluding those not in sympathy with the movement, according to leaders of the anti-Walters forces.

A committee of seven, including Rabbi Max Dubin, Mrs. Della Haman, club woman, Al Rogers, labor editor, and Mrs. Annabelle Riley, social worker, was appointed to select a candidate and will report at another meeting next week.

Walters conducted his campaign as a 100 per cent supporter of the Governor and the administration economy program. He won over Whitacre by nearly 1000 votes and had no opposition in the November election until the anti-Richardson faction decided to place an opponent in the field.

DISCUSS PROJECT OF CHECK DAM SYSTEM

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 10.—A project to install check dams along the Santa Ynez River slopes of the Santa Ynez Mountains to divert rain and flood water to natural underground reservoirs lying under the floor of the Goldeta and Carpinteria valleys will be broached and discussed at a Farm Bureau meeting of ranchers of the two sections on Friday night here, it was announced today, when, it is hoped the water problem of the two great walnut districts will be finally solved.

The idea of the check dams on the slopes of the hills has never been tried in California, it is said, but has been worked with success in Texas. Farm Bureau members who have carefully investigated the matter say the cost of such work would be from $200,000 to $500,000 while the formation of an irrigation district and the development of enough water to serve the sections in question would be about $20,000,000.

JURY FAILS TO JUSTIFY DEATH

Coroner's Verdict Does Not Exonerate Officer

Youth Shot While Engaged in Burglary Job

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Sept. 10.—That legal action against Patrolman Harold Potter, the officer who shot and killed Israel Tammer, 19-year-old boy burglar, may be taken, became a possibility today when a Coroner's jury returned a split verdict. Four of the jurors voted that the homicide was justifiable while two of the jurors sustained the action of the officer.

As a result of the verdict at the inquest Deputy Coroner E. L. Green will present all the facts of the case before the District Attorney to be decided whether or not the shooting of the youth was justifiable, it was announced.

Young Tammer was shot last Sunday night while he and a companion, Bernard Black, were attempting to rob the Thompson grocery store on East California street. Patrolman Potter was hiding near the scene and commanded the boys to surrender. They failed to comply and a shot from Potter's gun felled Tammer, testimony revealed.

Jurymen Wallace Follett, J. C. Kendrick, B. Benlof and J. W. Shead voted against the officer's action, while A. A. Weymouth and A. F. Charles held that it was justifiable.

Aged Camper Still Missing From Redlands

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

REDLANDS, Sept. 10.—Not a trace has ever been found of A. S. McCleary, aged Santa Ana man, who some days ago disappeared from the family camp near Forest Home in Mill Creek Canyon.

Mr. McCleary, who was 67 years of age, left the camp one noon without telling anyone where he was going. Since then not a trace has been found of him, but since every trail in that section has been examined and no trace of the body found, the members of the family now believe that he wandered away.

About two years ago he suffered a paralytic stroke and for some time after that could not remember anything. It is feared that he had another, wandered away and is perhaps some place in the south, unable to remember who he is or where he belongs.

CALEXICO, Sept. 1.—It is announced by local lettuce men that lettuce has attained a higher price than it has for several years. It is now $7.50 per crate with four dozen heads to the crate. It is being retailed two heads for 25 cents.

The high price is caused by the shortage of acreage in the north of the State and it is said that in a short time there will be none of the commodity on the market.

INFECTION CAUSES DEATH

Ontario Officer Cleared of Responsibility When Jury Finds Diseased Wound Killed Indian

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 10.—Infection in a scalp wound and not a blow from an Ontario policeman's club caused the death of Ramona Acosta, an Indian, at the General Hospital Tuesday, a week after his arrest, according to a verdict of a Coroner's jury today.

The jurors' verdict that Acosta met his death from "infection in a scalp wound inflicted by a policeman in the performance of his duties," absolved Policeman Orrin F. Clark, of the Ontario police force of all responsibility for the death of the Indian.

Dr. E. H. Hull, an autopsy surgeon, testified that Acosta's death was due directly to the infection and not the blow, adding that the blow did not injure the Indian's skull. The infection was due to uncleanliness, the physician said.

Clark testified that he was forced to strike the Indian with a club when Acosta resisted arrest on the night of September 1 when he created a disturbance by playfully tossing dishes through a window. Acosta was intoxicated when arrested, the officer said.

Acosta did not complain of his illness for a week after being sentenced to serve thirty days in County Jail, Deputy Sheriff O. W. Botorff said. The Indian was removed to the hospital from the jail last Friday. He died early Tuesday morning.

Fresno Hotel Man Is Facing Liquor Charge

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, Sept. 10.—A $2000 bond for the appearance of H. Wingate Lake, manager of the California Hotel, to answer charges of possessing intoxicating liquor and maintaining a nuisance has been posted with Samuel F. Hollins, United States Commissioner. Lake's attorney, Lewis H. Smith, announced yesterday.

The bond, Smith added, was posted last Saturday. Last Saturday evening, however, Hollins declared that no bond had yet been posted, and that the warrant for Lake's arrest, which had been obtained the preceding Saturday by Thomas J. Niceley, Federal prohibition agent, was in the commissioner's office.

Charges against Lake followed search of his apartment in the hotel and the arrest of Henry Dunn, the then head bellboy of the hotel. Niceley reported that he seized small quantities of vermouth and gin in Lake's apartment, analysis of which by government chemists showed the gin to be of recent illegal manufacture.

TRAFFIC VICTIM HAS CHANCE TO RECOVER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, Sept. 10.—H. K. Howard, 49 years of age, a railroad switchman, who was believed to have been fatally injured shortly after midnight yesterday morning when his automobile was struck at Merced and Fulton streets by a car driven by Thomas Dodge, Jr., has a fair chance to recover, his physician, Dr. John D. Morgan, said yesterday. Howard is a patient in the Burnett sanatorium, to which he was transferred from the city Emergency Hospital soon after the collision. Dodge, reported by police to have been traveling at a high rate of speed, is at liberty on $50 bail on a charge of reckless driving, booked against him by officers. He was driving an automobile belonging to Wylie M. Giffen, and was accompanied by Louise Clark of 1029 Roosevelt avenue.

The South Gate Trustees were notified that this system would be ready for their aproval in about sixty days.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 10.—Santa Barbara has more illicit dumping-places than any city of its size in the opinion of City Fire Inspector Frank Ernst, expressed in a statement issued by him today. At the same time it was announced that a vigorous campaign against rubbish and dump heaps in back yards and lanes would be launched immediately. Severity in dealing with offenders against the city fire laws will be the rule, according to Ernst, who expects to make the community one of the cleanest in the State.

He must remain in jail until the machine has been disposed of.

Workman Discovers Copper Urn Under Bridge

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Sept. 10.—A small copper urn containing the ashes of the body of Dr. W. N. Hailman, onetime prominent citizen of Pasadena, was found under the La Loma bridge shortly after noon today. The discovery was made by an employee of the park department and the urn was turned over to the police.

Investigation revealed that Dr. Hailman died and was cremated May 19, 1920. He was 83 years of age. Police officers believe that a thief must have robbed the Hailman home and discarded the urn of ashes after finding what it contained. Mrs. Hailman now lives in Cleveland, O.

BEES BUSIER

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

HANFORD, Sept. 11.—Even a dry year has its advantages. The shortage of water for irrigation in the San Joaquin Valley this year has caused alfalfa, the universal forage plant, to blossom quickly and sweetly and millions of busy little bees have been gathering in an unusually large amount of honey from the alfalfa fields to the joy of the apiarists.

VICTIM OF AMNESIA IS TAKEN HOME

Ontario Business Man is Found After Several Days of Wandering

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ONTARIO, Sept. 10.—Apparently suffering from loss of memory and nervous collapse, Marvin T. Finley, well known Ontario business man, was confined to his bed tonight at his home, 204 East Grove street, after having been found wandering about the Alta Loma district to the east, following his disappearance earlier in the week. Mr. Finley, whose disappearance had been reported to the police, was picked up by Hugh Hawkins, driver of a delivery car for an Ontario laundry, and returned to his home here.

He is under the care of a physician. Worry over the fact that he recently went on the bond of Albert D. Wellborn, a local barber, held to the Superior court on a charge of criminally attacking Peggy Colborn, 14-year-old Ontario girl, is given as a contributing cause of the business man's condition. Mrs. Finley has requested that her husband be released from the bonds and negotiations looking to this were taken with the District-Attorney's office this evening.

MEXICAN RAILROAD

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

MEXICALI, Sept. 10.—Francisco Peres, managing director of the National Railways, arrived from Mexico City last week and made it known today that he returned in order to continue work on the Gulf Line Railroad, which was started last winter.

He states that the proposition will not be handled by the National Railway, but by another corporation which is said to be the Southern Pacific Railway Company. It is said that the Southern Pacific has already made negotiations for the completion of the work, and has several cars of material and machinery at Yuma ready for transportation to Mexicali.

The line will run from Mexicali to Gonzales by way of La Bomba. It will be the main shipping port of produce from the Imperial Valley and Mexicali. It will also cause a great increase of agricultural operations on both sides of the line. It is stated that the line will be completed and in operation by the first of next July.

Entrance was gained by removing the glass from a side window. The thieves carried away their loot in an automobile, the tracks indicating that they approached the place from the east and in departing went south on Central avenue, according to Reuben Wade, proprietor of the place.

NO SOLACE FOR POOR BOOTLEGGER

Orange Revises Ordinance to Add to Discomforture of Moonshine Gentry

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ORANGE, Sept. 10.—Local bootleggers, who have felt somewhat at ease since discovery that the city liquor ordinance conflicted with the Wright Act, today visioned a tough winter ahead, with the loophole to possible lightened punishment furnished by the faulty city statute rapidly being closed.

Within thirty days every avenue of possible escape by contesting the liquor ordinance will have been blocked by customary legal process.

The bootlegger, or anyone else charged with infractions of the city liquor laws, will find themselves "sentenced to stay," with no recourse to technicalities involving the constitutionality of the municipal law to free them after they have been sentenced.

The missing "teeth" were put into the city statutes yesterday when the City Council adopted a new liquor ordinance, patterned after the Wright Act.

The ordinance will become a full fledged law within thirty days, the period allowed for legal seasoning.

Three hundred dollars fine with an alternate of a jail sentence at the rate of one day for every dollar will be the maximum punishment for first offenders under the new statute, while second offenders will draw $300 fine, ninety days in jail or both.

REGISTER PROTESTS

Pasadena Citizens Object to Faulty Sidewalks

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Sept. 10.—Scores of indignant citizens crowded the City Directors' rooms this morning to protest against the quality and cost of sidewalk, curb and gutter improvements, which have just been completed on Fair Oaks avenue. The protests were all verbal, but extremely vigorous.

Following the hearing W. C. Earle, City Engineer, admitted that the sidewalks were faulty, and declared that in spite of the precautions taken by the contracter and city inspector the topping of the walks had raised and worked loose. The walks cost $17,162.32.

Among those who addressed the board were F. A. Zimmerman, A. Roos, J. B. Asman, John Kane, Elias McLean, E. E. Hall, Frederick Duke, J. A. Neighbor, Joseph Hiensch, J. C. Rendant, Carl Runde, Edith Benedict, R. S. Ewing, S. J. Clarke, C. W. Edwards and W. O. Lloyd.

The lights were again turned on in all parts of the city for street-lighting purposes. Pacific Boulevard had been using only about a dozen streets lights during the period. Now this thoroughfare is again lighted with fifty electric lights.

SLAV TREASURY NOTES ARE SOLD

Bank of Italy Participates in Colorado Bond Sale

County Paid $5,000,000 on Flood Control Lien

Blair & Co., Inc. and Chase Securities Corporation yesterday sold an issue of $3,000,000 Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovens (Jugo-Slavia) 6 per cent Treasury gold notes maturing March 31, 1925. The notes were offered at par and accrued interest.

An official statement furnished by the Minister of Finance of Jugo-Slavia states that the proceeds of the issue of notes will be used exclusively for the completion of railways now under construction as specified in the budget. The government owns 2290 miles of the 5940 miles of railroads in the kingdom. Since 1919 the government has acquired by purchase 550 miles, built 300 miles, and has at present, 160 miles additional under construction. The operating ratio of the government railroads in 1923 was 64.25 per cent.

The Minister also states that during the last few years Jugo-Slavia has made great progress in improving its financial and economic situation and in consolidating the various political units which form the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes. This is borne out by the budget for the fiscal year 1924-1925, which balances at (dinars) 10,405,000,000 by the progressive increase in the kingdom's foreign trade, and by the additional decrease in the amount of paper currency in circulation.

For the twelve months' period ending March 31, last, revenues exceeded anticipated expenditures by 1,590,000,000 dinars, which at the average rate of exchange during the period is equivalent to $17,800,000. The bulk of the surplus in addition to the budget provision for the year amounting to a total of approximately 1,900,000,000 dinars, or about $21,200,000, was applied in payment for railroad construction and equipment and for other productive capital purposes.

For the last twelve months both sterling and dollar exchanges have remained steady; dollar exchange improved gradually from 1 cent per dinar early last year to about 1.30 cents per dinar, the present rate. The state in the early months of the year signed a treaty with Italy determining the status of Fiume, and recently, a commercial accord between the countries has been signed which should exercise a favorable influence on the development of the kingdom.

COLORADO UTILITY ISSUE

The bond department of the Bank of Italy is participating in the new issue of $10,000,000 public Service Company of Colorado 5½ per cent bonds, due 1954. These bonds are being offered at 93 and interest to yield 6 per cent.

The Public Service Company of Colorado is located in one of the most important and prosperous regions in the State of Colorado, and supplies without competition electricity for light, heat and power to Denver, the capital of the State, and largest financial center in the Rocky Mountain region. The bonds, in the opinion of counsel, are secured by a direct first mortgage lien on the modern steam-generating station and transmission lines nearing completion, and on other important parts of the company's properties, and are a direct mortgage lien on substantially all of the remainder of the company's properties now owned or hereafter acquired.

Net earnings before depreciation and Federal taxes were $2,360,394 in 1920. In 1924 the net earnings were $4,136,679. Annual interest requirements on the total mortgage indebtedness now outstanding with the public, including this issue, amount to $1,832,195.

WEALTH FOR COUNTY

Acting for the syndicate of which it is a member, the Citizens' National Company yesterday paid the sum of $5,000,000 to the county of Los Angeles for the purchase of the Los Angeles county flood-control district 5 per cent bonds, maturing 1925-54, which were awarded recently to the syndicate.

The bonds were voted by the electorate several months ago for the protection of various districts from storm and flood waters. The money received by the county from the syndicate will be applied to construction in all parts of the county, with the exception of Catalina Island.

DIVIDEND PAYMENT

A dividend of $1 a share will be paid to stockholders of the Washington Square Land Company who are of record the 10th inst., according to an announcement yesterday by Victor Girard. The company was organized in 1911 to develop and sell 200 acres of property on West Adams street, located between Los Angeles and Venice. This is the first payment made to stockholders.

Officers of the company are L. D. Sale, president; Louis M. Cole, vice-president, and Victor Girard, secretary and treasurer.

RESOLUTIONS COMMITTEE

Frank L. Pettingell, president of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, has appointed a committee of members to draft resolutions on the death of Charles L. Talbot, a member of the exchange for several years, who died the 6th inst. The committee is composed of P. C. Stevens, chairman; L. S. Parsons, George E. Mills, A. L. Jameson and John George.

BUSINESS ADDRESS

L. M. Maynard, Los Angeles economist, this evening will address a meeting of the Southern California Retail Hardware Merchants' Association at the Hotel Virginia in Long Beach. Mr. Maynard will speak on "How General Business Looks Generally." An open forum will follow his address.

NEW APPOINTMENTS

Harold Brown, general manager of the Los Angeles office of Patton & Co., yesterday announced the association with that organization of C. A. Smith as manager of the unlisted stock and bond department. Mr. Smith was formerly a member of the firm of Campbell & Smith of Detroit.

CONVENTION TRIP

T. E. Ivey, Jr., cashier of the California Bank, accompanied by Mrs. Ivey, leaves tomorrow for New York and other points in the East. Mr. Ivey will take the opportunity to study eastern bank operating methods, and will attend the American Bankers' Association convention in Chicago from the 29th inst. to October 2.

BUSINESS PROBLEMS TOPIC

Outstanding spokesmen for all sides of America's business problems will be heard by the nation's bankers at the coming annual convention of the American Bankers' Association at Chicago, it is disclosed in the program of the general sessions made public yesterday. The meeting will be the fiftieth annual convention of the association and will be held from the 29th inst. to October 2. Divisional and committee meetings will be called the opening day, and the first general session will be held the morning of the 30th inst.

Walter W. Head, president of the association, will open the general business session with an address on the part of the banker in the nation's business. Another speaker will be E. T. Meredith, head of the Meredith farm publications of Des Moines, Iowa, and former Secretary of Agriculture, on the "Relation of Agriculture to Other Business." He will be followed by Dwight W. Morrow of J. P. Morgan & Co., New York, international banker of world-wide recognition. Especial interest attaches to what Mr. Morrow may have to say in view of his recent discussion of the way international loans are handled, refuting popular notions that their success depended upon the dictation of a few huge international banking houses and showing that they required the confidence of a vast number of small investors.

SOIL HEAD WILL TALK

On the second day the first speaker before the general session will be Arthur Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National Bank of Chicago, on the subject, "Tuning in With Events." He will be followed by C. H. Markham of Chicago, president of the Illinois Central Railroad, who will speak on "The Railroads as Factors in Business." The third speaker will be John E. Edgerton of Lebanon, Tenn., president of the National Association of Manufacturers, on "Making Securities Secure."

Still other major phases of current problems will be taken up at the third general session. James C. Cropsey of Brooklyn, N. Y., justice of the Supreme Court of New York, will speak on "The Responsibilities of Citizenship." The final speaker will be Senator George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia on "Banks and the Government."

Advance registrations at the Chicago convention hotels show that this year's meeting will be one of the largest in the history of the organization. The detailed program of the three general sessions is as follows:

BETHLEHEM OUTPUT WIDE

Imagine John Jones, an average American, starting on a business trip to New York. Before he reaches his destination he will in all probability come in contact with nearly all of the 140 products manufactured by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and subsidiary companies. Here are a few of them and the ways in which they are utilized:

Jones is awakened from his sleep on an iron bed and steel springs by an alarm clock operated by steel coils. He shaves with a steel razor and washes his face in an iron bowl which has been covered with porcelain.

In dressing he finds his trousers are supported by steel suspender buttons, and that his belt is made complete by a small steel plate. The leather in his shoes is held together with iron pegs; his hat brim is kept in shape with a small steel wire.

His house is held together by iron nails and probably supported in a few places by Bethlehem structural beams. Of course his breakfast is cooked on an iron stove. His coffee and other food come in tin containers over 98 per cent of which are steel.

He gets into his automobile which is made of steel plates shaped into a roadster or a sedan by the automobile manufacturer. Arriving at the railroad station which is built around a steel skeleton, he gets into a Bethlehem steel built railroad car pulled by a steel engine along steel tracks held to the ground by steel spikes. He rides along the track over frogs, switches, bolts, nuts, washers, rivets and signals, all made by Bethlehem. The farmer's fence along the tracks is made of Bethlehem barbed wire, while the farm implements, tools and water tanks are made of steel of Bethlehem or other manufacture. He passes a freight train whose steel cars, frames and wheels are made in the Bethlehem car shop at Johnstown. He sees ships and tugs made in Bethlehem Shipbuilding Yards.

He arrives in New York through a tunnel made of thousands of segments made by Bethlehem, is carried to his hotel in a subway supported by thousands of tons of steel, elevated to his room in a steel elevator, and finally sleeps on the fourteenth story of a hotel made of Bethlehem structural beams.

BAD CHECKS

Forged checks, bearing the printed business address of H. V. Holcomb, 218 Stimson Building, Los Angeles, and drawn on the Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank, are being cashed by a man giving the name of Theodore F. Harrison. The latter is described by Capt. J. A. Winn, commanding the forgery detail of the Los Angeles police detective bureau, as an American, age approximately 22, height 5 feet 8 inches, weight 145 pounds, light complexion, light hair and freckles on face.

H. V. Holcomb states that six checks, numbers 830, 831, 832, 833, 834 and 835, have been stolen from his office, and that he did not know of the theft until the 8th inst., when one of the checks bearing his forged signature was shown him. A check recently cashed by the supposed Theodore F. Harrison was numbered 833, and was for $35.

Business houses of this city are urged to be on the alert for any person presenting a check bearing the above numbers, and with the firm name of H. V. Holcomb in the upper left-hand corner. If "Theodore F. Harrison" or any other person presents any doubtful check, the suspect should be detained and a call sent to the nearest police officer or the forgery detail at the Central Police Station.

INVESTMENT FEATURES

(As summarized by Edwin Janss, President of the Corporation)

BUSINESS: The Company supplies domestic water to approximately 50,000 people living in the unincorporated territory immediately adjacent to the northeasterly boundary of the City of Los Angeles and known as Boyle Heights, Belvedere, Laguna, Belvedere Gardens, City Terrace, Belvedere Gardens Square, etc. These suburbs cover an area of 4.22 square miles, are about four miles from the Los Angeles business center and are traversed by four electric car lines and three main boulevards. The present Company is the outgrowth of the water system started in 1905 by Dr. Peter Janss and later acquired and developed separately by Janss Investment Company and Belvedere Water Company. It has now become the largest privately owned public utility domestic water supply company operating in Southern California.

WATER SYSTEM: An excellent quality of domestic water is obtained from nine deep wells which tap the water bearing gravels underlying the southern portion of the district. Tests and records of long usage establish the combined capacity of these wells, together with three additional ones to be provided immediately, at 8,800,000 gallons per day which is an abundant supply, as the average consumption during the first six months of 1924 was 1,345,000 gallons per day. The water is pumped into three groups of reservoirs located at high points, from which it is distributed by gravity. This insures a dependable supply under pressure and permits more economical and convenient operation.

SECURITY: A complete investigation of the water system was made by The Chester H. Loveland Consulting Engineers, for the Company in July 1924. An independent investigation was also made subsequently by our own engineer, Edward R. Bowen. Mr. Loveland reports the historical cost, with proposed additions, at $1,164,896.81. He estimates the present reproduction value with additions, less depreciation, at $1,208,077.81. These bonds will be secured by a first mortgage on all the property of the Company, now owned or hereafter acquired, and now valued at approximately twice the amount of all bonds outstanding including this issue. This margin will be protected, as no additional bonds can be issued for more than 50% of the cost of new improvements and only when net earnings after depreciation for the preceding fiscal year, or for 12 out of 14 months next preceding such further issuance, amount to at least one and one-half times the interest requirements on bonds outstanding and those proposed to be issued.

EARNINGS: The rapid growth in the earnings of the Company is disclosed by the audit made by Certified Public Accountants. Net operating profits after depreciation, have been as follows:

1920, $10,047.14 — 1922, $30,325.90
1921, $13,512.32 — 1923, $46,072.29

For the 12 months ending July 31, 1924 net profits, on the same basis, were: $61,326.82 or over 1.71 times interest charges on all bonds outstanding, including this issue. These figures, while highly satisfactory, do not reflect any substantial income from costly extensions and improvements in operation but a short time. With these and the early completion of other new units it is conservatively estimated that Net Earnings, after depreciation, for the 12 months ending June 30, 1925 will be at the rate of over 2.1 times all bond interest requirements.

GUARANTY: Interest and sinking fund payments on bonds and all covenants in the deed of trust, until one-third of all bonds outstanding (including this issue) are retired, are guaranteed by Janss Investment Company which will own all of the $375,000 par value of common stock of the Belvedere Water Corporation and $125,000 par value of 7% preferred stock outstanding.

SINKING FUND. A sinking fund has been created into which the Company is obligated to pay on November 1, 1924, an amount equal to 2% of all bonds then outstanding; on November 1, 1925, 3%; and on November 1, 1926, and each year thereafter, 5%. This fund will be used by the Trustee to purchase bonds in the open market or to redeem the same by lot and is calculated to retire over 60% of the bond issue by maturity.

FRANCHISES: The Company possesses constitutional perpetual franchises and in addition franchises from the County of Los Angeles expiring far beyond the life of these bonds, entitling it to operate in the above territory.

PURPOSE: The proceeds of this issue will be used to acquire and improve various units and extensions, which will be merged and hereafter operated as a one system. This consolidation and financing have been authorized by the California Railroad Commission.

All proceedings leading up to and including the issuance of these bonds are under the direction of Messrs. Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher, and the title to lands will be certified to by the Title Insurance and Trust Company of Los Angeles

FARMER'S DOLLAR IS ON UPGRADE

Agriculture is now enjoying the prosperity of the "sellers' market" rather than the depression of the "buyers' market," in the opinion of A. B. Genung, a department head in the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, who is in Los Angeles as a guest of L. M. Maynard, consulting economist and banker. As further encouragement to the farmer, Mr. Genung believes that the new business cycle will be distinctively agricultural, whereas the last one was industrial.

In the last thirty days the purchasing power of farm products has advanced two points to 79 cents, Mr. Genung pointed out yesterday, which is the highest point touched in three and one-half years. Since December, 1923, the Department of Agriculture index numbers show that the dollar of the corn farmer has increased from 81 cents to 93; the wheat dollar from 80 to 86 cents; the cattle dollar from 59 to 65 cents, and the dollar of the swine raiser from 56 to 60 cents.

The real significance in the improvement of the agriculturalist's purchasing power can be grasped better if looked at from the viewpoint of exchange relationship, according to the government economist. He cites, for instance, the corn dollar, which was worth only 69 cents last December in exchange for building materials. Now this dollar is worth 78 cents in exchange for building materials. Similar relationships apply in the case of the other agricultural dollars.

After completing an extensive tour of Los Angeles and Southern California in company with Mr. Maynard, Mr. Genung expressed himself as deeply impressed with the evidences of prosperity and progress.

"Probably I came here," he said, "with a tendency toward feeling that this territory had been generally over-advertised, but I am frank to admit that I do not feel that way now. I venture to say we have covered over 100 miles of industrial and commercial Los Angeles in the last twenty-four hours and its outlook amazes me. Genius, ambition and foresight are the outstanding features in Los Angeles' progress. Your harbor is remarkable and, shortly, I predict, it will be far more highly appreciated nationally and internationally than it is now.

"With more than 3000 miles of investigation behind me since leaving Washington on this trip, I still am optimistic regarding the business outlook. I feel certain that a period of prosperity is not far away; a period which will be the result of sound political reasoning and one we will all appreciate later if we are wise and make the most of its current opportunities. I look for no boom, but a relatively long upward swing of good, healthy business seems in the offing.

"Los Angeles must not think about readjustment to improve conditions, she must instead think from the standpoint of adjustment to cycle conditions."

BOND QUESTION AT REGULAR ELECTION

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, Sept. 10.—A bond issue of more than $1,000,000 to be used in various municipal improvement projects is to be submitted to the voters in the November election, it was announced today by Mayor Parkhurst.

Submission of the bond issue to the voters was decided upon yesterday at a special meeting of the City Trustees. The money will be used, Mayor Parkhurst said, in building schools, providing for added police and fire protection, erection of a municipal auditorium and a downtown city hall and the construction of a new sewer system. A preliminary survey of the sewage problem has already been completed by City Engineer Chapman and was submitted to the Trustees at the meeting yesterday.

The amount of the bond issue will be definitely decided in a short time, Mayor Parkhurst said.

Number Six of a Series
Oregon Irrigation Bonds

Municipal Bonds To Yield 6% to 6.25%

Oregon Irrigation District Bonds

Yielding 6% to 6.25%

Exempt from All Federal Income Tax

OREGON Irrigation District Bonds are surrounded by the same legal safeguards and issued on the same basis as all municipals in California and other States.

The higher yield is made possible by the fact that while school, highway, court house, and similar bonds add nothing to the productivity of the taxing district, irrigation increases materially the earning power of every acre and the prosperity of every tax-payer.

The importance of this agricultural development is fully appreciated by the State of Oregon, which expresses its confidence in Oregon Irrigation projects by agreeing to pay the first five years' interest on all irrigation district bonds certified by the Securities Commission. This advance represents an equity which is held by the State until the entire bond issue is retired.

Conservative investors will find these Oregon issues an exceptionally attractive opportunity. May we furnish you full details?

STABILIZATION OF TRADE SEEN

Southern Pacific Survey Has Optimistic Tone

Improvement in Spirits of People Discerned

Water and Power Program is Declared Success

There is a definite evidence increasing business stability in Southern California following abnormal developments of preceding months, according to the report on prevalent business conditions, based on August field surveys made by Southern California representatives of the Southern Pacific Company and submitted to J. T. Saunders, assistant freight traffic manager of that company.

The report includes the survey of the general trade, traffic and crop conditions in the southern part of the State and discloses that there has been a noticeable improvement in the psychology of the community during August. "The effects of the water and power shortage are proving to somewhat less serious than was anticipated earlier in the season," said Mr. Saunders.

TURNING POINT

"All of the field representatives of the Southern Pacific Company have made a survey during August of the prevalent business, traffic and agricultural conditions, and their reports indicate that in general, full co-operation is being secured by those in charge of the conservation program.

"Agriculturists are finding that the better utilization of existing water is materially offsetting the losses which have been normally anticipated because of the existing shortage," assures the report. "As crops progress it is definitely certain that agricultural production in most districts of the Southern California territory will be subnormal during the remaining period of 1924, but strengthened prices indicate that the total monetary return to growers will undoubtedly equal that of the preceding year.

MARKET CLEANED

In addition, the small crops will compel the elimination of accumulated carry-over so that the 1925 crops will generally enter a clean market. This condition will result in continued strong prices for most of the crops of this territory, during the present year, and a technically strong position at the opening of the 1925 season.

"The retail trade, particularly in Los Angeles and the larger towns of this territory, have enjoyed about the same volume of retail trade during August as during July. Special sales featured in all lines resulted in the turnover of a volume comparable to these sold last year. Though there was a decrease in the gross and net profits when compared to last year's sales it was due primarily to marked down prices rather than decrease in turnover. The sale of summer merchandise was greater during August than during July."

Rails Liquidated

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Heavy liquidation of St. Paul Railway obligations, which broke 1 to 5 points on publication of unconfirmed rumors that the company would scale down its capital, unsettled today's bond market and caused a general recession of prices. Despite official denials that St. Paul directors contemplate a reorganization of the road or a readjustment of its capital structure in order to meet 1925 maturities, selling pressure, which was evident at the close of yesterday's market, increased today. It was further accentuated by the decline in the road's stock issues to new low records for the year. The St. Paul 4s of 1925 and the convertible 5s suffered the heaviest losses, both yielding more than 4 points. Declines of 1 to 2 points were recorded by the other active issues.

Foreign bonds marked time, although Belgian 6½s established a new high record at 95¾, and French issues held steady in anticipation of the renewal of the $100,000,000 Morgan credit to the Bank of France. The $10,000,000 Paris-Orleans railroad bond issue offered today was quickly subscribed.

Subscription books have been closed on the Treasury's $250,000,000 offering of 2¾ per cent certificates, with an indicated oversubscription. Taking advantage of favorable market conditions the General Asphalt Company will refund its 6 per cent debentures with a new issue of $5,000,000 6 per cent debentures to be offered at 97½.

Following are yesterday's high, low and closing prices of bonds on the New York Stock Exchange, and the total sales of each bond. This market is over Associated Press wires and is expedite transmission the closing is omitted when it is the same as the low, and both low and close are omitted when they are the same as the high.

NEW YORK CURB

Coal Stock Jumps

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Considerable irregularity developed in today's curb market, which was featured by a jump of 3½ points in the stock of the Pittsburg Terminal Coal Company, which is being traded in on a "when issued" basis preparatory to its segregation from the railroad properties. The "rights" also were actively traded in, touching a new high at 10¾ and then falling back to 9¾.

Oil shares gave indications of better support although there were a few heavy spots in that group.

Popular industrials showed mixed changes, largely of a fractional nature. Most of the public utilities lost ground, American Light and Traction and Commonwealth Power each ceding more than a point.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Transactions in the Julian Petroleum stocks continued to dominate the market in yesterday's trading on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. The preferred attained a new high on the movement at 23½ and finished at 21¾, a net gain over the previous day of 1 point. The common sold up to 14¼ and closed off ⅛ at 13½.

A rather wide fluctuation occurred in Los Angeles Investment, the stock selling from a high of 3.66 to a closing price of 3.56, where it was off 4 cents from the previous day. General Petroleum common advanced 1 point to 41⅝ and United Oil climbed 1¼ to 34½. Union Oil Associates acquired ¼ at 57⅛, with Standard Oil duplicating the performance at 58.

In the mining list Telluride sold at 8 and United American at 3¼ cents. Richmond Consolidated was quoted at 4 cents.

Although there were no sales, the bidding on Globe Grain and Milling common reflected some disappointment of traders on the size of the dividend declared late Monday after the closing of the market. Bids were around 53⅛, or off 2½ points from Monday. Mortgage Guarantee was an active industrial, selling at 118, and Los Angeles Gas was quoted at 89⅛.

Active issues during the bond call were the utilities generally and General Petroleum and California Petroleum obligations.

Following are the closing quotations and sales:

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

The Union Oil Company yesterday brought in its Gray No. 1 in Rosecrans field with an initial production of 1225 barrels per day. The product is said to be clean oil, of 61.4 deg. gravity. Depth of the well is 4149 feet, with six-inch casing landed at 4124 feet. It is located just east of Main street, across the field warehouse of the Union Oil Company.

The location of the Gray is the direct result of the intensive drilling campaign which the company is conducting in the Rosecrans field, which comprises eighty-seven drilling wells, or more than a third of the total operations in the district. Bad luck in the form of water trouble and mechanical difficulties has marked these operations, and the Gray well is the fourth well which the company has tried to complete since it began its original Athens No. 1. The Rosecrans No. 1, Athens and Athens No. 2 were plugged up the oil sand, tested, but for one reason or another have never reached the production stage. The Gray well was put on the first test, and in order to get a second string of casing if the difficulty was solved. Today's production raises the total of the Rosecrans field to 4675 barrels per day, with seven wells producing. These are Athens No. 1, 650 barrels; Athens No. 1, 1000 barrels; Highland No. 1, 1000 barrels; Barnsdall No. 1, 800 barrels, and the Gray well, 1225 barrels.

All these wells are producing high gravity oil which has been the sensation of the California industry. Geological theories, based on evidence by many of the engineers and geologists interested in the development of the field, hold that the high gravity zone now being tapped is the upper portion of the area which is likely to produce much larger quantities of a lower gravity product. It is believed according to this theory, that the high gravity petroleum has migrated to the zone discovered by the Maxwell No. 1, from which has not yet been tapped. This migration through sand and other clarifying agencies is responsible for the semi-refined state in which the oil is found.

Whether the oil has migrated laterally from some other district, forced through the intervening sands by terrific pressure, or whether it migrated vertically through fissures from a deeper source are questions which the operators are leaving for the drillers to decide. It is generally believed that deeper drilling will encounter heavier gravity oil than that now being produced.

Athens No. 14

The Shell company is definitely planning to abandon its Reyes well in the Domingues field, and open a new well, it is officially reported. The Reyes No. 14 blew in about two weeks ago at a depth of 3610 feet and destroyed the derrick. A new derrick will be built, and the Reyes 14-A will be put down as soon as possible, it is said.

Oil Well Flows

Athens No. 4, the Union Oil company's northern outpost in the Rosecrans field, yesterday began flowing oil at the rate of 327 barrels per day, according to official gauges. In addition to the oil, the well made about 193 barrels of water, a total of 519 barrels of fluid.

The performance parallels that of the General Petroleum Corporation Cardinal No. 1, which went into production at about the same depth of oil and water, and is now making about fifty barrels of oil per day, after dehydration. The Athens No. 4 offsets the Gardena No. 1.

Gardena Wells

The Associated Oil Company is drilling twelve wells on its recent lease in the southeastern part of the Dominguez field, according to field reports. The lease is fifty acres, and to date twelve wells the Associated Company have to crowd its lessees close to the lines.

Carrying out the Associated's reported program probably will result in an intensive drilling campaign by the surrounding operators, which may mean a four-cornered race to get to the oil first, in the opinion of interested observers. The company owns the acreage east and west of the Marland lease, the Marland lease to the south and the Torrance and De Lamo interests on the 160-acre tract on the north, which has not yet been

It is known that the Associated made an effort to lease the property, but failing it to the eats, but is reported to have considerable interest from other operators.

Notice to Contractors:

Sealed proposals will be received until 12 o'Clock, noon, October 8th, 1924, at the office of the Board of City Commissioners, Mobile County, Mobile, Ala., for the erection and completion of certain portions of proposed High School Group, to be located on the High School property west of Monterey street, in the City of Mobile, County of Alabama, according to plans and specifications and details formerly and prepared by George B. Rogers, Architect, Mobile, Ala., and Palmer, Fellows and Hamilton, Chicago, Ill.

To insure consideration each proposal must be accompanied by a Certified Check in the amount of five per cent (5%) of the bid submitted, which Check is to be forfeited as liquidated damages in case the successful Contractor fails or refuses to enter into contract and make bond within the time stipulated above.

The Contractor will be permitted to file with his bid, and in lieu of a certified check, a bid bond in the amount of five per cent (5%) of the amount of his bid, in which case such bond shall be furnished by a regular Surety Company acceptable to the Owners.

Separate bids will be received for the buildings proper, and on plumbing, heating and electrical work, and on such other portions as may be determined later.

The Architect will furnish forms of proposal blanks to each bidder; also forms of bond that will be required and blanks in which the proposal blanks in the proper manner to have such bids considered.

The work covered by the plans and specifications must be completed on or before August First, 1925.

Plans, specifications and details may be seen on file and may be obtained at the office of George B. Rogers, Architect, 1007 Van Antwerp Building, on and after September 5th, 1924, upon payment of Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) for each set of plans and specifications.

The plans and specifications must be returned to the office of the Architect on or before the date set for the receiving of bids, or upon their receipt will be refunded the above payment will be refunded. Damaged sets of plans and specifications returned must be paid for in full, as set forth in the specifications.

The Board of School Commissioners of Mobile County reserves the right to reject any and all bids, or to waive any informality in any of the bids.

LOVING CARE EVEN AFTER DEATH

Retired Business Man Provides For Disposition of His Body So Wife And Children Shall Not Have That Duty

"I have looked after them all my life, and tried to make things smooth and easy for them. Why shouldn't I arrange now for my proper entombment, when my time comes, and also provide a fitting place for them?" Such was the remark of a retired business man who purchased several adjoining crypts at our Hollywood Mausoleum recently.

He had arranged his investments on a sound basis, made his will and put all his affairs in order—so that his wife and children might be provided for safely whatever the future might bring to him. And he was unwilling that the burden and responsibility of securing the final resting place for his body, after his passing, should fall upon his loved ones—upset and disturbed as he knew they would be at such a time.

He selected Mausoleum interment because he realized, after careful investigation, its great advantage over earth burial or cremation. The permanency of care and surroundings appealed to him, as it must to any intelligent person. And the superiority of construction of the buildings of the California Mausoleum Company — he is a retired builder—left no doubt in his mind as to "which mausoleum?"

Illustrated booklets will be sent free upon request by this Company. Its beautiful buildings at Hollywood and Inglewood are open daily to visitors, under careful restrictions. Information may be had by telephoning the offices, MAin 1534, 206 Harris Bldg., 110 West 11th St.—[Advertisement.

SHE HAS CHANGED

The girl who twenty years ago used to have been languishing around the hotel porches, chiefly concerned with the question of her complexion did not suffer from the sun, is probably not playing tennis or doing basket ball living now. She is so busy in her activity and energy that she is not very conscious of the most important vacation today is not so much a time for a campaign to make conquests as it is the respite in an active year for a woman's business life, a period of rest and preparation for another year of work. If the men that she has come to the summer resorts just to capture their hearts, they "have another think coming," as the slang artists would say.—Coatesville Record.

Not Out of Style

She was a plump widow, with three charming daughters, and they were beginning to wear her "weeds" rightly.

All the same, when the middle one called she said, "Ah! I feel that the dress of my poor, dear husband does not become me much. I never have any appetite for anything now."

The parson was all sympathy. And, in the attempt to cheer her mind, he began pointing out what a comfort to her by pointing out what a comfort her daughters must be, remarking that to her her daughters must be, remarking that "I can quite understand that," he replied. "I can quite understand that. But you are solaced in—"

"S-i-r-r-r!" interrupted the indignant woman, "allow me to inform you that I am not laced in at all!"—Exchange.

Councilman of the County Horticultural Commissioner Albert Call says he never saw or heard anything as unusual. The walnuts are fully formed.

SCHOOLS SHOW HUGE GAIN

Enrollment 10,000 Greater Than Year Ago; 5000 More Expected in New Tabulation; Total 157,757

Showing an increase of 10,000 over last year, the Board of Education yesterday announced Monday's enrollment in the public schools as 157,757. This number includes both high and junior high schools, elementary and evening schools, but there is every indication that a later tabulation will show fully 5000 more as many students did not enroll yesterday, Admission Day being a holiday.

GEM AGENT MURDERED, POLICE SAY

Belief Strengthened After Search Discloses No Clew of Sam B. Boster

The theory that Sam B. Boster, 28 years of age, was murdered by gunmen and robbed of $21,000 in diamonds and $1500 in cash he is known to have carried, gained strength yesterday when an extended investigation by police within the last twenty-four hours failed to disclose even the slightest clew to his whereabouts.

Detective Lieutenants Lloyd and Roberds, seeking the vanished representative of a number of large eastern jewelry houses, stated yesterday afternoon that they had been unable to find trace of the man.

Boster disappeared on August 25, last, carrying with him $20,000 in unset diamonds, a $1000 diamond ring and $1500 in cash. His disappearance was reported to police Tuesday by his brother, Murray Boster of Long Beach.

Parking Rules Hearing Today in City Council

The City Council is scheduled this afternoon to hold a hearing on the proposed new ordinance regulating parking in the congested downtown section of the city, as recommended by the special Parking Survey Committee. In general, the ordinance prohibits parking during the day on business days on Main, San Pedro, Hill and Figueroa streets and many narrow crosstown streets and reduces from forty-five minutes to thirty minutes the parking time limit on Broadway, Spring and other downtown streets. The Downtown Association is opposing many of the proposed provisions of the ordinance and is expected to be represented at today's hearing. The ordinance, of adopted, will take effect about October 15.

Merchants, business firms and industrial plants, in answer to the government's call for a National Defense Test tomorrow, have arranged to release all able-bodied men of military age in their employ between the hours of 1:30 and 5:00 p.m., tomorrow who have signified intention of marching in the Defense Test parade, it was announced yesterday by the Citizens' Defense Test Day Committee. This being the first national test to determine the actual measure of interest of able-bodied men in the defense of the country, every effort is being made by patriotic leaders in Los Angeles to place the city far over the top of its quota of 14,000 men.

These one-day volunteers will give to the service of the country just four hours of time. There will be no registration, no names taken, the sole purpose in the call for one-day volunteers, it being announced by the citizens' committee, is to ascertain how many men Los Angeles would turn out on the first call. These men will march in skeleton ranks of the organized reserve units to make a physical demonstration of the patriotic man-power of Los Angeles.

Meanwhile the business, professional and scientific men who, in the last four years have aided in the building of the great skeleton civilian army of the organized reserves, are completing details of the manner in which they as officers of the reserve would handle volunteers in event of emergency, how they would house, cloths, feed and care for the men within the Los Angeles district. This system was created in 1916 to displace the World War system of concentration camps far away from home towns.

ASSEMBLE IN PARK

The volunteers will assemble in Exposition Park tomorrow, which for the afternoon will be closed to all other people. Upon formation of the Defense Test parade, it will march into the Coliseum, where the public will witness the review. Patriotic exercises will follow, furnishing one of the most spectacular affairs ever witnessed at the Coliseum, according to the committee.

Plans for the Defense Day banquet, tomorrow night at the Biltmore, were announced by Lieut.-Col. Herbert J. Simon, president of the Los Angeles chapter, Reserve Officers' Association.

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur will speak on "Defense Day From the National Viewpoint."

Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant United States Attorney-General, will speak on "Defense Day From the Woman's Viewpoint."

Former Senator Frank P. Flint, chairman of the Citizens Defense Test Day Committee, will speak on "Defense Day From the Citizen's Viewpoint."

FORTUNE HUNTS FRED ADAMS

But Besides Bearing the Names of the Erstwhile Crown Prince and of Two Presidents, He Must Show He is Nephew of Illinois Woman to Get $10,000

A legacy of $10,000 is going begging in this city for the lack of the right Fred Adams to claim it. Yesterday a letter from the County Clerk of Clarkston, Ill., arrived at the office of Fred C. Adams, a stock broker in the Citizens National Bank Building, apparently notifying him that his aunt, Anna Wilson of Cooks Mills, Ill., had died and left him $10,000.

However, Mr. Adams finds that his memory will not conscientiously admit of the existence of an aunt named Anna Wilson. In fact he is not acquainted in Illinois at all. So he is trying reluctantly to find the right Fred Adams whom Anna Wilson mentioned in her will. But although he has gotten in touch with everyone of that name whom he knows in the city the Fred Adams who is the legal claimant, has not been found yet.

Realizing what $10,000 may mean to the right man, Mr. Adams is anxious to get in touch with him. However, to forestall any possible claimants who may plan to inject a late lamented aunt for the purpose of obtaining the legacy, Mr. Adams declares that he will not turn over the communication from the County Clerk until there is absolute proof that the man is the real nephew of Anna Wilson.

Agnes Ayres Secretly Wed

Mr. and Mrs. S. Manuel Reachi

LATIN LOVER WINS ACTRESS

Marriage Performed Secretly Two Months Ago in Mexico; European Honeymoon Planned

The "Latin lover" has won again. Agnes Ayres, screen actress, yesterday revealed she has been the secret bride for two months of S. Manuel Reachi, commercial attache of the Mexican Consul-General at San Francisco. The marriage took place somewhere in Mexico on July 13, last, Miss Ayres declared.

Some time ago the actress announced her engagement to the young diplomat, but has frequently denied they were married. At the Lasky studio yesterday Miss Ayres refused to state why the wedding has been kept secret. "We just didn't want it known, that's all," she said.

Rumor has had it that Mr. Reachi was prevented from announcing his marriage because consent of his government was required to the marriage of diplomats, but this was denied yesterday by Miss Ayres, who declared the consent was obtained before the ceremony. Dr. J. Luna Echagarry, President Obregon's personal physician, witnessed the ceremony, as did Miss Ayres's mother, the actress said.

MEXICO TRIP DENIED

Reachi was expected to arrive here last night by motor from San Francisco, Miss Ayres told reporters. She said he will be here only a short time, as he must return to San Francisco to his work. When asked if Reachi did not contemplate a trip to Mexico City at an early date the actress said: "I don't think so. I know he won't go without me and I haven't heard anything about it."

Honeymoon plans are for a tour of Europe, to start as soon as "Worldly Goods," Miss Ayres's present picture for Lasky's, is completed. This may be within two weeks, it was announced at the studio. Until the picture is completed the couple will spend whatever time they can find together at Miss Ayres's home, 1615 Mantel street.

SECOND FOR ACTRESS

This is the second time the actress has been married. Once before Hollywood was surprised when the actress sued for divorce in 1921 from Capt. Frank P. Schuker, an American army officer, said to have been in France at the time.

Secrecy was maintained at the divorce hearing, in which the actress's mother testified she had fed, clothed and sheltered her daughter since the marriage. Miss Ayres also charged desertion.

A divorce decree was granted her by Judge Summerfield, but when the actress was recognized while leaving the court, word of her identity reached the judge and he set aside the decree.

In a second hearing Judge Summerfield inquired into the testimony that Miss Ayres had been supported by her mother. He finally granted the decree on the grounds of desertion.

WINS DIVORCE FROM BAKING POWDER KING

Mrs. Gladys Cleveland was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Walton J. Wood of Superior Court from Guy B. Cleveland, millionaire baking powder manufacturer of Newark, N. J. The case was heard last June, but Judge Wood reserved decision until yesterday. Mrs. Cleveland charged cruelty. She was awarded $300 a month alimony for her own support and $200 a month additional for the support of her two children.

GARAY CASE NOW PASSES TO DEFENSE

Government Finishes Its Side in Trial of "Doctor" for Misusing Mails

With the testimony of Special Agent Albert Carter of the State Medical Board, the government yesterday closed its case of asserted use of the mails to defraud against "Prof." Juan de Dios Garay, North Main-street "cure all" doctor.

Agent Carter stated that he took part in a raid on the Garay establishment on a search warrant issued by the State courts, which resulted in the finding of thousands of letters received by Garay from sections of the United States, Mexico and Central America. Many of the letters had contained money, requesting the dispatch of some of the "professor's" sovereign remedies for man and beast.

Upon the counsel tables, between Asst. U. S. Atty. Layng and Defense Attorney Stanley Vlasl, reposed a tall bottle of "Aztec Brand Treatment," price, $3.50, on the wide sale of which the government partly bases its case. The "treatment" sets forth on its label that it contains alcohol.

"Prof." Garay hopes to induce the jury in Federal Judge Bledsoe's court to acquit him of the charge after he has placed on the stand scores of witnesses who will testify that the "treatment" was a boon to mankind, and relieved many of suffering.

MAN'S TALE OF WEDDING FUND DENIED

Woman Says Money Paid Her by Boarded Was to Pay Bills He Owed

Relations between Roy Beaman and Anna Sullivan were on a purely business basis and she, not he, is the loser as things stand now, Mrs. Sullivan declared in an answer on file yesterday to the man's suit for $2858.61 he asserts is due him out of funds he advanced her for their joint benefit during a period in which, he said, they were engaged to marry.

According to Beaman's story, it was arranged after they had agreed to marry, that in the interim he would live in her home, pay her $50 a month board and turn over all his spare money to her to be invested for their mutual benefit. He gave her $2458.61 before their romance crashed, he said. Of this he figured $600 to be on account of board.

There never was any engagement, however, and all the money Beaman advanced was in payment of what he owed her for settling some of his bills, Mrs. Sullivan averred in her answer.

Democrats Pick F. W. Shelley to Head Committee

Organization of a Democratic County Central Committee in Los Angeles was effected yesterday despite the fact that only fifty-six of the party's allotted 118 county committeemen were elected in this county at the recent primary.

F. W. Shelley was made chairman, succeeding John W. Elliott, and three vice-chairmen were elected, as follows: Mrs. O. W. Tyler, Edgar Davis and Miss Mary Foy. Mrs. Esther Lee was re-elected secretary and Lloyd McAtee was elected treasurer.

REPUBLICANS ORGANIZE FOR COUNTY CAMPAIGN

Enthusiasm and Confidence Mark Committee Election; Arnold Again Chosen Chairman

BY THE WATCHMAN

Affirming their allegiance to the principles of the Republican party and enthusiastically pledging themselves to work energetically for the election of Coolidge and Dawes, the recently elected members of the Los Angeles County Republican Central Committee met on the eighth floor of the Hall of Records yesterday afternon, organized, and elected permanent officers.

Ralph Arnold was re-elected committee chairman, W. E. Evans was re-elected first vice-chairman and Parley M. Johnson was re-elected as treasurer. Mrs. Harriet W. Works received a unanimous vote for second vice-chairman and George B. Bush was elected secretary. The committee will begin immediate work throughout the county in behalf of the Republican Presidential ticket and other Republican nominees.

Joe Crail, who served as temporary chairman of the Republican meeting, spoke briefly of the necessity for energetic campaigning by California Republicans, but asserted, amid cheers and shouts of approval, that "thousands of those who are now talking La Follette will vote for Coolidge when the time comes." Predictions of Republican success in State and nation were made by J. W. S. Butler of Sacramento and Charles C. Teague of Santa Paula, both of whom were elected in the May Presidential primary as delegates to the Republican National Convention pledged to the nomination and election of President Coolidge.

ISSUES DISCUSSED

Mr. Butler and Mr. Teague discussed the campaign issues in this State and each made a strong appeal for vigorous co-operation by every Republican man and woman in California. Mr. Teague, who heads the Coolidge-Dawes campaign organization in Southern California, evoked warm applause when he asserted that the nation will fully realize before November election that only through the election of Coolidge and Dawes can the best interests of the people be attained and national progress and prosperity be assured.

Congressman Fredericks, Republican nominee to succeed himself in the Tenth District, and Congressman Lineberger, likewise nominated to succeed himself in the Ninth District, received an ovation when they appeared at the Republican rally.

Congressman Fredericks aroused Republican fervor to a high pitch of enthusiasm during a brief, but earnest exhortation to assure victory for Coolidge and Dawes in November. He reviewed the progress of the nation under the Republican administration, laying particular stress upon the fact that the national debt has been reduced by more than $3,000,000,000 during the last three years, and that more than 2,000,000 men were returned to gainful occupations since the Republican administration took over the affairs of government. Under Coolidge and Dawes, Congressman Fredericks said, this record of constructive statesmanship will be continued.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED

Resolutions indorsing the Republican Presidential ticket and citing some of the outstanding achievements of the Republican administration were unanimously adopted as follows:

"Whereas, the urgent demand of the hour, both State and national, is for constructive, courageous and progressive statesmanship, administered through responsible party government, and

"Whereas, Calvin Coolidge and Charles G. Dawes, the nominees of the Republican party for President and Vice-President, respectively, of the United States, fully measure up to these requirements, as has been demonstrated by their achievements and marked success, and their sterling integrity and splendid courage reflected in both word and deed, and

"Whereas, true progressive statesmanship is not manifested through the immediate adoption of every new and untried idea as presented, nor does it contemplate

CHIEF PICKS NEW POLICE SERGEANTS

Sixteen Named for Duty Next Week; Six More to be Appointed

Those named were George E. Allen, Charles Rudolph, Floyd M. Wilson, Frederick W. Fredericksson, Sidney Sweetman, Henry Willis Frost, Wilfred H. Stiles, Roy O. Padgett, Frank R. Berkshire, Anthony Collins, Harrison E. Trose, Richard McHale, Cyrus C. Johnson, James C. Douglas, Howard A. Barlow and Clarence L. Huff.

Three men on the eligible list were passed over in making the appointments. The Chief said he would send for the men and tell them privately the reasons. The new sergeants will be assigned to duty next week. Six more sergeants are to be appointed later.

Eighteen civilian clerks will be placed on duty today and tomorrow, the Chief said, replacing that number of policemen who can be used for patrol work.

Indorsement of increases in salaries of police officials promoted as the result of the shake-up and reorganization of the police department by Chief Heath, was made yesterday by the Finance Committee of the City Council. The indorsement will be presented to the Council today.

Capt. Murray, who has been made Assistant Chief of Police, will receive an increase of $100 per month. His salary as police captain has been $275 monthly. Capts. McDowell and Jackson, who have been appointed deputy chiefs, will receive $325 per month, an increase of $50. Chief of Detectives Home's salary will be increased from $325 to $350. Secretary to the Chief Boyeson will receive $275 per month, an increase of $25. Others to receive increases are Acting Captain Sweeney, in charge of motor vehicle equipment, from $250 to $275; Chief Accountant Olney from $250 to $275, and Sergt. Gardner an increase of $25 monthly over his present salary of $170. The newly created office of business manager of the department has not been filled. The salary will be $300 monthly.

CRIMINAL ASSAULT CHARGE DISMISSED

Charges of criminal assault against Gus Martin were dismissed yesterday by Judge Kestch of Superior Court on motion of Dep. Dist.-Atty. Murray. Insufficient evidence caused the dismissal of the case.

Martin was accused of attacking Gwendolyn Grogan, 23 years of age, during a moonlight petting party last June. He was tried once, but the jury disagreed. Martin maintained the girl filed the charges against him because of jealousy.

INCOME TAX DUE SOON

The income-tax-paying public was reminded, in a statement issued yesterday, that the third installment of the 1923 tax will be due on the 15th inst. and that there is no provision for extension.

SPEED TRAP HELD ILLEGAL

Justices of Second District Court of Appeal Rule Motor Vehicle Act Is Constitutional

The speed trap, fostered by the agencies designed to bring down the errant motorist, received a judicial knockout yesterday at the hands of Justice Works of the Second District Court of Appeal.

In a test case submitted by Victor Fleming of Orange county Justice Works, with Justices Finlayson and Craig concurring, ruled that evidence obtained through the operation of a speed trap was illegal and dismissed the case against the appellant.

Mr. Fleming had been arrested in Orange county and tried for speeding before Judge Drumm of Orange county. He was convicted and thereupon appealed for a writ of review in the case on the grounds that the Superior Court was without power to convict because of certain amendments by the Legislature to the Motor Vehicle Act.

Justice Works annulled the decision of Judge Drumm with the statement that the arrest and conviction had been obtained through violation of Section 155 of the Motor Vehicle Act, which provides that evidence based on the use of a speed trap is not to be admitted.

Dist.-Atty. Nelson and Dep. Dist.-Attys. Mozley and Weptlin of Orange county contended that this section of the act was unconstitutional in that it merely provided methods of presenting evidence but did not attempt to regulate the use and operation of a vehicle.

Justice Works, however, ruled that the section of the act under attack was framed for the express intention of regulating traffic by keeping uniformed officers in plain sight on the highways.

"The presence of traffic officers actually patrolling highways, dressed in distinctive uniforms and in plain sight of all travelers on highways would have a most salutory effect in securing observance of the regulations," Justice Works ruled.

In addition, it was pointed out in the decision, the presence of uniformed officers on the highways would enable them to check all traffic violations, while the operation of speed traps necessarily limits the officers' effectiveness.

WOMAN SCORES LAW BREAKERS

Federal Attorney Appeals for Enforcement

Declares Anarchy Fostered by Liquor Attitude

Confers Here With Judges and District Prosecutors

"America's greatest sin today is the good-humored indifference to existing conditions," declared Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney-General of the United States, in an address on "Law Enforcement," given yesterday before the City Club at the Elite Cafe.

"We cannot lay the whole burden of law enforcement at the door of Uncle Sam," said Mrs. Willebrandt. "On the contrary, it is the duty of every individual, community and State to assist in making successful those policies adopted by the people of the nation."

Mrs. Willebrandt, who is making official visits to the various United States district attorneys and Federal judges of the country for the purpose of conferring with them as to the quickest and most effective ways to dispose of cases now on the dockets, will leave Los Angeles next Monday for Washington, D. C. While in the Southland she is staying at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Walker of San Gabriel.

PROHIBITION IS TEST

"The prohibition front is the particular battle front of the nation today," said Mrs. Willebrandt in her address yesterday. "The question of law enforcement is one in which everyone should be vitally interested, for the stability of the government depends upon upholding the Constitution. There is cause for alarm in the prevalent phase of lawlessness which gives rise to the idea that individuals may choose the laws that they will obey.

"When any considerable number of people get to the point at which they seek to justify disobedience to a particular law they are sowing dragon's teeth which will surely sprout and mature into enemies of the republic," continued the speaker. "When persons at the top of our social structure defy any law, there will be countless thousands who will find excuses for the violations of all laws. It should be unnecessary to talk so much about enforcing law.

"We cannot Coue this country into law enforcement. The will to abide by the expressed will of the majority, as embodied in the Constitution, must be rooted in the desire of communities and especially in the desire and demand of the leaders of communities."

ANARCHY FOSTERED

Placing bootleggers and their patrons in the same class, so far as good citizenship is concerned, Mrs. Willebrandt declared that so long as people evince a willingness to enjoy the fruits of lawlessness they are fostering a condition which breeds anarchy.

"The man within the law who patronizes an outlaw business is no better than the one whose active disobedience to law renders him most liable to punishment," said the speaker. "Irrespective of convictions concerning the wisdom of the Eighteenth Amendment, it is the duty of every loyal citizen to uphold the Constitution as it stands.

"One may work in an orderly, lawful way for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and yet be a good citizen so long as he respects the law as it stands. However, he who tries to repeal this law on the ground that it cannot be enforced, while he contributes to its violation, is not a good citizen. If the repeal of a law results from its strict enforcement, then it ought to be repealed. However, disrespect by the people for laws enacted by the people is the surest, swiftest method for undermining established government."

BOY IS BELIEVED HELD FOR RANSOM

Morea Fraser Wilson

Search for Morea Fraser Wilson, 13-year-old son of Mrs. T. Ridgly Wilson of 2044½ South Berendo street, was extended yesterday to San Francisco and surrounding towns.

The boy disappeared on the 2nd inst., just as his mother and his well-to-do stepfather were about to place him in a military academy prior to leaving for a tour of the East.

It is thought that he has been kidnaped and that he is being held prisoner for ransom from his wealthy father, Robert Fraser of Richmond, or his stepfather as a possibility.

Detective Lieutenants Lloyd and Roberds, leading the search for the missing boy, announced yesterday, twenty-four hours after the beginning of their investigation, that they had been unable to obtain a single lead as to his whereabouts.

CITY TO GREET WILBUR TODAY

ersfield, before returning to the Tegeler Hotel, where a committee from the American Legion, consisting of Thomas W. McManus, William T. Gleason and Roland Curran, with Frank W. Brewster and Robert C. Patterson of the United States Bureau of Mines and Oil at Taft, and M. H. Whittier, Los Angeles oil man, joined the Secretary for breakfast.

RESERVES INSPECTED

After breakfast Rear-Admiral Rousseau and the Bureau of Mines officials led the party on an inspection trip of Naval Reserves Nos. 1 and 3 in the Elk Hills oil field. At noon luncheon was served at the Petroleum Club at Taft and then the entire westside oil fields were viewed by the Secretary before he returned here this evening for the banquet in his honor. He will arrive in Los Angeles early Thursday.

Secretary Wilbur was the only speaker at the banquet tonight and his address was brief. He was introduced by Postmaster Roland Curran.

The principal reason for Secretary Wilbur's visit to Bakersfield was his desire to make a trip through the naval reserves and get a first-hand idea of what the reserve is doing and the general conditions here.

SILENT ON LEASES

Mr. Wilbur would not pass any opinion on the legality of leases in the naval reserves which are now being contested in the courts of the United States. He said that the Navy Department was remaining entirely clear of the court litigation, but that the department was giving the United States attorneys 100 per cent co-operation in obtaining data and that the reports of the naval investigators were freely open to the attorneys.

"You cannot run the present Navy without oil," Secretary Wilbur said. For this reason he believes that the Navy Department should take an interest in the suits now in court.

Secretary Wilbur took office in the center of the oil lease turmoil in Washington and immediately took personal charge of the naval investigations. The Navy Department is making investigations, he said, and when its report is finished the department will be able to make practical plans to pursue. The reports of the investigators are made to Wilbur personally and then given to the department for tabulation and recording.

Although Secretary Wilbur has made a visit to all of the naval reserves, including the Teapot Dome holdings in Wyoming and the Sale oil field in Colorado, besides the Elk Hills lands, he stated that his tour is mainly in the interest of the Navy morale and improvement of naval conditions.

Secretary Wilbur, to correct what he believes a common misunderstanding, said that he had always been for preparedness and will do all he can for proper defense of the United States coasts. The Secretary was graduated from Annapolis in 1887 and he says that practically all of the admirals and rear admirals of the Navy of the present day were his former classmates. He says that his training at Annapolis and later study has shown him the need for preparedness.

KNIFE THREAT SUSPECT HELD

Jose Torres was booked at the City Jail yesterday for suspected assault with a deadly weapon and attempted grand larceny. Detective Lieutenants Gamash and McGowan said John Bailey found Torres trying to steal his car and that Torres made his escape by threatening Bailey with a knife.

WIFE GASPS AT TESTIMONY

"O-o-o-o-h, what a fib," gasped Mrs. Helen Houghton in Judge Guering's alimony court yesterday as she listened to the testimony of her husband, Ralph D. Houghton.

"And I took the $1000 and bought a car, and that's how I came to have the car," Houghton was explaining.

He had just informed Judge Guerin that the $1000 in question had been advanced him by Vivian Alexander, whom his wife named as co-respondent in her suit for divorce, but with whom, according to his answer, his relations were purely platonic and, according to his testimony, financial.

The reason Houghton was at such pains to clear up the matter of the $1000 was that he was in arrears on a $15-per-week alimony order obtained by Mrs. Houghton several weeks ago. His defense to her citation for contempt was that he didn't have the money to pay with. Mrs. Houghton had pointed to the car as evidence of greater prosperity than he admitted.

"That woman couldn't advance 1000 cents," Mrs. Houghton declared. "Everything he said on the stand was just lies, lies, lies. Oh, how I hate that man."

In her complaint Mrs. Houghton had recited that one night last spring her husband and Vivian Alexander went through an automobile wreck together. Houghton said yesterday that the reason he had no money was that he had not been able to work since the accident, because of injuries then received. He is a real estate man. Judge Guerin continued the hearing until October 1 to give Houghton an opportunity to make up his arrears in alimony.

NICHOLSON CASE UP TO GRAND JURY

Hearing of Long Beach Cafeteria Man Put Off to Await Action

A grand-jury investigation into the charges against J. B. Nicholson, wealthy Long Beach cafeteria owner, will be begun today. Nicholson, charged with a statutory offense, was arrested a few weeks ago in Long Beach in the company of Florette Duvall. The grand jury also will investigate the report that the woman was taken out of the city by three men and a woman, who led her to believe that she was under arrest.

The preliminary hearing of Nicholson was yesterday set for the 25th inst. in the court of Justice Forbes and was continued to that date at the request of Dep. Dist.-Atty. Shelley in view of the grand-jury investigation. Another phase of the case to receive the attention of the grand jury is the charge made by the cafeteria man that he was "framed." Between twelve and fourteen witnesses will be called, it is expected.

"If Mr. Nicholson was 'framed,' as he says, then he will be given every opportunity to prove his assertions," Mr. Shelley stated. The evidence to be presented to the grand jury has been prepared by Shelley and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Fitts.

CITY BOOSTS PHONE RATE FIGHT FUND

Council Votes $10,000 to Aid Citizens' Committee to Present Case

The City Council yesterday appropriate $10,000 for the fund being raised by the citizens' phone rate committee to present the public's side of the case when the California Railroad Commission holds its hearings on the application of the Southern California Telephone Company for an increase in rates, and for authority to reorganize its system so that outlying districts will be on toll lines connecting them with Los Angeles. The fund will be between $40,000 and $60,000 and will be used to employ nationally known telephone experts who will present arguments to the commission opposing many of the requests of the company.

The City Council's $10,000 will be disbursed to the committee by City Attorney Stephens, who is leading the legal forces ranged on the public's side of the controversy with the telephone company.

George M. Babcock, managing director of the Business Men's Association and member of the executive committee of the citizens' general telephone committee, yesterday gave out an analysis of the telephone company's proposed foreign exchange telephone service for Montebello, Culver City and Beverly Hills which showed, he said, that the rate for an individual residence telephone line with connection with Los Angeles phones would be $35 a month in the first named, $22 a month in the second and $21 a month in the third.

This rate is obtained, he said, by adding the mileage rate of $1.50 for each one-fourth mile, the rate for Los Angeles service and the rate for local exchange service, all of which the subscriber would be compelled to take and pay for in order to avoid toll service to Los Angeles. Such a rate, says Mr. Babcock, is prohibitive for residence lines.

The general committee finished consolidating the various committees into one yesterday by closing the Biltmore headquarters of the citizens' phone rate protest committee, and moving to the Chamber of Commerce. Louis B. Mayer, chairman of the executive committee, said the policy of the new committee would be to assist experts in determining exactly what Los Angeles and its suburbs need in telephone service and to aid the Railroad Commission in establishing a reasonable rate.

He announced that Cyrus Hill, one of the rate experts employed by the committee, will arrive today from New York and that his partner, J. G. Wray, a telephone engineer, will arrive within a day or so. They will set to work at once on the plan to be presented to the commission.

"We want a plan that will be most beneficial from the phone users' standpoint and at the same time be fair to the company," said Mr. Mayer.

Registrations in Y.W.C.A. Health Classes to Open

Varied and interesting features make up the program of the health and recreation department for girls and women for the coming year at the Young Women's Christian Association Health Unit Building, 941 South Figueroa street.

Mrs. Ella Stevers, head of the department, came to Los Angeles in 1908 to take charge of the department at that time in a new building at 351 South Hill street. Beginning with a small registration, the enrollment continued to increase year by year. For twelve years the work continued at this address. Then, for one year classes were held at 921 South Grand avenue and the next year on West Seventh street.

The new Health Unit Building at 941 South Figueroa street opened in June, 1923, with the largest Y.W.C.A. plunge in the world. At the end of the first year 6200 girls and women were registered in classes. At the end of last year, more than 7800 women and girls had been signed.

The goal for this year is 10,000 children, women and girls. Classes begin the 25th inst. Registration will be taken the 15th inst.

The committee also adopted resolutions urging the entire citizenship of the State, regardless of party affiliation, to "vote at all elections, and particularly on November 4, this year."

MAN AVERS DOG JOB IS CASH TRAP

Bunko Suspect Took $500 But Failed to Give Work, Youth Charges

H. A. Yerks told Justice Scott yesterday that E. C. Cantrill, who was held to answer on a bunko charge, had taken $500 from him, deceived him concerning a job, and played a mighty mean trick on him. The court was interested and wanted to know all about it. Yerks told his story.

He said that he had seen an advertisement in a local newspaper for a young man to look after and train valuable dogs. Yerks said he answered the advertisement and went to 607 Ocean View avenue, where he found Cantrill.

"You are just the man we want, my boy," he says Cantrill told him, adding, "have you got $500?"

Yerks had and proved it by producing his roll. He says Cantrill took the money, explaining that it was a sort of a bond to insure the safety of the dogs. Yerks asked to see the dogs. He says Cantrill told him to return in a week and that the dogs would be there.

Yerks left his $500 and returned a week later, he told the court, but found no dogs and no employer. He informed the police and Cantrill was arrested. Dep. Dist. Atty. Vobaydo is prosecuting Cantrill.

New Contract Brings Rudolph to Los Angeles

New York loses Rudolph Valentino through a contract signed yesterday, whereby the sheik will transfer soon his producing activities to Hollywood.

Arrangements which will bring the production of Valentino's pictures to Los Angeles were completed yesterday afternoon when J. D. Williams, president of the Ritz Carlton Pictures, which organization has Rudolph under contract, and M. C. Levee, president of the United Studios, signed on the dotted line.

Work on the next picture will be started the early part of November, according to Mr. Williams. The initial story will be an adaptation by June Mathis of a book, the title of which is being kept secret, and which will be published simultaneously with the release of the film. William C. Menzies has been engaged as art director.

WORLD VOYAGE FOR RADIOLAND

Music Company Gives Fine KHJ Program

Orchestra from Cream of Philharmonic Features

Solo Artists Also Provide Excellent Entertainment

BY CLAIRE FORBES CRANE

Edwin Lester, who has been responsible for the entire series of Radio Musicales from KHJ, surpassed himself last evening in the form which he chose for the presentation. The evening was entitled "A Trip Around the World," which was when is the good ship KHJ with Uncle John as pilot and Edwin Lester as first officer. The ship's orchestra was finer than any ocean liner ever carried. It was none other than the Platt Anniversary Orchestra made up of the cream of the Philharmonic men. Its personnel was as follows: Jules Lepeau, violin; Anthony Briglio, violin; Joseph Heindl, 'cello; Joseph Jean Gilbert, flute; J. Okel, clarinet; F. Byrne, trumpet; Lorn Steinberger, trombone; Alfred Brain, French horn; Paul Matteresteig, tuba; George McMasters, timpani; Morris Wolfson, piano, and Alfred Lesser, harp, under the direction of Benjamin Klatskin, first trumpet of the Philharmonic Orchestra.

VISIT MANY LANDS

The solo artists were "The Lady of the Golden Voice," and Georgi Shkulitsky, Russian basso, together with the Orpheus Four. As the ship sailed out through the Los Angeles Harbor the orchestra and the Orpheus Quartet gave a rousing rendition of "I Love You California," but we were too interested to let all we might see and hear to be very homesick. It was a long voyage—we visited Hawaii, Japan, Russia, Austria, Hungary, Italy, Germany, France, Spain, England, Ireland and Scotland.

Certain things stood out, like Georgi Shkulitsky's singing of the "Song Boatmen's Song," as the good ship KHJ dropped anchor in the harbor of Odessa. Shkulitsky's rich, colorful voice blended with the gray of the sky and the white gray cakes drifting in the black water. It was in sharp contrast with the flame of the "Toreador's Song" underneath the blue sky of Spain.

The Lady of the Golden Voice was one of our leaves on shore in Italy, stood in a flower garden beside a tall cypress in the moonlight and sent her lovely, lilting voice across the quiet air in a remarkable rendition of "The Wren." In France, in the Versailles Gardens, the Golden Voice brought out the spirit of romance with the waltz from Romeo and Juliet and in England in a meadow of primroses we heard "Thou Brilliant Bird," done with a splendor that rivaled Galli Curci.

TREAT TO RADIOLAND

The orchestra gave us music such as Radioland has seldom heard. The combination was most happily chosen and formed an ensemble which we hope will be permanent. The group numbers included the "Prize Song" from "Die Meistersingers" by the brass quartet, Titl's "Serenade," by Suto, with horn and harp, and "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," played by the solo trumpet on the banks of the Nile.

The evening did not lack humor when Capt. Daggett and Mr. Lester indulged on a rapid-fire, sparkling repartee in regard to everything ever heard and saw. We understood through Mr. Lester that Italy is to have one central broadcast station to be known as SMR, spaghetti, macaroni and ravioli!

The vice-president of the Platt Music Company, George B. Epperson, gave a very interesting talk on "Music Yesterday and Today," showing how even the poorest family may own an instrument, which in former days would have been the exclusive property of the rich.

As the KHJ pulled into New York Harbor and passed the Statue of Liberty, the entire company sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

EXCELLENT JAZZ

The Oaks Tavern Orchestra, playing at Oaks Tavern, Fourth and Hill streets, again delighted the audience with some jazz far above the average. In the organization is a gifted young composer, who has just written a mighty fine piece called "Grape Nuts," which should prove as popular as the cereal after which it is named. His name is Johnny Kelshaw and some day we may be very proud to be broadcast for us.

Grace Kronmiller, baritone, accompanied by Mrs. Charles D. McRoy, gave a group of ballads with much feeling. Especially lovely was his rendition of "Three Ducks and a Pond." Our radio gardener, Fred C. McNabb, gave another of his instructive talks on trees and flowers. Charles D. McRoy did some clever broadcasting with his violin and Jew's harp.

The matinee hour brought a splendid program, presenting The Ambassador String Orchestra, playing through the courtesy of the Blue-bird Cafeteria at the Hayward Hotel. Everything about it is finished to the line.

The children's hour brought Aunt Winslow, screen juvenile and Director; Baby Muriel MacCormac, Miss Victoria ("Bubbles") Kerner, who formed a trio of rarely gifted little stars and we of KHJ are sure of hearing them grow up with a great deal of interest and pride. Joseph Kesyl, pianist, 16 years of age, was a newcomer from Cleveland. We were proud to welcome him, especially since he proved to possess genuine talent. His solos of all ambitious ones, including the Twelfth Hungarian Rhapsody, and he acquitted himself with credit.

SHOES BY AIR MAIL

How Jackie Coogan's Wire Order for Footwear was Filled

When a young screen star wants anything he generally gets it promptly. Witness the case of Jackie Coogan. The young actor wired to Manager Baker of the children's department of Wetherby-Kayser from New York last Wednesday for three pairs of shoes of the same kind as the last purchased for him. The order was transmitted to the Johns-Tilt Shoe Company, manufacturers, who make Jackie's shoes. The three pairs of shoes were produced in record time and sent by air mail to New York, reaching Jackie Friday, just before he sailed for Europe.

AUTO FRAUD CASE ON

Two Are Accused of Attempt to Swindle on Insurance

Two men charged with attempting to defraud an insurance company were brought to trial before Justice Baird yesterday. The men are Emilio Noriego and Luis Fernandez. According to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Ey, who is prosecuting, Noriego owned an automobile which was insured for $500, and arranged with Fernandez to drive the car to Arizona, the car to be reported as having been stolen.

A letter found on the person of Fernandez is said to have revealed the plot. The case was continued until today.

BIDS FOR SIGNALS URGED

Council Committee Recommends Advertising for Traffic Devices at 100 Intersections

The Public Safety Committee of the City Council, of which Councilman Sanborn is chairman, yesterday afternoon recommended that the city advertise for bids, under open specifications, for automatic traffic signal devices, to be installed at almost 100 busy intersections outside of the congested district.

The members of the committee made a personal investigation of the workings of the seven types of automatic signal devices now being tested at various intersections outside of the congested district, and reached the conclusion yesterday that the bidding should be open to all manufacturers.

When the bids come in, the Council can determine, the committee said, the type of signal that should be installed and also decide the question whether the city should build its own signal devices or purchase them from manufacturers.

The specifications will provide that all devices must be equipped with loud gongs, but otherwise the bidding will be open for posts to be installed at the four corners of the intersection, suspended over the center of the crossing, or located on a post at the center of the crossing.

AMENDMENTS URGED

Capt. Cleaveland Heath, in charge of the police traffic squad, recommended to the committee that the Council indorse and urge the adoption by the next Legislature of amendments to the State Motor Vehicle Act. These proposed amendments include the following:

(1.) Examination of all drivers of automobiles. This is in use in Massachusetts and New York and has reduced the number of traffic accidents through the rejection of hundreds of applicants for permits to drive automobiles.

(2.) Increase in the State's vehicle fees so as to finance the expense of examinations.

(4.) Require brake inspection on all automobiles.

TEST DISAPPROVED

The City Council yesterday expressed its disapproval of a test to mark loading zones by two brightly-painted yellow posts. The experimental loading zone was placed by the police department almost in front of the City Hall, and the Councilmen at yesterday's session of the Council said the posts should be removed. Loading zones now are designated by red paint on the curbs. The police are seeking a plainer marking as the paint soon wears off of the curb, the traffic officers say.

ENGINEERS TO DINE

American Association Will Also Discuss Traffic Problems

The first dinner meeting of the Los Angeles chapter of the American Association of Engineers since June will be held tonight at 6:15 o'clock at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, to be followed by an open meeting at 8 o'clock in the Blue Room, at which Miller McClintock and Maj. R. F. Keller, traffic experts, will be the principal speakers.

Vehicular traffic congestion will be thoroughly discussed by Mr. McClintock, while Maj. Keller will briefly outline the causes and remedies of rail congestion. The pedestrian will come in for a bit of the discussion. Henry Z. Osborne, former chief engineer of the Board of Public Works, will outline a plan for controlling the pedestrian traffic, which is threatening to cause as much congestion as the vehicles and street cars.

ALARM CONTRACT BACKED

Continuing the work of purchasing of materials for the $1,000,000 police telegraph and fire alarm system, the City Council yesterday approved of a contract of $12,948 with the Keystone Iron Works for the standards for 240 of the 1000 boxes to be installed. The Keystone company was the low bidder. The Gamewell company received the contract for the boxes, and also was low bidder.

ELECTRICAL MATERIALS SALES GAIN

Power Company Orders for Fiber Conduit and Porcelain Insulators Stimulates

Several large orders by power companies of California for electrical material gave encouragement during the past week. Among these was an order for nine carloads of fiber conduit for a Northern California power company and $10,000 worth of porcelain insulators from a Southern California power company.

In the electrical contracting field great interest centered around the letting of the contract for the electrical work on the telephone skyscraper in San Francisco, which has been awarded to a local electrical contractor for $148,000. An encouraging sign in the Northwest are the prospects in the lumber industry, which are fully as good as a year ago.

Sales during August have been reported better than July and renewed activity has been prominent in the electrical market, says Electrical World, New York. Although no equipment has been purchased for stock by jobbers and dealers for about a year, many active inquiries have been received by manufacturers within the past two weeks for apparatus to be stocked. These are the first indications that material has been even considered for these purposes. While building nationally has been declining, this has not yet affected the electrical market and sales of wiring supplies have been large.

In the New England district, sales of specialized apparatus have been good and a more active market is noticeable. Sales have been good, but demand spotty in the New York district, and central stations have been active in soliciting quotations for apparatus. In the Southeast, activity has been renewed with the approach of harvest time, further assisted by the prospects of a good cotton crop. Satisfactory orders for line materials and poles have been placed in this district by central stations and municipalities. Trade has been steady in the Middle West and in good volume. Sales of pole line hardware in this territory have been good and radio business is on the increase.

Federal Check Forger Suspect Pleads Guilty

A plea of guilty was entered before Federal Judge McCormick yesterday by Fred E. Peters to an indictment charging him with forgery of a United States government check for $100. Sentence will be imposed Monday.

Peters is asserted to have gained possession of the check, which bore what purported to be the signature of the United States Navy Paymaster of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and to have cashed it in Los Angeles May 4, last. He was arrested by United States Secret Service Agent W. W. Ashe.

Ynes Rodrigues, an aged Mexican woman, past 70 years, was fined $500 yesterday by Judge McCormick on a charge of having sold home brew in San Bernardino county. The sentence was suspended until January 5, 1925, with the possibility that the old woman may not have to pay it at all if her activities until that time do not transgress the law. She had already spent sixty days in jail awaiting a hearing.

HARD TO EXPLAIN

Why is it that so many folks who cannot sing insist on proving it to all the neighbors?

THE BEST POLICY

There is a town in Switzerland where there has been no real robbery for seven years and it is said to be the most honest community in the world. It is agreeable to read of such things, even if we can but gropingly comprehend them. On Main street they say that this could only happen in Switzerland—where the cheese comes from.

CHANCE TO BEEF

According to the research department of one of the big mail-order houses, the American farmer is not doing as well with his cattle as he should. The price he is getting for beef on the hoof has been sinking. Almost all the other departments of the farm industry show fairly well, but the live-stock end is rather disappointing. In this respect the farmer has something to beef about.

THE NEW SIAM

A Siamese prince is in America to take a two-year course in medicine and surgery at Johns Hopkins University. Siam is taking all its new civilization from America and England. The people are learning to wear our clothes and many of them speak our language. The land of the white elephant, once a nation of mystery, is growing up like a Tammany precinct. When the son of the King of Siam is working in a Baltimore hospital it is a sign that East isn't so far east.

ENFORCING THE LAW

The administration is enforcing the laws of the land with a certainty and precision that should be impressive. Platforms and politicians are clamoring for the enforcement of our laws. Without any boasts or brass-band accompaniment the present Republican administration is doing that very thing and may be relied upon to the end. Calvin Coolidge will carry the sword of justice to the frontier. From the beginning of the present administration up to May 1 the Federal government instituted no less than 115,000 cases against violators of the Eighteenth Amendment. There have already been convictions in more than 85,000 cases and more than $15,000,000 was collected in fines. It may well be seen that the citizens who are demanding the enforcement of our country's laws cannot do better than hitch their wagons to the Coolidge star.

DAWES COMES HOME

Nebraska is cordial and loyal to its own. When Gen. Dawes went there on Friday to make a speech he was met some distance from Lincoln by a delegation of forty of its citizens, both Republicans and Democrats, and welcomed home with honors. The party was made up of old acquaintances, to whom the Vice-Presidential candidate was merely "Charley;" and all the others were "Bill" and "Tom" and "Joe" to him. He made a friendly call upon "Charley" Bryan and they were photographed together. Later in the day he received a royal home-coming greeting at the stadium, where the State Band furnished the music.

His speech to the farmer folk was applauded to the echo; it was candid, straightforward and friendly and might be summed up in this one terse, sensible sentence: "We make but one promise—that the Republican party, utilizing the best minds and those by training best fitted for the task, will bend its every energy to the study of our agricultural problem to the end that through legislation or other means its solution may be accomplished. Whoever promises more than this is entering into a contract which cannot be filled."

SEED OF THE FAITH

The most striking characteristic of present-day radicalism seems to be its disinclination to furnish martyrs. Machiavelli's Prince, rather than the men of old who stood up for their beliefs and suffered accordingly, seems to be the model for the Reds of the third decade of the twentieth century.

Thus we have Goldman wandering disconsolately about Germany and complaining of her treatment at the hands of the soviet; thus we have William Z. Foster complaining that La Follette has stolen his thunder and that he fears he will not get any votes at all—Foster, who professes to believe that bullets and not ballots must accomplish the social revolution; and we have various other Reds and Pinks turning rather yellow when put to the test.

An excellent, if rather ridiculous, example is furnished locally. One of the Los Angeles pale pinks, faced with a mild proceeding against what was deemed unpatriotic utterance, admitted almost without asking that he was ill-advised, recanted his opinions and promised effusively not to do it again, after taking refuge, at the beginning of the hearing, in the very Constitution he had derided.

If the blood of martyrs is, indeed, the seed of the faith the next generation of radicals will be of a spindling variety.

EXIT MR. DARROW

Clarence Darrow, it is announced, will retire from the active practice of law upon completing his work in behalf of Loeb and Leopold—and receiving the fee.

His self-elimination—too long delayed—will be of benefit to the law and to society in general. Notwithstanding his undoubted gifts, his contributions to his profession and to the public welfare have been destructive and demoralizing.

It would be interesting to know what thoughts and what reflections Mr. Darrow will carry to the shade of his vine and fig tree in his old age. In his case, those two interesting and poetic plants will be watered and fertilized with the liberal monetary rewards for services rendered in strange causes and by dubious methods.

Perhaps Mr. Darrow's ruminations may run back to the time when he was defending Haywood, Pettibone and Moyer from the charge of assassinating the Governor of Idaho. He will remember himself as the standard bearer and field marshal of that outrageous assault upon the American courts as carried on by the Western Federation of Miners in the Coeur d'Alene. He will remember how the jurors in that case were intimidated by armed thugs until they were glad to bring in a verdict of not guilty and to escape with their lives.

Mr. Darrow's thought may, perhaps, dwell upon the subsequent career of infamy and treason that he enabled Haywood to enter upon—a career finally ending in soviet Russia as a fugitive from justice.

Or perhaps his pleasant reflections may run back to Los Angeles to the time of the trial of the McNamaras—confessed dynamiters of The Times—when one of his agents was arrested in the act of attempting to bribe a juror; and when he, himself, stood as a prisoner at the bar charged with criminal tampering with the jurors, escaping conviction by an eyelash.

Yet, again, his sunny musings may picture himself the glorified exponent and defender of the I.W.W., the soviet and other evil forces having for their aim the destruction of our country and all other organized governments.

The tears that Mr. Darrow has shed in behalf of the "underdogs"—as he sentimentalizes them—have not blinded Mr. Darraw, however, to the glint of gold. The bowls that he has uttered against wealth and the wealthy did not deter him from snuggling up to a fat fee when some one was needed to extricate two rich young men from the just consequences of a willful, wanton and horrible murder.

Darrow and the causes he has championed have jeopardized the institutions that all right-thinking men cherish; but he has managed, in the process, to knock considerable fruit off the tree.

If Mr. Darrow still has a conscience, what years remain to him may be spent in a squirming expiation before one jury that can neither be fixed, bribed, intimidated nor browbeaten.

In his view of his past record, however, it must be said that the chances are all with Mr. Darrow and against the conscience.

MAINE HAS SPOKEN

"As Maine goes the country goes" is one of those popular slogans that ought to be true, even though there have been occasions when it hasn't worked. For, since the year 1872, with the exception of the confusion of 1912, at every Presidential election Maine has supported the Republican nominee. In 1884 and 1892 the country refused to follow the lead of Maine. In 1916 again Maine found itself back in the Republican fold, from which it had temporarily strayed through the party split of 1912, with its faith pinned on the losing candidate. With these exceptions in every Presidential year the country has gone as Maine has gone—that is to say, Republican.

This year the Republican tide in Maine is at flood and for the whole country promises to lead on to fortune under the standards of Coolidge and Dawes. For Maine has spoken very emphatically by re-electing its four Republican Congressmen by increased majorities and piling up a plurality in the neighborhood of 40,000 for a Republican Governor. The fingers of the republic on the pulse of Maine find it beating strong and regular. There is no third-party flutter, no Democratic fever forecast.

So the election results in Maine may be taken, not as a prophecy, but as a confirmation. They resemble a weather chart more than a barometer. For whatever has happened in former years, whether the old saying has any real significance or not, in the year 1924 the country is going as Maine goes, and Maine is simply on this occasion the first State to secure its place on the band wagon.

SHAW AND THE WOMEN

When a vote was taken in a Parisian literary club with a long list of English members as to the most popular living writer H. G. Wells won, with George Bernard Shaw a strong second. The reason why Shaw did not win first place was attributed to the fact that so many of the women members would not vote for him.

This vote is a mere "straw," to be sure, but it indicates something which every great literary artist must take into consideration if he is bidding for popularity with what Artemus Ward called "the female sect."

When a well-read woman is asked why she does not like Shaw her answer generally is that he has not treated women fairly. An analysis of what she deems this unfair treatment discloses the fact that this tradition-defying writer isn't a bit chivalrous. He never tips his literary hat to a woman unless it be one whom he has created—a character that echoes his pet sentiment.

Most women will admit that Candida is his most acceptable heroine, although he lets her encourage the ardent affection of a love-crazed little poet in the presence of her husband. But, unless a woman had taken a full course in eugenics, she would never permit a man to talk to her as the hero in "Man and Superman" talks to the heroine in that play; and the two women who fight over "The Philanderer" instead of sending him about his business are certainly strange examples of their sex, variable though it often is considered.

But why should the gentle, retiring woman, who traditionally must await the advances of her lover, whimsically repelling them at certain stages, ever accept such an idea which consistently runs through many of Shaw's dramas as that the woman courts the man—that she pursues and captures him, like the persistent Ann in "Man and Superman" and the bold, not-to-be-denied Gloria in "You Never Can Tell"?

Woman doesn't like to be tagged as the huntress, with man as the hunted—a point which Shaw has overworked. Then, too, he decries the idea of home and marriage, or rather lets his heroes decry them in long winded monologues in which they prate about "the romanticist cant of love" and the hypocrisy of those who hold the marriage relation to be sacred, implying always that it would be better if there were no regular marriages.

Women do not get much out of a play in which the hero says to the heroine toward the end of the last act, "I have a frightful feeling that I shall let myself be married because it is the world's will that you should have a husband," whereupon he yields to her wishes with a terrible grimace. Also they repudiate the idea which he so stoutly attributes to their sex that every unmarried woman is man-crazy and that she sees in every man a prospective husband.

In other words, women like the old-fashioned romance, with the lover on his knees before the coy, reluctant heroine, and one of the chief reasons why so many of them will not accept Shaw is because he doesn't put it that way. Even their appreciation of his uncanny cleverness doesn't override that insuperable objection.

PATENT APPLIED FOR

Both the Chamber of Commerce and the Municipal League are asking the city to provide paving specifications broad enough to admit of competition with the patent trust. There is growing conviction that property owners are paying from 15 to 50 per cent more than they should for street improvements and the spoils are going into the hands of favored contractors who provide a so-called patented pavement.

BIRTH CONTROL

A branch of the American Birth Control League has been established in Los Angeles and the principal speaker at the organization meeting has "shown the necessity" for birth control by asserting that soon there won't be enough food to go around, unless we keep the population from increasing so rapidly.

You can't beat the club-lady logicians. An argument like that, which hits us right in the bread basket, is surely going to make even the feeding brutes called men pause and reflect.

The same issue of the newspaper which told of the establishment of the birth-control branch here contained a photograph of a negro couple and nineteen of their twenty-two living children.

That suggests another thought. There are, undoubtedly, many good arguments for birth control, but it may have some calamitous effects. Had it been in vogue in the preceding generation, for instance, many of the ladies now advocating it never would have been born—think what a loss to the world that would have been!

That negro family, on the other hand, probably would have been just as large as it is. The chances are the proud parents either would never have heard of birth control or never would have paid any attention to it.

It is a well-known fact that the biggest families throughout the country are not of American stock. Nearly every picture we see of a family of ten or more children is of a family with a decidedly foreign or un-Caucasian name. Those people, in the main, are prouder of large families than we are—and it seems likely that under birth control the proportion of their descendants would be even greater.

If we go in for birth control, wouldn't it be a good thing for the government to impose an extra tax on every healthy American couple who failed to have at least two children to keep up the native stock?

Otherwise, with all its virtues, what would become of the American people and whence would come the men and women to do America's work?

Will It Come to This?

The Wild Life Protective Association of America declares that unless legislative protection is given to our waterfowl, especially the wild duck, it will soon be exterminated. A smaller bag limit for hunters or a shorter hunting season must be effected.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

Through Other Eyes

"British justice is a singular mixture of superb grandeur of the middle ages and terrible caricatures which seem to have been borrowed from Punch," says the Paris Figaro in discussing the recent English cause celebre, in which a Frenchman, Vaquier, was sentenced to death for poisoning. In the article the writer speaks of cross-examination as a sort of torture full of ambuscades, "not conducted by an impartial judge, but by a lawyer in the name of his client." The judge's remarks, such as his compliments to the grand jury for having a heavy list of criminals and his remarks on his lodging, where the chimney does not draw and there is a terrible draft in the room, are considered "very amusing, very spiritual" by the English public, says Figaro, and it adds, "there is a different idea of judiciary majesty in England than with us." English procedure is difficult to understand, sums up the writer of the article. In some cases it is as sinister as the justice meted out in the days of Sir Henry Hawkins—"which was as ironic as it was terrible, like all justice of former days." That's what a Frenchman thinks of the system, which is generally lauded in the United States as the acme of equity and fairness.

Will MacDonald Come Back?

Ramsay MacDonald, Premier of England, has given orders to the organizers of the Labor party to prepare for a general election in December. It is expected that the government will be forced to quit office over the debates on the Russian treaty and loan or perhaps over the Irish boundary dispute. Both debates promise some acrimonious exchange of opinion. But apart from that the question uppermost in British minds is "will MacDonald come back?"

Premier MacDonald apparently is tired of holding office by the good grace of Asquith, who could turn him out at will. When he goes to the country he goes mainly on his record, which includes the restoration of the entente cordiale with France. And a great number of the most progressive Liberals will switch behind him, owing to his moderate deportment while in power. In the coming election, if it does come, Conservative-Liberals will unite in opposition with the official Tory party. Thus causing a new alignment of political parties in which the Liberal group will almost disappear from the scene.

A Moujik D'Artagnan?

Leon Trotzky, probably encouraged by George Bernard Shaw's commendation of his first book, which G. B. S. called "the most marvelous piece of polemics in contemporary European history," is going to branch out as a "romancier." Trotzky, according to a dispatch, will write a novel on the heroism, sacrifice and death of the Communists of the early days, that is, the November, 1917, revolution. The book will have as title "The Three Communards" and Trotzky has ordered a little Trianon-like cubicle in his garden to write undisturbed. A dispatch quotes him as saying: "To write such a book as I plan one must look in a garden, one must have beauty and air." That's probably true. But there may be too much garden. Trotzky will do well if he creates half the beauty and life contained in that book the title of which he paraphrases "The Three Musketeers." Yet Dumas had such a small garden and such pitiful quarters that once he told his son in solemn mockery: "Alexander, open that window so that our garden may have some air."

LETTERS TO The Times

From Hyde Park

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] We, the Annexation and Improvement Association of Hyde Park, Los Angeles, represent practically all of the property owners in our Hyde Park district, which we made a part of the city of Los Angeles by a consolidation election on March 20, 1923.

We have noted with interest the articles in your paper about the fight being waged against the patented pavement interests or the so-called paving trust and wish to commend you for the stand your paper has taken in the matter.

All of the streets in our district are badly in need of paving and we have filed petitions for the improvements, which petitions all call for concrete to the exclusion of all patented pavement. As property owners about to incur large indebtedness for street improvements we are naturally vitally interested in getting the best for the least money. We feel that this fight is going to be a long step in the right direction, i.e., saving money for the property owners, and we wish to assure you of our appreciation of the stand your paper has taken in our interest.

ANNEXATION AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION OF HYDE PARK, LOS ANGELES.
By F. F. Brown, President.

Commendation

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] We, the undersigned, the Chamber of Commerce of Hyde Park, Los Angeles, wish to commend your paper for the stand it has taken in the fight against patented pavements.

We believe that it is for the best interest of our city, and especially the interest of the taxpayers, that the expensive patented pavement be excluded from our streets and that the bidding on contracts should be free to all contractors.

THOMAS HAWLEY,
President.

"Lest We Forget"

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 6.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Samuel Gompers has indorsed the La Follette ticket, calls it the "Working Men's Party" and calls on all members of the A. F. of L. to support the ticket. Will he be able to deliver the votes? I recall the time when I was the agent for the Union Pacific Railroad at Ogallala, Neb., in the eighties, the salary being $75 per month. I had a night operator at $65, each working a twelve-hour trick. Of course, that is a long time to look back, but to show the steady improvement in wages and working conditions since that time I will state that the man now holding the same job is receiving $165 per month and only works eight hours.

But to come down to more recent times, it is not so very long since the common laborer was working ten hours for $1.50, while today they are getting $3.50 and $4 for eight hours.

Carpenters at $3.50 for the long day, now $7 and $8 for eight.

Do you believe, Mr. Editor, the working man wants to go back all this and go back to the old times, with the uncertainty of a change of administration?

Q.: Why do some peaches have been canned less than others in flavor?

HOW IT STARTED

BY JEAN NEWTON

"A Leap in the Dark"

This expression, whose figurative reference, so popularly used, is obviously to an action the result of which is uncertain, a step that is taken more on faith or chance than on knowledge of what is ahead, is of somewhat disputed origin.

At one time it was attributed to Rabelais, the great French satirist, being given as a translation of his last words: "Je m'en vais chercher un grand peut-etre" (I am going in search of a great perhaps.)

It is not, however, until more than 100 years after Rabelais that our own words in English are known to have been expressed. This was in 1679, when Thomas Hobbes, the English [illegible] said as he, too, was [illegible] going to take a [illegible] the dark."

LOBBYISTS IRE COUNCILMAN

Auto Salesmen Pester Baker and He Moves to Have Committee Relieved of Purchasing Duty

The lobbyists and salesmen who make their headquarters at the City Hall when the City Council is contemplating the purchase of trucks or automobiles yesterday got on the nerves of Councilman Baker, chairman of the Council's supply committee, and he asked that his committee be relieved of the responsibility of purchasing motor equipment.

"There is so much fuss, trouble, criticism and insinuations when the Council has the purchase of automobiles or trucks under consideration," said Chairman Baker, "that I see trucks and automobiles all night. I can't sleep. Let the Board of Public Works buy the trucks for the engineering department and keep the supply committee out of it."

"How about the fifty-one automobiles we are planning to buy for the police department?" asked Councilman Criswell.

"Put automobiles in the resolution, too," said Councilman Baker. "I am not trying to dodge responsibility, but I want the departments which need the trucks to do their own buying through the boards in charge of these departments."

Councilman Mallard, a member of the supply committee, said that the Council had no right to dodge its responsibilities and duties and give the purchasing work to departments. Councilman Criswell said that he was visited daily by salesmen who attempted to convince him that the city should purchase their products.

Councilman Baker's resolution was defeated, he alone voting for it. "That was a vote of confidence in the committee," said Councilman Criswell.

The Council added to the committee's troubles by instructing the advertising for bids for six two and one-half-ton motor trucks for the engineering department with the option of advertising for purchasing others at the same price up to twelve in all. The trucks are to be used to haul rubbish collected from the streets, and are made necessary by the abandonment of the Talmadge street and Sixty-eighth-street dumps, against which near-by residents have long complained. Rubbish will require a long haul to the remaining dump at Ninth street and the Los Angeles River until the $600,000 worth of incinerators authorized on May 6 are built and in use.

The supply committee made no report and recommendation for the purchase of fifty-one automobiles for the police department. The eight bids received for the cars were referred to Councilman Baker's supply committee, which has so far been unable to agree upon a report. Councilman Mallard of the committee is standing for the acceptance of the low bid of the distributors of Dodge cars, which was, net, $39,825 for the fifty-one machines, including turning in as part of the transaction an equal number of out-worn Dodges.

Councilman Gregory said that he was in favor of Dodge cars in case the Council decided to retain four-cylinder machines for light police work, and was in favor of the Oakland, the second low bidder, and the low bidder on six-cylinder cars, in case the Council determined to equip the police department with six-cylinder machines. Salesmen for cars which were high in the bidding have also been arguing with the Councilmen to recommend their machines. There is available in the budget for the purchase of the fifty-one machines, $38,431, and to purchase machines which were high in the bidding, additional appropriation from tax funds will be required.

The Council yesterday bought two Studebaker touring cars for the police department, but there was no debate or excitement, as the bids had been opened and considered last week. The total price of the two cars was $3219.

KNOTHOLE DISCLOSES SUSPECTS

Silverware in Possession of Pair in Garage Later Identified by Woman

Silverware found in the possession of two burglar suspects was identified yesterday by Mrs. M. T. Walting of 411½ Palm Drive, Beverly Hills, as hers, according to Detective Lieutenant Johnson. Mrs. Walting's home was entered a week ago, she declared, and silver and clothing worth $15,000 was stolen.

The suspects were captured Tuesday when Johnson and Detective Lieutenant Wallis investigated peculiar sounds coming from a garage in the rear of a bungalow at 1248 North Mariposa street, and peered through a knothole to see what was going on.

Inside the garage, they reported, they saw an oriental named Mun Yow, and Jimmy Stone, engaged in smashing sterling silver receptacles with a heavy mallet. About the garage, the officers said, was a profusion of silk garments, fur coats and other clothing.

Neither men could offer a satisfactory explanation and the two were placed under arrest. Before leaving the garage, Tom Alexander of 1010 Bronson street, entered, and also was arrested. The officers then entered the bungalow and after a search arrested Patty Fleming, 19 years of age, and Mrs. Emma F. Spencer, said to be the mother of Stone. The landlord entered and informed the officers that Stone had rented the house and had given a check which later proved to be worthless.

A quantity of liquor was found in the home. The four were booked on a charge of suspicion of burglary. The Fleming girl is charged with violation of the Wright Act.

PROTEST ON LOTS CUT BY POWER PATH

Property Owners Assert Land Sold Without Their Knowing City Owned It

Deputy City Attorney Floyd M. Hinshaw of the legal department of the Public Service Department has received a number of complaints from property owners on Waverly avenue and Locksley street in the Ivanhoe Hills district. They said they were kept in ignorance when they purchased lots and built homes there, that the city's electric power department owned and has owned for years a sixty-foot right of way on the lots on the streets for high-tension electric transmission line and standards.

The lots are 126 feet deep, with homes and garages in most cases being built on the city's right of way.

Attorney Hinshaw said that the power department had sympathy for the property owners and would not act hastily to oust them from the right of way. He stated, however, that action ultimately must be taken because of the danger the houses and garages are exposed to under the high-tension wires.

The property owners have been assisted by Mr. Hinshaw in presenting their complaints to City Prosecutor Friedlander, City Public Defender Orfila and to the State Real Estate Commissioner in an effort to obtain for the property owners restitution of the amount paid by them for the city land. If restitution can be obtained, the amounts paid will cover the expense of the property owners' moving their houses and garages to the remaining sixty-six feet of the land on each lot.

DRY SQUAD GIVEN BATTLE

Smugglers, Caught in Act on Beach at Portuguese Bend, Escape After Spectacular Gun Fight

In an effort to halt the flood of liquor into the county from the sea, a squad of investigators from the District Attorney's office fought a spectacular gun battle with a gang of rum runners at dawn yesterday on the beach at Portuguese Bend.

The smugglers were caught red-handed loading liquor from a motorship in two heavy automobiles. They opened fire immediately upon catching sight of the investigators and several score of shots were exchanged before the rum runners, in their fleeter cars, made their escape.

The squad was led by George Contreras, head of the District Attorney's dry unit. A tip had reached him Monday to the effect that a boatload of liquor was to be smuggled in at Portuguese Bend on the Palos Verdes estate.

Contreras and his men concealed themselves on a bluff overlooking the beach. They waited the better part of the night in vain. Finally at dawn a motorship sailed up to within a short distance of the beach and the rum runners arrived in two heavy machines.

Contreras sent two of his men down the bluff in one direction, while he and the remainder of his squad proceeded in another direction in an effort to encircle the smugglers.

The gun duel began just after the first two investigators reached the beach. The rum runners continued firing for several minutes, and then, warned that they were being surrounded, they jumped into their machines and drove toward Point Fermin.

Contreras and the other investigators had reached the scene in the meantime, and they gave chase. The smugglers continued firing. One bullet exploded one of the tires on Contreras's machine and another shattered his windshield, bringing the machine to a halt.

Contreras stated yesterday that he heard one of the smugglers scream as if he had been shot, and is convinced that one of them is wounded.

The investigators found later that the rum runners had used two rafts to unload the liquor from the ship, which had sailed out to sea. On one of the rafts the officers found a case of liquor, which they confiscated.

LIBERTY FROM PRISON COMES TO QUICK END

EMBEZZLER RELEASED FROM SAN QUENTIN TAKEN ON MANN ACT CHARGE

One week after having been released from San Quentin found Roy J. Smith in the County Jail, this time on a Federal charge four years old.

He was arrested yesterday at 845 South Gramercy Place by Dep. U. S. Marshal Mangerina on an indictment from Oklahoma City, where he is accused of having transported Lorena Lane from Houston, Tex., to Oklahoma City in defiance of the Mann Act.

He was placed in the County Jail pending removal proceedings before U. S. Commissioner Long on the 17th inst.

Smith was sentenced to San Quentin early in 1923 for embezzling the pay roll of the Thomas Haverty Company, his employer. Following his departure from Oklahoma City, before the indictment was returned against him, he is declared to have taken another girl from Colorado to El Paso, Tex., where he was arrested and sentenced to six months in jail. He then came to Los Angeles, and was arrested on the Oklahoma City indictment, but was sent up on the State charge first.

CAREY WILSON TRIAL SET FOR LATER DATE

MAN MIXED UP IN COWDREY CASE WILL BE TRIED FOR ROBBERY

At the request of Dep. Dist. Atty. Orme the trial of Carey Wilson, charged on three counts with robbery, has been postponed and will be heard on the 29th inst., in the court of Judge Collier. Wilson, with Godfrey Cowdrey, who was convicted for the murder of Joseph Langley, theater manager, who was murdered and robbed last year, is charged with robbing Steve Sales, a taxicab driver; Ben Albans and Joe Basset and E. Fitts, the robberies taking place during last March. Cowdrey was sentenced to life imprisonment on the murder charge.

Following the conviction of Cowdrey new evidence was brought to light tending to prove his innocence of the crime. An investigation was conducted by the District Attorney's office and as a result Cliff McCormick, a private detective, was taken into custody and later held to answer on a charge of robbery. It was largely upon the evidence of the detective that Cowdrey was convicted.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

LIVER SPOTS (CHLOASMA)

L. H.—It is not known just why the pigment of the skin should be concentrated on some spots, but it would seem there is some disturbance of the system somewhere, perhaps of the glands of internal secretion. These spots are stubborn things. Sometimes they can be peeled off in the hands of a skilful dermatologist. Occasionally lemon juice or peroxide of hydrogen will bleach them a little. How about your diet? Are you getting all of the vitamins and mineral elements you need? Are you taking at least two glasses of milk, liberal servings of vegetables, especially the green leaf vegetables, part raw, fresh fruit, whole grain cereals, etc.? How about your bowels? How about your teeth and tonsils—any chronic poisoning from them? Why not have a good physical examination and check up on yourself?

FALLEN ARCHES

Mrs. H.—Yes, completely fallen arches can be cured if you will be persistent enough with your foot exercises. Always walk with the toes pointed straight ahead. Here are some good exercises: Walk for five or ten minutes a day, toeing in, and part of the time, on the outer edge of the foot; rising on the toes for five minutes, three times a day; twisting the feet in and out; picking up marbles with the toes, etc. You had better go to kan orthopedic surgeon and have him give you specific advice for your case. Perhaps he will order an arch support.

I am glad you lost thirty pounds of your overweight and that it has made you so happy. Do you notice how many times overweight friends have fallen arches? For your constipation while reducing, you should take bran or agar or mineral oil, or perhaps a combination of the three, two or three times a day. You have to count the ordinary cereal plain bran as about 100 calories to the cup.

Send for our article on Dandruff, Baldness and Greying Hair for your hubby.

MISSIONARY WORK

"Dear Doctor Lulu.—I have followed your instructions about a year ago and lost twenty-five pounds. Was able to stand the heat better and slept splendidly after that. I look much better, have had a vacation to my aged mother, your praises to be sung (not too)—so she requested me to write for a pamphlet for her. Your good work is always appreciated. Sincerely yours, Mrs. ——. P. S. Am in comfort.—L."

Thank you, L., the good news is spreading. At the present rate it won't be long before it will be a rare to see an obese person. Yes, all our work can be done along preventive lines instead of curative. 'Tis a consummation devoutly to be wished. It is practical, too, to a great extent, the increasing overweight we are seeing in diabetes—(diabetes means sugar in the urine)—that the majority of diabetic patients were overweight before coming down with the disease, kidney disease, hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure and some forms of intestinal disease, could be prevented and what not? Please inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope and 10 cents in stamps for the pamphlet? Write again.

DEVELOPING THE BUST

Mrs. K.—It is not advisable to use any instruments to develop the breast. Increase your weight, stand correctly, take certain exercises, and you will find a great improvement. Send for our pamphlet on gaining and losing weight. (See answer above.)

ILL-FITTING FALSE TEETH

Have your false teeth fixed immediately, Mrs. V. It is dangerous to wear them as they are.

Tomorrow—Answers to many questions.

My dear Public:

When sending for special replies please remember to inclose a self-addressed envelope bearing your full address. The postage on ordinary letters is 2 cents, and the only one I write to you is the one I am sending you in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible. But never omit the stamps. Many letters are answered legibly with ten words. Please do not write me for evidences of good health or for testimonials. It is impossible to diagnose for you or to prescribe for you. Your problem is apparently very much the same as that of thousands of others and the rules governing good health are published daily in this column. Please do not send me any money. It is impossible to answer letters individually unless they are of general interest. Do not send me self-addressed envelopes. Do not write me asking me to send you the information I have given in this column. Do not write me asking me to send you the information I have given in this column.

Illuminating Remarks

The orchestra stopped suddenly and in the darkness of the theater a clear feminine voice was remarking didactically:

"Oh, yes, we blondes must positively be clean. A soiled blonde is an atrocity. Only the dashing brunettes can get away with a little dirt."

Two fashionable ladies were chatting vivaciously in the rest room.

". . . so I told her she would have to give up the apartment. Like so many people, she persisted in regarding her own dirt as clean dirt. She was mightily insulted when I told her that I had furnished the house well and expected my tenants to maintain decent standards.

"Fancy anyone who can afford to pay $150 a month for an apartment having such slovenly habits! The place was like a pigsty. And her expensive georgette negligee was covered in old egg spots. . . ."

The handsome movie actor was very aggrieved.

". . . and she takes that darned little pet monkey down on the lot with her, and whenever we have to do a love scene she fondles and kisses the creature all over—and then comes and kisses me!

"I told the director I would not stand for it, but he said she was the star, so there, and if I didn't like it he would get another leading man, but she had jolly well got to have her monkey if she wanted it . . .

"I guess Mabel was frightfully disappointed she was not elected president—being vice-president so long, too. But, my dear, I could we possibly elect a president who says 'I done' when she means 'I did?'

"We all like her, but the pathetic part of it is she doesn't know why she lost out—she just could not tell her own lapse.

"But isn't it a funny smell, mamma?"

"Oh, one of those effeminate males that flirts with her husband in public," replied the man in mink.

"Oh, no. I can't do anything about it and I have no sympathy being a 'mother-in-law'—really you can't expect me to—

"Fancy raising, educating, dressing, feeding and housing that girl of mine of 20 years only to hand her over to a whipper-snapper of a dummy like that!" exclaimed the frustrated sophisticated mother.

"I asked him to do something and put up $100," said the fat man, "an' he says he won't lend me nothing. But he'll spend $5 to choke some cheap-skate."

"Did you take the bet?" asked the thin man curiously.

"Oh sure—what'd you bet for anyway?"

Home Helps

When painting or varnishing, follow the grain of the wood.

Air your linens occasionally if the weather continues damp.

Fertilizer in Rock an Issue in Legal Fight

Charges of mismanagement and misrepresentation in connection with the operation of the Big Pine Fertilizer Company at San Fernando were answered yesterday by officials of the company at a hearing before Examiner Strachan of the State Corporation Commission.

Stockholders complained that phosphate rock the company claimed to be mining in Inyo county for use as fertilizer did not contain the proportion of phosphoric acid it was represented to have and that similar rock was being brought in from other States.

Officials of the company declared yesterday that the Inyo county rock was rich in fertilizer materials, but, due to additional cost in transferring the material from narrow gauge to standard trains, it has been found cheaper to import rock from Idaho and Wyoming. In answer to the asserted mismanagement H. W. Moore, an accountant, told the commission that an audit of the company's books showed them in good condition. The hearing will be continued tomorrow.

THE NEW

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS

By Olive Gray

Up-to-Datest:

Skirts short and shorter—almost unbelievably so; the silhouette slim and slimmer, quite incredibly so; hair bobbed and bobbeder, in ways astonishingly varied; heels high and higher, rising to lofty eminence, in fact; beads encrolling, encrusting, one might say infesting, every article of dress; hats with towering crowns and quaint conceits in feather fancies: These are some salient points of the season's fashions.

The Note Chinesy

The note Chinese is discernible in many of the season's new gowns and wraps. Sometimes it is in the commingling of colors, quite foreign to our standards of harmony, yet harmony resultant; again it is in an odd slide or button, a tassel or a dangle, offset by ornaments in gilding or enamel. Daring, yet certain of themselves, these strange notes sound out above the general couturial orchestration — clarion tones attesting genius in dress creators.

Avaricious Lace

Lace, not content with being dyed, gilded or silvered, exacts still further ornamentation in bead embroidery, colorful, enlivening. Some of the new gowns, shown at exclusive local shops, are in heavy designs in gilded lace, cut after the tunic pattern, the skirt beneath in a shade to harmonize. Motifs in solid bead applique, add an outstanding color feature, the Chinese tones being favorites. Lace also trims itself with furry bands, either in strong contrast or in shades which seem to melt into the color of the garment.

New Trimming

Novel trimming shown upon imports or replicas thereof, is a sort of ravelled braid, the silken threads allowed to fall in festoons, between the more closely woven bands at either edge. Deep borderings of this new braid trimming are set upon long tunics or upon skirts.

Detecting the Tunic

By the way, it requires sleuthish expertness to discover where a tunic terminates and a skirt begins. Sometimes the whereness of the lower skirt is the locality of the underslip or is, in fact, the underslip. Closely clinging, of a tone that loses itself in the top garment, this underthing is usually somewhat embellished with frills, with flower garlands or with handmade flower bouquets, the merest gleam of such trimming visible as the wearer moves.

The Season's Furriness

Fur jackets, popular as ever for street and for sports wear, have taken unto themselves a new liberty: That of adhering to the dress, or becoming rather an integral part of it. Some of the new imports, in kasha cloth or other smooth heavy weave, consist of a skirt, banded at the lower edge with fur in a matching or a contrasting color and a top which is an attached jacket of fur matching that of the skirt banding.

Ermine Simulation

Ostrich appearing in many fancies for millinery, queer stick-ups, stand-outs, swirls and twists, either natural or chemicalized, has now invaded the realm of fur, some of the latest bandings for hats, having the appearance of antique ermine, requiring close inspection to discern that instead of peltry, the effect is created by means of closely set feather flues.

In Fashion's Looking-Glass

YEGGS MAKE LARGE HAUL

The safe of Kemp & Ball, auctioneers, at 1627 West Pico street, was rifled yesterday by yeggs, according to police report. The thieves got $300 in cash, $1600 in checks, and a watch worth $100.

FASHIONS & FOIBLES
by Shirley Sharon

BUTTERICK 5469

O'Rossen, the famous French habitmaker, introduces the tailored note which has carried over from his classical tailleur into the bosom front, club collar and bound pocket of the tailored dress.

The influence of the tailored note introduced by O'Rossen is being felt in the new fashions. The braid binding which O'Rossen uses on many of his tailored jackets, the tucked bosom of his blouses, his slit pockets and the general air of neat distinction that characterizes his models are reflected in many of the new coat frocks. These dresses must of course be made in fairly firm material, for the lines are extremely straight. Wool rep, wool crepe, cashmere, twills and heavy silk crepe are generally used for them.

CASH LACK HURT LOVE, SAYS WIFE

Man Sent Her Home When Estate Share Postponed, Woman Charges

When Louis R. Fuster found out that his wife's participation in large Mexican estates of which she is one of the heirs, might be postponed for a long time, his ardor cooled, he shipped her back to her old home in Chihuahua and sued her for divorce, according to Mrs. Emedia M. Fuster's cross-complaint to his suit, on file yesterday.

In his complaint he asserted that his wife insisted upon her brothers living with them and that they used to enter his laboratory and disarrange his chemicals. In her cross-complaint Mrs. Fuster charged that he abused her and corresponded clandestinely with another woman.

Collection for Chest to be by Precinct Plan

In order to cover the territory of Los Angeles the precinct system of solicitation will be used in the community chest campaign November 10-20, it was announced yesterday by President Fridham of the Welfare Federation.

This decision was made after deliberation over the best means of reaching the public in the appeal for funds to support the charitable and welfare institutions of Los Angeles. The federation desires to give each person in the city interested in philantropic work an opportunity to contribute to the community chest, President Fridham stated.

PAIR IN HIDDEN ASSET CASE PLACED ON TRIAL

Davis I. Davies and J. A. Speroni, former retail shoe dealers of Long Beach, were brought to trial in the court of Judge Hardy yesterday on a charge of attempting to conceal assets after failing in business. Dep. Dist.-Atty. Clark charges that the men concealed a large part of their stock and later disposed of it to second-hand dealers in Los Angeles. The trial will be continued today.

Many significant facts are brought to light by an analysis of the August, 1924, figures, but none more outstanding than these:

Stops Headache In Fioe Minutes

Headache, toothache, backache, pains in the side, rheumatism, neuritis, and other pains seem to vanish as though by magic since the perfection of a new formula known as A-VOL (Formerly called Sed-A-Vol.)

In five minutes, by your watch, after taking a pleasant A-VOL tablet you will find your pain gone and experience a sense of new freshness and life. Thousands of doctors are prescribing A-VOL because it is harmless, not a depressant, and not habit forming.

Step into your nearest drug store and get a package of A-VOL for a few cents. Take a couple of tablets right there. If the pain isn't gone in five minutes, the clerk will return your money.—[Advertisement.

Women Vote "Yes" on This Important Subject

Los Angeles—"I suffered with feminine weakness for several years thru which I became all run down in health. I was nervous, weak, had backaches and felt sick and miserable all over. I tried many medicines and doctored without relief, and at times I would have to be in bed. A friend recommended Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and thru the use of this good medicine I was completely restored to perfect health. I urge all weak women to give Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a trial."—Mrs. J. M. Lipps, 504 S. Figueroa St.

Health is wealth. Do not neglect the most valuable asset you have. If you are troubled, write Dr. Pierce, President Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., and receive good medical advice in return, free of all expense, or send 10c for trial pkg. of "Favorite Prescription Tablets."—[Advertisement.

THIS WOMAN RELIEVED FROM SUFFERING

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. A Remarkable Story

Dover, Del.—"I wish every woman would take your wonderful medicine as it has done so much good to me. I had cramps and faint spells and very bad pains. One day I was over to my neighbor's house and she told me I ought to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So I went to the store on my way home and got a bottle, and took the first dose before supper. I have been taking it ever since, and you can hardly believe how different I feel. I had just wanted to lie in bed all the time, and when I started to brush up I would give out in about ten minutes. So you know how badly I felt. I used to go to bed at eight and get up at seven, still tired. Now I can work all day and stay up until eleven, and feel all right all the time. My housework is all I do in summer, but in winter I work in a factory. I have told a good many of my friends, and I have had three come to me and tell me they wouldn't do without the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. SAMUEL MURPHY, 319 Cecil St., Dover, Delaware.

EPISTLE FAILS TO HALT DECREE

Earnest Sales Letter Does Not Sell Wife

Discarded Mate Offers Her New Model Husband

Guarantees Best of Habits; "No Use," She Says

Certainly D. R. Vejar was not a success as a husband, this now being a matter of court record, but it cannot be denied that he was an earnest letter writer.

For when his wife cast him off, he set about on a "reload" campaign by mail, one of his direct sales letters having been brought into Judge Summerfield's court yesterday by Mrs. Edith Vejar as an exhibit in her suit for divorce.

HIS "RELOAD" LETTER

The letter read:

"My dear, seeing that you have just discarded a 1922 model husband with the following faults: Ungratefulness, selfishness, hate, revenge, passion, liquor habit, tobacco habit, gambler, thief, liar, parasite not able to look anyone in the eye, won't work, won't go to church and a failure all around, I hereby send you specifications for a 1923 genuine he-man. This man, my dear, is exactly the opposite of the one you have got rid of, any any time you wish to see him just drop me a line and I will send him to you.

"The specifications are: Does not smoke, drink or use bad language. Can look any man in the eyes, does not gamble and is neither a thief nor a liar. Will work and goes to church three times a week.

ADMITS MODEL NEW

"Truly, my dear, if you are in the market for a man that any woman would be proud of, a have just the man. Of course, some would say the model is too new, but the process by which this man has been remade is absolutely reliable and I can personally guarantee this product.

"I have heard you are a good prospect and since you put up with your 1923 model for twelve years, I would think you would be very pleased to have this 1923 model. This model is very nice for any woman. If you are at all interested and there are any changes you desire made, the alterations will receive my prompt attention. I hope to hear a favorable reply."

But Vejar did not make his sale.

"It was no use, judge," Mrs. Vejar testified yesterday. "He forged my name to checks on the Ocean Park Bank, of which I was manager, and, of course, I had to make them good."

Judge Summerfield awarded her a decree. Vejar was said to be a scion of a pioneer family.

Mrs. Clara Bird, Pioneer Citizen in West, Is Dead

Mrs. Clara D. Bird, 62 years of age, a pioneer resident of the West, died yesterday at the home of her son, Maj. Owen Bird of 5047 Maplewood avenue. Funeral services are to be conducted today at 2 p.m. in the Los Angeles Crematory Chapel.

Mrs. Bird was the wife of the late George R. Bird, a Presbyterian physician-missionary, who was widely known for his work in the Yukon and the Nevada gold rushes. She is survived by two children, Maj. Bird and Miss Gertrude Bird of Honolulu; a sister, Mrs. H. R. Bird of Sacramento, and a brother, Charles King of Sacramento.

Child Struck by Auto in Street Is Dead of Injuries

A 7-year-old boy was fatally injured yesterday by a motor car which struck him as he was playing in the street. The lad, George Williams of 1246 West Seventy-third street, died at Receiving Hospital a few minutes after the tragedy.

The driver of the car was M. R. Pittinger of 304 West Seventy-fourth street, who reported to police of the University Station that the boy ran out from behind an ice truck and that he was unable to stop the car in time to avoid striking him. Pittinger was not held.

WOMAN WINS TWICE IN TILTS WITH LAW

GETS ALIMONY ORDER ON HUSBAND AND SCORES AGAINST WOMAN

Olive Miller won a double-barreled victory in Judge Guerin's department of Superior Court yesterday. She scored a signal victory over her husband, who was ordered to pay her $15 a week temporary alimony, and another over Mrs. Margaret Treece, who came to the courtroom with three detectives to arrest the wife.

The alimony matter, more or less routine in Judge Guerin's court, was decided without unusual delay. Then Mrs. Treece and her three detectives arose and announced that they were going to arrest Mrs. Miller on a joy-riding charge.

It developed that Orville Miller, Mrs. Miller's husband, had sold one of the two family automobiles to Mrs. Treece the day before he and his wife separated. Mrs. Treece came to claim the car but Mrs. Miller refused to give it up.

A hot legal squabble ensued. Attorneys for Mrs. Miller invited Mrs. Treece and her three detectives to arrest their client. They threatened to institute proceedings for false arrest against Mrs. Treece if she carried out her threat. The battle raged for some time and continued in the corridor, when Mrs. Treece changed her mind about having Mrs. Miller arrested. The latter marched off in triumph.

TENT TO HONOR CHIEF

Members of the Clara Barton Tent, Daughters of Veterans, will assemble in a special meeting tonight at Patriotic Hall, 1816 South Figueroa street, to honor the department president of California and Nevada, who will be present at the meeting and will deliver the principal address.

MAN KEEN FOR WITNESS JOB

Paper Server Goes Home to Find One He Is Seeking Awaiting Him in Bed

There are men who flee jury duty and consider being a witness a bore.

But Max Keefer is not among them.

Keefer is so keen for duty that he hunts it.

A couple of weeks ago Max Bland, a process server, started looking for Keefer to subpoena him as a witness in Judge Hahn's court, but could not seem to connect with him.

Keefer had heard of Bland's search, it appeared, and started to hunt the process server. He located his address. Bland wasn't home but Keefer said he would wait and was let into the house.

"You were such a long time coming home," Keefer said, "I thought I might as well get in a few winks while I was waiting."

He was duly served and promised to appear as a witness at the time appointed.

MAYER WILL LEAVE FOR EAST TODAY

Film Magnate to Confer on "Ben Hur" Picture Being Taken in Rome

Louis B. Mayer will leave for New York on the Santa Fe at 11:30 o'clock this morning to confer with Marcus Loew, president of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Motion Picture Corporation; Nicholas Schenck and a messenger who comes from Rome, where "Ben Hur" is being filmed.

It has been Mr. Mayer's intention to go to Italy in the interests of the picture, but he has been reluctant to leave Los Angeles at this time because of the fight against increased rates and change of service sought by the Southern California Telephone Company. Mr. Mayer is chairman of the general citizens' telephone committee.

If it is possible to adjust the difficulties confronting the "Ben Hur" situation in Italy, Mayer will return to Los Angeles at once to be here when the hearing in the telephone situation is opened before the State Railroad Commission on the 17th inst. During his absence his personal representative, Fred F. Smith, will remain in Los Angeles and act for him in connection with the telephone fight.

MAN HELD IN ROBBERY OF BLIND AGENT

Sightless, Gem Merchant Identifies Theft Suspect in Court by Voice

George Sang, charged with robbing a blind diamond merchant, yesterday was held to answer on a charge of grand larceny in the court of Justice Forbes. Bond was set at $10,000. Sang, according to the prosecution, with another man, took B. F. Boyd to a soft drink stand and after plying him with asserted "doped" drinks, lured him to a hotel and there robbed him of diamonds and other gems valued at $7500. Sang later was arrested at the drink stand. Boyd has offices in the Douglas Building.

The gem dealer was unable to identify Sang as one of the two men who robbed him until he heard Sang speak. The blind man turned to the judge and declared that the voice was that of one of the men who robbed him.

SOUL MARRIAGE FAILS

Wife Gets Divorce on Telling Nuptial Agreement

After an extremely brief trial of "a marriage of souls," Mrs. Linnie Young decided it had failed, she told Judge Summerfield yesterday, when she appeared to obtain a divorce from Herbert M. Young.

She did not know it was going to be that kind of a marriage, she said. So when, according to her story, Young told her, with a smile, that it would be of that variety and declined to explain, she was nonplussed.

"The next morning he would not kiss me. When I insisted, he left and I have not seen him since," Mrs. Young said.

That was the day after their wedding, January 15, last.

On Saturday morning, at 10 o'clock, Rabbi Magnin will interpret one of the famous passages of the Scriptures. In the Friday night discourse, he will describe conditions existing in the colleges today and analyze the effects of a college education of the youth of our land. The rabbi will demonstrate the benefits of college training and at the same time will bring forth some of the arguments that have been adduced against it.

Beggars Get Suspended Sentence

Gregory Sandifer, His Daughter Belle, and Wife

PROMISE TO SIN NO MORE

Blind Couple, Represented by Sightless Lawyer, Had Been Street Musicians for Decade

The whole problem of begging in Los Angeles was threshed out yesterday in Judge Pope's department of the Police Court when Gregory Sandifer and his wife, Georgia, both blind, came up for sentence. Appearing as their spokesman was Robert Henderson, blind, who said he used to practice law, and he and Judge Pope discussed the problem at length.

On the promise that the couple would beg no more on the city streets, the judge suspended a fine of $25 or as many days in jail, but he let it be known that the city ordinance, which forbids begging, must be complied with. And Judge Pope expressed regret that in this and other cases the defendants demand jury trials which cost the tax payers much money in the sum total, and at the same time the beggars argue that by begging they save the city the cost of their upkeep in an institution.

FEARS BEGGAR MECCA

Judge Pope feels that because of the climate in Southern California and the general prosperity here, this city, should the ordinance fail to be enforced by the courts, would become a mecca for beggars from all parts of the country. He said that the traffic problem here is increased by the street corner musicians and pencil venders, and that the merchants have complained of the liberality in enforcing the no-begging ordinance. If the beggars sing or play they argue they are giving a concert which legalizes their actions, and if they sell pencils they claim the status of merchants. For vending, permits are obtained, but as in the case yesterday the beggars that sing and play some instrument cannot obtain licenses.

It transpired that there are five cases against Sandifer and his wife, one to come up in Police Court today. They had demanded a jury trial for the present case, and were found guilty, and they agreed to waive a jury trial in the case coming up today, and to put the city to no more expense.

"They have been misled," said their blind attorney. "They have been told to play on the sympathies of a jury, and people have told them things about the constitutionality of the ordinance. Now they understand that the ordinance is on the books and it must be enforced unless it is repealed. They will agree to ask no more jury trials, and from now on to violate the ordinance no more."

JUDGE CITES TRIAL COSTS

"A jury trial costs the taxpayers $50," remarked Judge Pope. "Why, if they had trials on all these five cases it would cost the taxpayers $250. That is not saving the city any money. They must understand that our traffic congestion is great, and that this ordinance is on the books. If they will beg no more how do they propose to make a living?"

"They will go to some community where they may get licenses to do as they have done here," said Henderson. The woman defendant explained that some time ago she had paid only $1 a day for such a permit in San Diego when the fleet was in.

"It is not our intention to shift you onto some other community," said Judge Pope. "We do not want to do that. I am sure that in this community you could find a place to remain comfortably, or to learn a trade; there are schools for the blind."

Some time ago in Judge Pope's court two beggars were brought before him for breach of the peace, and it developed that they had been quarreling over who should use the family automobile that day.

Sandifer plays a violin and his wife the accordion. They were arrested by the police at Fifth and Broadway. They are led about by their young daughter, Belle, who was with them in court yesterday. They say they have been begging on the streets of Los Angeles for eleven years.

SWEDEN KNIGHTS ECKDAHL

Vice-Consul on Resignation Gets Decoration of Historic Order at Banquet

At a banquet given in his honor last night at the Mary Louise Tea Room, Gottlieb Eckdahl was decorated with the golden star of the Order of Vasa to commemorate his twelve years of service as Swedish Vice-Consul in Los Angeles.

Consul Eckdahl's resignation was accepted about a month ago and the Swedish Minister of Foreign Affairs, instructed by the crown, ordered that he be made a Knight of the Royal Order of Vasa.

This decoration was founded by Gustavus III, the liberator of Sweden, who rose from the peasantry in the province of Vasa. The family name of the Swedish rulers has since been Vasa and the wearer of the order becomes a brother to the royal family.

Two hundred members of the Swedish colony attended the testimonial dinner last night, at which Dr. G. W. Olson, superintendent of the California Lutheran Hospital and president of the Svenska Klubben of Los Angeles, presented the parchment which made Mr. Eckdahl sir knight.

The Vasa decoration is a double-pointed star in gold and white with a red center showing a sheaf of grain. The star is surmounted by the royal crown, which hangs from a green ribbon. The presentation of this decoration entitles its wearer to special honors in the capital and entitles him to register as a knight.

Among the speakers were Dr. Albert Wilson of the Manual Arts High School, Rev. Philip Andreen, A. F. Elmquist, Rev. J. Herman Olson and others. Vocal numbers were furnished by Miss Lillian Backstrand and H. M. Burgeson.

ADMITS HIS MISTAKE CALLING MAN "CROOK"

Samuel Tittley having admitted he was mistaken when he called P. G. Rogers, grocery clerk, "a crook," Rogers's suit for $10,000 for slander was dismissed when it was called for trial in Judge Walton J. Woods's court yesterday. Tittley and Rogers, according to the pleadings in the case, engaged in a verbal tilt over a purchase of goods in the store in which Rogers worked. Tittley admitted his error in his answer to Rogers's suit.

STREET REPAIR PLAN APPROVED

Board Favors Engineer's $1,000,000 Schedule

Proposed Improvements to Cover Wide Area

Hollywood, Harbor District, Wilshire to Benefit

The Board of Public Works yesterday approved the recommendation and program of the City Engineer for the expenditure of $1,000,000 which has been set aside by the City Council for the immediate repairing of streets, as a result of the general agreement among city officials that the streets of Los Angeles are in a deplorable condition. The City Engineer in his report requested appropriations of $303,105 for street repair materials and supplies; $63,200 for three steam rollers and other equipment; $329,861 for additional employees to do the street repair work, and $17,000 for land and garages for the equipment. The report recommends that $150,000 of the $1,000,000 be held in reserve for the repairing of additional streets not named in the report and to be designated as the work proceeds.

The list of streets which the City Engineer recommended be repaired is as follows:

Anaheim and Gaffey streets in the westerly portion of Wilmington. These were paved with concrete several years ago and are now badly cracked and broken in places and the sidewalks and shoulders at points where the water runs longitudinally along the pavement.

Portions of Angeles Mesa Drive where the concrete pavement is broken up, not covered in the present paving proceedings.

Slauson avenue from west end of Mesa to Main street. The old macadam pavement on this avenue has had wheel grooves and has in general been pressed out of shape by the traffic.

Portions of Wilshire Boulevard which are corrugated.

Main street, south of Slauson, destroyed by trucking.

Vermont Boulevard, through Hollywood, which has long stretches that are badly worn and present a danger to traffic.

Redondo-Riverside Boulevard, east of Vernon, about 2000 feet, to be paved. 63% required.

Other projects which should be accomplished with this increased allowance are the sealing of existing pavements and repairing dangerous holes, etc., to-wit:

Chatsworth street, from Canoga to Reseda; Reseda avenue, from Chatsworth to Sherman-shire; Devonshire, from Reseda to Santa Susana; Santa Susanna avenue, from Devonshire to Wells; Simi road, from Santa Susana to Owensmouth; Canoga avenue, from Owensmouth to Sherman Way; Canoga avenue, from Sherman Way to Vesper; Rosecrans avenue, from the San Fernando Mission south to Mission Acres.

This will entail an expenditure of $150,000 from the funds of the city of Los Angeles and a similar sum from the funds of the county, and it is suggested that the joint action with the said work this board be authorized to enter into a contract under the supervision of the Board of Public Works, Charter with Tidwell Brothers for the purchase of 4000 tons of asphaltic mixtures at $6 per ton, and to advertise for bids for the laying of the same into the necessary contract in behalf of the said city of Los Angeles for an additional 11,000 tons of asphaltic mixtures, and that the time a municipal portable plant can be located in the said San Fernando Valley.

Two Gyro Clubs Plan Admission to Nation Body

A joint meeting of the Gyro clubs of Los Angeles and Long Beach was conducted last night at the Windsor Cafe on Seventh street. The address of welcome to the Long Beach club was delivered by John C. Campbell of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank, and was replied to by Forrest Sackler, president of the Long Beach club.

Both clubs are to be admitted to membership in the international Gyro clubs and it was decided to conduct joint installation meetings October 18 and 19. Homer Pogue is president of the local club, which is two months old. The installation ceremonies will be conducted under the auspices of officials of the International Gyro Club of Vancouver, B. C., which is sponsor for the Los Angeles club. An address was delivered at the meeting last night by Dr. Bailey, professor of geology at the University of Southern California, on "Opportunities in Los Angeles and Southern California."

The Wesley Quartet of Huntington Park furnished music for the meeting last night. The organization is composed of young men in practically every line of business.

Senorita Ortez Crowned Queen at Celebration

Fifteen hundred members of the Mexican colony in Los Angeles assembled at the Knights of Columbus Hall last night for the crowning of the fiesta queen, Senorita Lilia Ortez, who will reign throughout the two days of the celebration of Mexican independence.

At the entrance of the queen and her court the orchestra played the "Rapsodie Mexicana," one of the most popular of Mexican songs. Followed by her beautiful maids in waiting, the queen made a most impressive entrance and was enthusiastically cheered as Lauro Izaguirre, Mexican vice-counsul, led her to the throne and placed the crown upon her head.

A salutation in verse was then delivered by Senor Guz Aguila, poet and painter, whose work has received distinguished recognition in Mexico City. Dancing numbers by Senor and Senorita Beltri followed. The floor was then cleared and the audience danced until late in the evening.

McDERMOTT WITH BUSTER

Jack McDermott is taking chances with Buster Keaton. He has just begun the direction of Keaton's newest comedy feature, "Seven Chances." The theme of the film play offers a comical twist to the chances every person takes in his every-day life.

Starlet Has Unforseen Engagement

Edwin looked forward to a few days' rest—and play.

He was mistaken, however, for yesterday he received another engagement—with Dr. Walter E. Deering of Hollywood, who prescribed the "few days' rest and play" to be spent under the covers of his bed at home.

Edwin is suffering from a severe cold, but, according to his physician, he will be up and about shortly if he lists to his commands.

Daniel Green, general manager of the Stauffer Chemical Company, will speak on the activities of his concern. The Los Angeles Association Auxiliary Trio, composed of Gail Mills Dimmitt, soprano; Mildred Latcher, soprano, and Edna Evans, pianist, will furnish the musical entertainment.

THOS. H. INCE WILL SPEAK TO WAMPAS

Thomas H. Ince, the producer, and Charles Ray, one of his stars, are to be guests of honor at the next Wampas meeting to be held Monday evening at Mme. Helene's Tea Room. Tom Reed is to be chairman. Ince will speak on "Enthusiasm in Showmanship." Another feature on the program will be the appearance of George M. Jackson III, distinguished English actor, who will offer Sir James Barrie's "Pietro Pannio." Following the program there is to be a business meeting at which the first details of the next Wampas frolic will be discussed.

Pilgrimage Play to Have Few More Performances

With only four more performances, the Pilgrimage Play, "The Life of the Christ," will close its fifth annual season. Where the Pilgrimage Play was limited for the year to a season of eight weeks the closing performance last night will mark a season of 11 weeks for the current year. Because of the heavy demand for seats for the concluding performances of the play, only civic excursions are scheduled this week, one being a great Highland Park residents' trip, making the trip to the theater at night under the auspices of the Highland Park Chamber of Commerce, of which D. M. Cubbon is secretary. Ontario citizens under the auspices of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, will see the play tomorrow evening, making the trip to and from the Pilgrimage Theater in a special train of cars.

COMEDY-DRAMA STAR REDECORATES HOME

Alberta Vaughn is redecorating her new Spanish twelve-room residence in Hacienda Park. She recently moved into her new home and, although she considers it the most ideal for a home, she put a lot of little individualistic touches to stamp it as distinctive of her personality.

"It isn't quite cozy enough yet," Alberta says. "But as soon as I get a little spare time I'll do it so that it will be the most delightful place in Hollywood."

A DAINTY COLLECTOR

Robert Frazer has the hobby of collecting bright-colored handkerchiefs. He has to date 262 handkerchiefs of varied colors and designs—everything from red to shades. His latest addition to his collection is a handkerchief bought from an old Indian woman on location in Arizona with the company filming "The Nine Pines" for "The Iron Door," a Principal Pictures production.

JAMES KIRKWOOD HEADS 'TOP OF THE WORLD' CAST

By Grace Kingsley

Interesting announcements continue to pour forth from that center of art and culture known as the Lasky Studios. The latest is to the effect that James Kirkwood will play the leading male role in "Top of the World," Alan Crosland's forthcoming production for Paramount, according to an announcement yesterday by J. L. Lasky, first vice-president in charge of production of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. Kirkwood is one of the best known screen players, having appeared in a number of the greatest successes of the silent drama. In "Top of the World," which is from the novel by the famous English authoress, Ethel M. Dell, he plays a dual role.

The picture will be produced in the Paramount Studio in Hollywood. Alan Crosland crossed the continent from New York to direct the picture, for which Jack Cunningham is preparing the screen play.

With the thought of two real triumphs in a row to make him feel careful, Ricardo Cortez left Hollywood for New York City today. Cortez is to be co-featured at the Long Island Paramount studio with Bebe Daniels in the Allan Dwan production, "Argentine Love."

The rise of Cortez within the past eighteen months has been the occasion of comment by photoplay observers. He is in James Cruze's latest production, "The City That Never Sleeps," and is said to have the acting opportunity of a lifetime in Cecil B. De Mille's production, "Feet of Clay," adapted by Beulah Marie Dix and Bertram Millhauser from Margaretta Tuttle's novel. It was from Cecil B. De Mille productions that Thomas Meighan, Wallace Reid and Jack Holt rose to stardom.

Says Husband Hasn't Lied

"My husband hasn't lied to me. He may some time, but he hasn't yet!"

That's what Frances White said about her husband, Clinton Donnelly, according to reports just received from New York, when Evelyn Farriss gave out the statement that her husband, Raymond O. Bennett, intended suing her for divorce, naming Miss White's husband as corespondent. However, she beat him to it, by filing suit first. So it isn't likely that there will be any undue notoriety come to Miss White, after all.

Evidently Miss White and her husband are on the very best of terms. Ever since the above story was printed, the two have been traveling together along Miss White's vaudeville route.

Marjorie Rambeau Soon

Marjorie Rambeau will be seen at the Orpheum here some time during the coming season. She is playing eastern vaudeville at present, appearing in a playlet called "Bracelets." A. E. Anson, her former leading man, is not with her.

Zasu Pitts Signs

Zasu Pitts is the first member of the cast to be selected for the production of "The Re-Creation of Brian Kent," the third Harold Bell Wright story to be filmed by Principal Pictures Corporation.

The actress will have the part of Judy, an uneducated mountain girl who in early childhood was made a cripple by a drunken father who beat her.

Corinne Not In It

Hollywood has its 400, but Corinne Griffith doesn't belong. For that matter, neither does Colleen Moore, nor Mary Pickford, nor Norma Talmadge, nor any other popularly accepted as the elite of filmdom. For "the 400" in the Hollywood argot is the comparatively small coterie of film extras capable of playing in society scenes who—and this is the test of tests—own their own evening clothes!

"Isn't Dorothy Mayne over there a cute little thing! Let's invite her over to the party tonight," urged one sweet young thing.

"My dear, be yourself. She does not belong in our class. She is not in the 400," said the other.

Miss Griffith's curiosity impelled her to inquire into the demarcation line of this 400.

John Gilbert's New Role

John Gilbert has been awarded another great screen role. According to the announcement by Irving G. Thalberg, associate executive of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, Gilbert has been signed for the leading male role in King Vidor's next production, "The Wife of the Centaur."

"The Wife of the Centaur," is taken from the widely read novel by Cyril Hume, a best seller, and one of the most discussed novels of the last few years, both by critics and by the reading public.

Gilbert's part in the new picture will be the fourth leading role Gilbert has played since joining the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer forces. His first was in Elinor Glyn's "His Hour," the second in "He Who Gets Slapped," which Victor Seastrom directed, and the third was the title role in "The Snob," directed by Monta Bell.

Aileen Pringle and Eleanor Boardman have been chosen for the leading feminine roles in the picture. The parts are equally good, and both young actresses are called upon to go through the more or less pleasant task of falling in love with John Gilbert, who plays the leading male role.

Fitzmaurice Recovers

Only one member of the cast has been selected to date. Ronald Colman, the talented young English actor, who recently signed a five-year contract with Samuel Goldwyn, has been chosen by Fitzmaurice for the leading masculine role.

In preparation for his forthcoming activity, the director has added Jack Voshell as assistant and Antone Gret as art director to his production staff. Arthur Miller, who has photographed all of the recent George Fitzmaurice productions, will be in charge of the camera work.

Mike Donlin Injured

Mike Donlin, former baseball star, playing with Reginald Denny in Universal's filming of Harry Leon Wilson's "Oh, Doctor," suffered severe injuries in a spectacular motorcycle crash in a scene of the picture, and is now recuperating after five days in a hospital.

Donlin took a tumble off his two-wheeled steed while racing Denny. At first it was believed that he was killed or fatally injured. He was rushed to the hospital in the personal car of Harry A. Pollard, director, with the star and two other friends in attendance.

Owing to the fact that the accident occurred on location, with no people outside the company present, the news was slow in getting around Hollywood. Donlin's injuries consisted of a badly wrenched back, torn ligaments in the knee and bad bruises. He was unconscious for an hour after the accident.

Pollard has completed the filming of the picture, which was a strenuous venture, owing to the great number of thrill and stunt scenes in Harvey Thew's script.

Jackie Saunders Finishes

Jackie Saunders has completed her role in "Broken Laws," in which Mrs. Wallace Reid is starring for Thomas H. Ince. Miss Saunders made such an excellent impression with her work that the part she played was expanded into a very big role. R. William Neill directed.

Vitagraph Company Flits

William Russell and the principal members of his supporting cast have just gone on location into the mountains back of Chatsworth, where they will spend a week filming the principal exterior scenes for "The Beloved Brute," in which the actor takes the title role. Director J. Stuart Blackton, who is in charge of the expedition, will be behind the megaphone.

For Men Only

A long-term lease on a desirable store space in one of Hollywood's new buildings has been purchased by Neal Burns, Christie Comedy star, for the purpose of establishing a novelty in the line of barber shops.

Time was when a barber shop was distinctly a male institution. But now that bobbing is the chief occupation of the tonsorial fraternity, the women in Hollywood agree that they are just about fed up on having hairy males drop into the barber shop at all sorts of odd hours demanding trimmings, shaves, etc., while they have to sit beside some reader of the Police Gazette and wait. It was noted at a recent indignation meeting of a prominent women's club that no man had ever been known to relinquish his seat in a barber shop in favor of a feminine customer.

So Burns is going to help them out by establishing a barber shop for men only, in which there will never be any women kept waiting. He is glad that the women have the freedom of all barber shops—except his. Burns is receiving a flood of applications from adventuresome barbers who would like to experience the thrill of cutting a man's hair.

ANOTHER SUNDAY EVENING SPECIAL

High-powered special attractions are going to make the second Sunday night performance of "Harry Carroll's Pickings" at the new Orange Grove Theater, Grand avenue near Eighth street, another memorable affair, equal in importance to last Sunday night's, when Fannie Brice, Lou Holtz and McKay and Ardine appeared.

For this Sunday no less than three notables will interpolate numbers—Eva Tanguay, who still doesn't care, Walter Hiers, the famous slender screen comedian, and Julian Eltinge.

Carroll proposes to bring in special attractions whenever he can find noted stars who are willing. And Carroll knows 'em all.

PIPE "BAD MEDICINE"

Star on Location Taken Ill Smoking Peace Pipe

Seven puffs on a pipe of peace, smoked by Marian Nixon and members of the Cayuse tribe of Indians, on the Umatilla Reservation near Pendleton, Or., this week made the leading lady so ill that she was unable to work for half a day.

Miss Nixon had never smoked before, but for the thrill of puffing the peace pipe with the Indians she threw discretion to the winds. But the tobacco used by the Indians is very strong, certainly not intended for beginners.

So, though she took only one more than half a dozen puffs, Miss Nixon became so violently ill that work on "Let 'er Buck," in which she plays opposite Hoot Gibson for Universal, was delayed half a day.

One of "Three Women" Coming

Marie Prevost

Former Child Favorite Now More Mature

Virginia Lee Corbin, the irresistible little flapper in "Sinners in Silk," which comes to Loew's State Theater next Saturday, is none other than the famous little child actress who, until a year or so ago, was the heroine of such pictures as "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp," "Jack and the Beanstalk" and other delightful stories.

But it is a different Virginia Lee who graces the screen today. Gone are the curly locks and the round baby face and the chubby little hands. Instead, there is a stately and more mature wisp of a girl. Such is the career of the little maid who was born in Prescott, Ariz., and at the tender age of 6 became an artist's model and a film favorite.

JACKIE ARRIVES IN LONDON TOMORROW

Jackie Coogan and his party are now on the deep Atlantic headed for Southampton, which port they will reach, if all goes well, tomorrow.

Jackie left New York Saturday, after having witnessed officially the completion of the big job of loading a huge merchantman with a cargo of food and provisions valued at more than $1,000,000, the result of Jackie's American campaign for supplies for the Armenian children bereft of their native land, and now in huge refugee camps in Greece and the Holy Land.

From Southampton Jackie and his party will proceed to London for a week's stay. They will visit in Paris for a week, then will go to Lucerne and then to the principal cities of Italy. Their schedule provides that they shall be in Athens on Saturday, October 11. It is in Athens that the Near East Relief has its central distributing station, and at Piraeus, the seaport of Athens, the ship that Jackie bade godspeed from New York will await the boy who bears to the Armenian children the tangible expressions of love and sympathy from the children of his native land.

Included in the party with Jackie are Mr. and Mrs. Coogan, Arthur Bernstein, Coogan's personal business representative, Lawrence Weingarten, the Coogan publicity chief, and Mrs. Kora Newell, Jackie's devoted tutor.

All the expenses of this long journey are being paid by Mr. Coogan as an additional contribution to the Near East Relief fund's international philanthropy.

BEBE AND RICHARD

Pair Come in Picture of Castaways on an Island

A scintillating star combination, Bebe Daniels and Richard Dix, grace the Metropolitan screen next week, beginning Saturday, in Alan Crosland's production, "Sinners in Heaven," which is adapted from the prize novel by Clive Arden.

"Sinners in Heaven" is the most modern version of the story of the man and the girl castaways on a desert isle. While making a long airplane flight the plane is wrecked in a typhoon and the only two survivors land on the island, escaping with their lives.

This week's brilliant program at the Metropolitan has only a short time more to run, as it closes Friday night. Julian Eltinge in person and James Cruze's production, "The City That Never Sleeps," share honors, and the program is further augmented by Raymond S. Baird, "the little Sousa," the world's youngest orchestra leader, who conducts the big orchestra, and other attractions.

PLANTATION TO HAVE ANOTHER BIG REVUE

"Frivolities" is coming back to the Plantation. A second edition of the revue that made such a hit at the Culver City cafe a few months ago will open Wednesday evening, the 17th inst. There is to be a new cast of principals and a new chorus. Music will be in charge of Chris Mann. As before, the production will be offered in four acts, with a complete change of show every two weeks. The cast is now being selected.

Name First Opera to be Offered Here

The opening performance on the evening of October 6 of the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association is to be "Andrea Chenier," an opera in four acts by U. Giordano. Singing the leading roles will be Claudia Muzio, soprano of the Chicago Opera Company, Benjamin Gigli, tenor, and Guiseppe de Luca, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

"Andrea Chenier" is the story of the French Revolution, and it has never been presented before in Los Angeles. Gaetano Merola, conductor of the San Francisco Grand Opera Association, will conduct this performance, as well as the others to be presented by the local civic organization.

From a report given by Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe, president of the Los Angeles Opera Association, the remaining tickets for the five performances are going at a rapid rate, and all of the tickets will probably be sold ten days before the opening of the season.

In addition to "Andrea Chenier," the following operas are to be given: "Manon," "Romeo and Juliet," "L'Amico Fritz," "Gianni Schicchi" and "La Traviata." Other singers to be heard are Thalia Sabanieva, Tito Schipa, Jose Mojica, Millo Picco, Lodovico Oliviero, Paolo Ananian and Louis d'Angelo.

Following is the cast of "Andrea Chenier:"

"Bobbed Hair" Next Colleen Moore Vehicle

With "So Big," the Edna Ferber drama, now well under way, John McCormick, western representative of First National Pictures, announced today that "Bobbed Hair" would be Colleen Moore's next starring vehicle.

The story is an original plot by June Mathis and will mark her initial effort under the First National banner. The script will be written by Miss Mathis herself and the picture will be produced under her supervision.

In "Bobbed Hair," Miss Moore will return to the field of comedy drama. It is in striking contrast to the dramatic story she is now filming. The part will disclose Colleen in a comedy character unlike anything she has portrayed on the screen to date, it is announced.

NEW YORK SUCCESS TO BE PRESENTED

PLAY THAT RAN TWO YEARS ON BROADWAY BROUGHT HERE

Eddie Dowling, star of "Sally, Irene and Mary," with a company of sixty, including Louise Brown, the featured dancer, begin a two weeks' engagement at the Biltmore Theater on Sunday night. The company arrived here from New York yesterday afternoon, making a record-breaking jump for a company of this size.

"Sally, Irene and Mary" is a comedy of youth and laughter, with a real plot and story about three little Cinderellas who rose from poverty and obscurity to fame and wealth on the stage. The story is told in two acts and nine gorgeous scenes. There is excellent dancing and many lilting tunes. If "Sally, Irene and Mary" attains half the success here it did in the East, where it has been playing for two years, the standing-room-only sign will be out at the Biltmore.

CITY WILL BOOST VALLEY

Public Service Board Adopts Resolutions to Make Owens Area Pleasure Resort, Get Good Roads

Independent of whatever action the Board of Public Service Commissioners may take later as a result of their visit last week to the Owens River Valley, they adopted at their meeting yesterday a resolution to use their best endeavors for the development of better highway and railway communications between Los Angeles and the valley, to establish a series of airplane landings on the floor of the valley, and, with the co-operation of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, to organize an outing club of 50,000 persons who will agree to spend from ten to thirty days each year "in the beautiful mountains and valleys" tributary to Bishop, Independence and the other towns of the Owens River country.

In supporting his motion, Commissioner Whitsett said in part: "This should mean the spending in your towns and among the packers, guides and various resorts that draw their supplies from your towns, at least $10 a day for each person, or from $5,000,000 to $15,000,000 a year. It should also return to your cattlemen, fruit and vegetable growers, from three to five times as much net profit as they receive now for products that will be consumed by parties visiting these resorts."

AMENDMENT OFFERED

William Mulholland, chief engineer of the Aqueduct, remarked that in his opinion, the resolution should be amended to include provisions for memorializing the State Highway Commission and the Federal Good Roads Commission. There was no opposition from the author of the resolution and, the other commissioners agreeing, the amendments will be made.

After reciting in the preamble the resources of the Owens Valley in lakes, mountain scenery, fishing, big game hunting, camp sites and other attractions, the text of the resolution declares:

THE RESOLUTION

"Resolved: That this board approve the plans developed by Mayor Cryer and Chief Engineer Mulholland and pledges that it will use its best endeavors to procure the support of the newspapers, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, the Automobile Club of Southern California and other organizations to complete, at the earliest possible date, a pleasure highway between Los Angeles and Bishop; to use their earnest efforts to bring about better railroad facilities; to secure the establishment of a series of airplane landing stations that will rapidly multiply the interest in this direction, that the people of Southern California may avail themselves of the wonderful outdoor life offered by the mountains, the streams and lakes surrounding Owens Valley; that we will immediately endeavor to have the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce appoint a committee to confer with a committee to be appointed by the property owners of the towns in the Owens Valley, to work out a program of summer and winter sports and recreations through the great organization of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, to form a club in Los Angeles and Southern California of 50,000 persons who will agree to spend from ten to thirty days each year in the delightful mountains and valleys tributary to these towns, in order to show our appreciation of your co-operation."

President del Valle of the board said that it was absolutely essential that such a road be built, independent of any controversy between the people of Los Angeles and of the valley, as a means of developing the great scenic resources which the city has.

CITES CITY EXPENDITURE

Mulholland recalled to the memory of the board that the city is spending $15,000 this year on the development of roads and trails in the Owens Valley which have nothing to do with its water supply. Other members of the board brought out that Kern county, though one of the richest per capita in the State, has neglected the southern approach to the valley until the stretch of road between Mojave and Rosamond is reputed one of the most villainous in Southern California, simply because so few Kern county voters live in the sparsely populated country through which the road passes, while the northern approach through Mono county, no more populous and far less wealthy, was unlikely to be better cared for unless the State Highway Commission could be interested.

Engineers of the commission, Mulholland said, were in the valley on a reconnaissance trip while the public service board was there last week and were familiar with the possibilities of the country as a summer and tourist resort. He believed that any representations made by Los Angeles would receive their careful consideration.

CITY AQUEDUCT START IS RECALLED

Actively at work on preliminary data for the construction of an aqueduct from the Colorado River to Los Angeles and other Southern California cities and communities, William Mulholland, chief engineer of the city's Bureau of Water Works and Supply and builder of the present Owens River-Los Angeles Aqueduct, yesterday celebrated the twentieth anniversary of the day he left this city with food and supplies and engineering instruments to make the first surveys for the Aqueduct.

He tramped for forty days through the desert and over the mountains and then returned to Los Angeles with his data. He reported to Gen. Adna R. Chaffee, chairman of the Aqueduct advisory committee that the Aqueduct would cost about $24,500,000 including rights of way and construction cost.

The people voted a $25,000,000 bond issue and Mulholland built the Aqueduct for $500,000 less than the bond fund and $40,000 less than Mulholland's final estimates before the work began. It was built within the chief engineer's time estimate of seven years, and has met all demands made upon it even by the tremendously increased population of Los Angeles.

AUTHOR OF PLAY SUES PRODUCER

Anna B. Briggs Charges Garnet Holme Violated Contract

In a suit, papers for which she prepared and filed herself, Anna B. Briggs, of 333 South Alexandria avenue yesterday charged Garnet Holme and Florence Pierce Reed with breach of contract in connection with the production of a play.

On August 12, 1920, the plaintiff-playwright contends, she contracted with Holme to produce her play, and on September 9 he did so, but "in a manner contrary to the agreement in every particular." He consulted neither the "interests of the play" nor the author in selecting the cast, it is declared, and selected for the leading lady, instead of the "beautiful young girl" called for, one Mrs. Reed, described as "elderly and of large stature."

The leading man, the author complains, was "chosen for his stature" alone and had no other qualifications; neither he nor Mrs. Reed were professional actors, as the contract provided.

It was also charged in the complaint that Holme made unauthorized changes in the play, first by omitting part of the last scene, which was vital to the plot, and second by adding lines without the author's consent.

As for Mrs. Reed, she was engaged as leading lady on the theory she would furnish publicity for the play, but instead of giving it favorable notice, according to the complaint, she "caused to be published under her signature an article satirizing both the play and the plaintiff." The result was that other producers frowned at the play and refused to consider it, the complaint avers.

Damages of $1000 are asked.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

COVINA, Sept. 10.—Mrs. Alice Pitzer, 70 years of age, and a resident of Pomona, was instantly killed at 6 o'clock tonight in an automobile crash in which four cars were mixed.

Mrs. Pitzer was riding in a car with her two granddaughters, Alice and Lois Durward, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Durward of Laverne, on the Foothill Boulevard one mile west of Glendora. At this place another machine was stalled on the road. A motorbus followed by a small car coming toward the car in which the three women were riding attempted to pass the stalled machine at the same time. As a result the small cra collided head-on with the Durward automobile and both machines were smashed to kindling wood.

John Andreas of Upland, the boy driving the small car, had a leg broken in the crash. The girls and other boys were shaken only.

PLAN NINE EVENING ACCOUNTING CLASSES

Nine evening courses in accounting are to be given in metropolitan college at the University of Southern California, it was announced yesterday, by Emery E. Olson, director of the school. Four teach the fundamentals of bookkeeping up to partnership and corporation accounting. Then application to specific businesses is taken up, after which comes the study of cost accounting, accounting systems, auditing, income tax law and procedure and certified accountant problems. A staff of seven instructors, headed by Dr. Wilbur Morton, dean of the school of commerce of the University, will give the course. Metropolitan college is located in the Transportation Building, Seventh and Los Angeles streets. The courses begin the 18th inst.

WOMAN RUN DOWN BY TRUCK MAY DIE

Mrs. Luella B. Nease, 54 years of age, of 2159 Federal avenue, was hurt, probably mortally, yesterday, when she was knocked down by a mail truck in front of the Southern Pacific station. She suffered a basal skull fracture and internal injuries, according to Dr. Dodge at Receiving Hospital. Mrs. Nease was on her way to meet her mother at a train; she had not seen her for several years. The truck driver was Jack Spears of 709 East Sixth street.

SALESMEN TO DEBATE

Motor Car Dealers Will Dine and Discuss Business Topics

The regular monthly meeting of the Sales Managers' Association of the Los Angeles Motor Car Dealers will take place tonight in the ladies' dining-room of the Los Angeles Athletic Club. A feature of the evening's program will be a debate on the subject of whether a large or a small sales force gets the most business and is most satisfactory. Directors of the dealer body will serve as judges. George L. McLeod of the Albertson Motor Company and Ray Wise of Howard Auto will be opposed by Ted Sherwood of Ralph Hamlin's, and Mr. Hadley of the Lord Motor Company. The latter pair will favor the smaller sized force.

BIBLE DRAMA TO CLOSE

Final Performance of Pilgrimage Play Comes Saturday Night

Only three more performances of the Pilgrimage Play, Life of the Christ, and this pretentious biblical spectacle with its beautiful scenic effects will close its fifth annual season, the last presentation of the play to be given Saturday night, after a successful run of ten weeks, at the Pilgrimage Theater in the little canyon opening into the foothills at Cahuenga and Highland avenues.

Under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce of Ontario, a group of residents of the foothill city will visit the Pilgrimage Theater tonight.

DOWNRIGHT FUNNY JOKE HAS CHANCE

Sure to Get Consideration if Sent to "Local Laughs" Film of "The Times"

Contributors whose jokes haven't found their way into The Times "Local Laughs" film, shown weekly at the California Theater, Los Angeles, may find renewed inspiration in the following paragraphs:

A downright funny joke always has a chance for favorable consideration, even though it can no longer be called strictly original. While originality is desirable, not always can a person without training contrive a joke as skilfully as the professional humorist. Often a familiar joke can be worked out with variations, or it can be given an original twist without weakening its point. If this cannot be done, better let it stand as is.

In analyzing a joke to determine its suitability for the screen, the contributor should ask himself if the joke will make a large audience laugh out loud. Some jokes do; others don't, and perhaps the best way to find out is by viewing "Local Laughs" at one of the many Southern California theaters where it is shown—and listening. All theaters showing the film are listed in the coupon printed elsewhere.

Watch the thirty-word limit. No jokes longer than thirty words can be used. Care should be exercised, too, in boiling down a bit of humor to the prescribed length, to see that it does not lose its readability and effectiveness in being "jumpy" or "skippish."

Perhaps it is needless to add that jokes belonging in the storehouse with the high-wheeled bicycle and other by-gone periods should be allowed to rest in obscurity.

Each week The Times awards a first prize of $5 and other prizes of $3, $2 and twelve of $1 each. Names and addresses of winning contributors are announced on the screen.

Cities of State Lead Country in Phones Used

In proportion to population California cities, with only few exceptions, have more telephones than anywhere else in the United States, the annual report of the telephone and telegraph division of the State Railroad Commission declares. The report was made public yesterday.

Los Angeles has a total of 227 telephones for every 1000 population. San Francisco has 252 for a like number of people.

"Owing to the phenomenal growth of Los Angeles during the last few years telephone installation has not kept pace with the demand," the report says.

Atlantic City, according to the report, has the greatest number of telephones with 337 per 1000 population.

Complaints of telephone subscribers made through the commission would indicate that the fault of service lies with the utilities themselves in that, of the 3952 informal complaints made to the commission, 96.6 per cent were settled in favor of the subscriber, the report shows.

TWO POLICE INJURED IN LONG BEACH CRASH

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Sept. 10.—Two police officers were injured here tonight, one seriously, when a speeding motorcycle crashed into a motor car, throwing one of the officers thirty feet.

The accident was on Seventh street at Walnut avenue. Motorcycle Officer George A. Rheaume was pursuing a fast-moving motor car on his vehicle and was unable to avoid striking the sedan driven by Traffic Officer George H. Brown, who was turning off Seventh street onto Walnut avenue. Brown heard the warning siren of the motorcycle but was unable to escape the collision. The motorcycle struck the automobile a terrific blow on the left side, hurling Rheaume from his seat. He sustained a fractured right arm and right leg and other injuries. At the hospital it was said he will live. Brown sustained severe cuts from flying glass.

Fourteen years ago the first Foreman and Clark store put clothes-selling on a new footing! An upstairs footing, a year-round-low-price footing; a one-profit footing, a personal service footing. Eight years ago the first Foreman and Clark factory put clothes-manufacture on a new basis —a year-round production basis, a no-middleman basis, a guaranteed standardized coast-to-coast quality basis. Both revolutions spread like wildfire! That one store doubled and tripled and soon multiplied itself into a great coast to coast chain, the largest in the world. That first factory led to four more, each larger than the last! Big economies on small production grew into vast economies on huge production! Now half a million garments swing across the country from F & C factories to F & C stores, thence direct to the men who buy them, boost them, want them, wear them, come back for them, save on them, and profit by them!

Dawes Warns of Menace

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 11.—The La Follette independent candidacy was attacked here in its recognized stronghold tonight by Charles G. Dawes, Republican Vice-Presidential nominee, as "the quintessence of demagogism, animated by the vicious purpose of undermining the constitutional foundation of the republic."

Speaking in the Milwaukee Auditorium, Mr. Dawes declared that "in the mass of clap-trap accompanying the La Follette effort we can see one steady purpose always in mind—the attack on the Constitution of the United States," and it was to this "attack" that Mr. Dawes devoted most of his address.

The Republican nominee described Senator La Follette as "the master demagogue," warned against any party attempting to take a position in the half-way ground between "those who favor the Constitution of the United States and those who would destroy its essential parts;" declared this division to be the greatest issue of the campaign, and appealed to the voters of Wisconsin to decide the issue "by a full vote of registered voters, not by the traditional vote which, for the last few years, has been cast in Wisconsin."

Mr. Dawes said he recognized that there were in the country many men who are justly dissatisfied but who are patriots at heart."

WARNS PATRIOTS

"They may be opposed to certain things in the existing order, but they are not opposed to the existing order of things," he added. "I warn them that they should not be deceived by the catch-cry of this master demagogue, endeavoring to amalgamate them with the Socialists, flying the red flag, in an attack on the Constitution of their country."

The Republican candidate concerned with his attack on the attitude of the La Follette movement toward the Constitution an assault on the statements made by Senator La Follette in his Labor Day address.

"In its strong appeal to the prejudices and passions of the people the speech was unusual, but in other way," he asserted. "Never in the history of the United States has the common sense of the American individual received a greater shock. La Follette's speech should raise the question in the minds of the American people—Does he consider us a race of fools?"

Mr. Dawes, in beginning his discussion of the La Follette movement, which he characterized as the culmination of the most dangerous era of demagogism through which this country has ever passed," quoted the declaration of the La Follette platform for
